REBELS MOVE FORWARD FOR NEW ATTACK ON MADRID

Gen. Franco Apparently Has Changed Tactics and Government Army Expects Drives From West and Northeast.

HEAVY FIGHTING IN UNIVERSITY CITY

Also in Boadilla del Monte Near Capital—63 Killed, 200 Hurt in Yesterday's Air Raid—Five Planes Shot Down.

By the Associated Press.

MADRID, Dec. 17.—Heavy fighting between Fascist rebels and Government forces continued far into last night around Boadilla del Monte west of Madrid and in University City in the northwestern part of the capital.

As the civil war entered its sixth month, leaders of Madrid's defense said they were expecting Gen. Francisco Franco, insurgent leader, to send his Moorish Legionnaires and picked troops once more against the capital.

The attack probably would come from the west, it was said, because two insurgent columns already were moving on Majadahonda, eight miles west of Madrid, from Robledo de Chavela, 25 miles west of the capital.

On the northeast, the Fascists marched on Algete, 15 miles from Madrid.

Wide Offensive Indicated.

From these insurgent troop movements, Government military men deduced that Gen. Franco would try to enter Madrid with a far-flung offensive, rather than through the University City section in which some units already have penetrated.

Then, as his next step, it was said, Gen. Franco probably would try to execute a flank movement between Madrid and Valencia, the seat of the Madrid Government for some weeks.

No matter what Gen. Franco's plans, the Government leaders said, he will be faced with "the strongest line of trenches ever thrown around any position."

Officials were noncommittal on reports that the opposing forces had arranged an exchange of 4000 prisoners. It was learned, however, that several hundred Madrid prisoners were released and several others transferred elsewhere.

The Defense Council announced the first capture of German soldiers during the civil war. The prisoners, Government officials said, were taken near Boadilla del Monte.

"Some Germans were killed, some were wounded and several were captured," a spokesman said.

Yesterday's Air Raid.

Sixty-three persons were killed and 200 wounded in the insurgent air raid yesterday. About 100 Government planes took to the air against the invaders and, officials said, shot down four enemy pursuit planes and one bomber.

The insurgent planes, which Government officials declared were of Italian manufacture, dropped 60 bombs on Majadahonda and then dropped more explosives on the thickly-populated Cuatro Caminos district on the northern edge of the capital.

Bombing of Portbou Halts Orange Shipments From Spain.

PERPIGNAN, France, Dec. 17.—Spanish Fascist planes temporarily cut off the supply of Spanish oranges to France and Switzerland yesterday when they bombed a railroad at Portbou, Catalan border town. The explosives destroyed a section of the track and blew to pieces four cars loaded with oranges. Dozens of other orange-filled cars which were standing on sidings could not be moved across the border.

Premier Offers to Accept Mediation On His Own Conditions.

VALENCIA, Spain, Dec. 17.—Germany, Italy and Portugal, ignoring the non-intervention agreement in the Spanish civil war, are sending "planes and gases with which to murder women and children in Madrid," the Spanish Government charged today.

Premier Francisco Largo Caballero, in a note addressed to Great Britain and France, accused foreign allies of the Spanish Fascists with "prolonging the civil war."

He said a French-British mediation proposal was "unjust and impracticable" but offered to accept it on his own conditions. The note did not disclose the conditions.

King Edward Unswerving From First in Decision To Marry Mrs. Simpson

Whether He Could Do So and Keep Crown Discussed in Conversation With American Adviser at Fort Belvedere.

By NEWBOLD NOYES
Confidential Press Adviser to the Former King and Mrs. Simpson.
(Copyright, 1936.)

THIS is the second of a series of articles by Newbold Noyes, associate editor of the Washington Star, son of Frank B. Noyes, president of The Associated Press, and a cousin by marriage of Mrs. Wallis Simpson. Mr. Noyes returned to this country last Monday after 10 days in London as confidential adviser on American press relations to the King and Mrs. Simpson. He went to London at Mrs. Simpson's request.

The ex-King and Mrs. Simpson have authorized these articles and the information in them comes from their own lips and the writer's observations.

They will appear daily and Sunday in the Post-Dispatch until concluded.

AT no time during the months of rumor and gossip that preceded his withdrawal from the English scene did King Edward VIII consider, even for a fleeting moment, giving up the woman he loved.

He had been informed by Premier Stanley Baldwin, both privately and publicly, that a morganatic marriage was not possible under the British form of a constitutional monarchy.

That left two choices, and only two. He could marry Mrs. Simpson and make her his queen, or he could give up his throne and make Mrs. Simpson his wife. The world knows now which choice he made.

"If you marry, sir," I asked King Edward, "the woman you so honor will be one of three things. Correct me if I am wrong."

"What are those three things?" his majesty asked.

"Your morganatic wife, the Queen of England, or, shall we say, Mrs. Windsor, wife of the abdicated King of England."

67 Per Cent Correct.

"Nearly 67 per cent correct," the King said. "But no more. There is no such possibility as morganatic marriage for an English King."

"It would seem apparent then, sir, that there are but three possible outcomes to this situation. Wallis becomes Queen. She becomes Mrs. Windsor, subsequent to your abdication. Or you renounce any intention of marrying her."

"Again only 67 per cent correct, Mr. Noyes. You should confine your possibilities to the first two, the only two that exist."

We were seated at the beautifully-appointed table in the dining room of Fort Belvedere. Mrs. Simpson and her aunt, Mrs. Bessie Merryman of Washington, had left us to return to the living room for after-dinner coffee.

We were having coffee and a liqueur. The King was smoking an American cigarette I had offered him.

It was about two hours after the King had arrived by car from London. The red-liveried butler, standing at the door of the living room where Mrs. Simpson and I were chatting by the fireplace had announced: "His Majesty."

The King's Return.

The King strode swiftly into the room and made his way directly, glancing neither to the left nor to the right, to the side of Mrs. Simpson. She rose from her arm chair and dropped a graceful curtsy as he took her hand. He bowed slightly over her hand and, in response to her inquiry, assured her that he was not tired after his day in London and his 30-mile drive to Fort Belvedere.

Then he turned to Mrs. Merryman, who had returned to the living room after going upstairs to dress for dinner. He addressed her as "Aunt Bessie." He invariably does.

There followed a very formal introduction of me by Mrs. Simpson. I saw a smiling, cordial host, dressed in the Highland kilts he so frequently choses for informal evening wear instead of the conventionalized dinner jacket. His Scottish costume, into which he had changed at Buckingham Palace before leaving for his favorite residence, was complete in every detail, even to the sporran, which hung from his belt.

"Glad you were able to come down," he said, shaking hands. "I have heard of you from my friend, Mrs. Simpson, of course."

Apologizes for Delay.

Then, turning to Wallis, he apologized for arriving later than he had expected.

"I was delayed at the palace for some time," he explained. "It has been an unusually busy day."

"No matter, sir," she replied. "We have had plenty to talk about." Mrs. Simpson moved to a small, low table to the right of where we were standing. On it were a bowl of ice and several bottles.

"Would you like a cocktail, sir?" she asked.

"No, thank you," the King said. "I don't think I feel like one."

Mrs. Simpson and I each had an old-fashioned, prepared by her in typical Southern style—bitters on a lump of sugar, a couple of large pieces of ice and a jigger of bourbon whisky.

Small Talk Amid Cares.

As we sipped our drinks, the King talked vividly of small, inconsequential matters. I remember that the subject of grouse-shooting came into the brief conversation—a sport for which he said he was very keen.

It seems strange to me now that a man could chat so carelessly about abstract things when his

$13,000 IN CASH FOR FIRMS VALUED AT $218,000,000

David M. Milton Testifies 6300 Inactive Insurance Shares Also Were Used in Buying Control.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—David M. Milton, president of the Equity Corporation and son-in-law of John D. Rockefeller Jr., told the Securities Commission today he obtained control of companies having resources of $218,000,000 with $13,000 in cash and 6300 shares of an inactive insurance company.

Milton testified the cash and the stock—shares of the American Colonly Insurance Co.—were used to acquire control of Consolidated Funds of New York, an investment trust holding insurance stocks. Some of the American Colony shares, he said, were bought by him for as little as $7.

Consolidated Funds, in turn, controlled the Oceanic Insurance Co., which had a one-quarter interest in Equity Corporation, which controlled a majority of the 43 companies which now make up the Equity group structure.

Milton said that last Dec. 31 the Equity Corporation, in addition to its own resources of $33,000,000, controlled the General American Life Insurance Co., with resources of $120,000,000, United Founders with resources of $50,000,000, and the North Star Insurance Co. with resources of $15,000,000.

Milton testified at the commission's general hearing on investment trusts.

POPE SUFFERS SETBACK WHILE TALKING TO VISITOR

Doctors Atttribute Patient's Extreme Fatigue to Excessive Duties During Day.

By the Associated Press.

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 17.—Pope Pius suffered what was described by his physician as a "setback" tonight in his recent progress toward recovery from partial paralysis and circulatory congestion.

The weakening spell was reliably reported to have occurred during the evening while he was talking with a visitor. Physicians attributed the Pope's extreme fatigue to excessive activity during the day.

One of the doctors was reported to have taken advantage of the occasion to emphasize once more the necessity for the Pope to refrain from every possible duty. Previously, the patient was said to have passed a "satisfactory day."

PRIZE CONTEST HELD ILLEGAL

Mrs. Harriman Loses Decision in District of Columbia Court.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The National Conference for Legalizing Lotteries, headed by Mrs. Oliver Harriman of New York, lost in the District of Columbia Supreme Court today its fight to establish legality of a $60,000 "prize contest" conducted last May.

Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue said the contest was "essentially a game of chance." He declared Postmaster-General Farley's action barring the organization from use of the mails was justifiable. Attorneys for the conference said they would file an appeal with the U. S. Court of Appeals.

EAGLE ATTACKS FISHERMEN

Killed After Fight, When It Seizes Fish Missourian Hooked.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Dec. 17.—When K. H. Brewer of Springfield hooked a five-pound bass on the Lake of the Ozarks today, an eagle dropped from the sky and caught the fish in its talons.

Brewer swung an oar at the bird. It turned on him and M. M. Odom and Dan Clark, his fishing companions. After a stiff fight they killed the eagle.

PROTEST MEETING ON JURY'S REFUSAL TO GO INTO FRAUDS

Rally to Demand Special Grand Jury to Investigate Bond Election—Set for Monday Night.

AMAZED BY ACTION OF JUDGE PADBERG

Foreman of September Grand Jury Thought Next Would Be Vigorously Instructed.

The Citizens Non-Partisan Committee, which opposed the river front bond issue election of September, 1935, announced today that a mass meeting would be held at the Municipal Auditorium Monday night at 8:30 o'clock to protest against the refusal of the December term grand jury to investigate the wholesale fraud perpetrated in that election.

Maj. James L. Barngrove, foreman of the September term grand jury, which was "appalled" by evidence of "open and blatant fraud" uncovered in its investigation of the August primary, said to reporters today that he was surprised that the December grand jury, which succeeded his, had not been instructed by Circuit Judge Eugene L. Padberg to continue the election fraud inquiry.

Paul O. Peters, chairman of the Citizens' Non-Partisan Committee, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that resolutions to be offered at the mass meeting would demand removal of the December grand jury and impaneling of a special grand jury to continue investigation of election frauds. The meeting will be held in Assembly Hall No. 1.

Speakers at the meeting will include the Rev. Dr. John F. Caskey, pastor of University Methodist Church; Dr. George W. Williams, chairman of the Gravois District Taxpayers' Association, and A. H. de Busche, a director of the Grand Boulevard Association.

Barngrove's Statement.

Maj. Barngrove said members of the grand jury of which he was foreman "naturally supposed that all members of the bench would be horrified at the conditions discovered and that the Judge's instructions to the succeeding grand jury would be even more vigorous than those received by us."

In impaneling the present grand jury last week, Judge Padberg gave only routine instructions, leaving it to Circuit Attorney Franklin Miller to advise the jury about election fraud matters. Disregarding Miller's advice, the grand jury decided by vote of eight to four not to investigate the fraudulent river front bond issue election of September, 1935, concerning which Miller had prepared evidence for presentation. A majority vote of the grand jurors is sufficient to decide what matters it will consider, but to return indictments nine votes are necessary.

Maj. Barngrove recalled that Circuit Judge Robert J. Kirkwood, who impaneled the September grand jury, had specifically instructed it to make a thorough investigation of election frauds, and that the investigation had resulted in indictment of 66 precinct officials and two other persons on felony charges.

In view of the gross fraud shown by the September jury's investigation, Maj. Barngrove said, that grand jury assumed that its successor would continue the inquiry and did not think it necessary to make a formal recommendation to that effect in its final report.

"I state most emphatically," he added, "that the September term grand jury does not feel any responsibility for the failure of the December jury to continue the investigation."

The June term grand jury, which devoted itself chiefly to investigation of padded registration but indicted seven persons on felony charges in connection with voting in the August primary, recommended in its final report that the September grand jury "and later grand juries" should investigate the river front bond issue election and the primary elections of 1934 and 1936. John J. Griffin, vice-president of the Mutual Bank & Trust Co., was foreman of that grand jury. Its investigation of registration padding resulted in 23 indictments on misdemeanor charges.

Maj. Barngrove is president of the Barngrove Realty Co., and lives at 6110 Waterman avenue. The foreman of the new grand jury is Patrick R. FitzGibbon, a tax consultant, who lives at 5619 Bartmer avenue.

Four for Going Ahead.

Two of the four members of the December grand jury who wanted to go ahead with the election fraud investigation are John J. Kaske, 3827 Bowen street, service manager for the Westinghouse Electric Sup-

MRS. EMILY MILLIKEN LAMBERT.

WOOSTER LAMBERT DIVORCED; WIFE GETS $1,600,000 ALIMONY

She Is Also Given Custody of Children in Decree Granted Hour and 40 Minutes After Suit Is Filed.

Mrs. Emily Milliken Lambert, wife of J. D. Wooster Lambert, multi-millionaire sportsman of St. Louis and New York, obtained a divorce, sole custody of their two children, and gross alimony of $1,600,000 today in a decree signed by Judge Eugene J. Sartorius after a brief hearing in his chambers, an hour and 40 minutes after the divorce petition was filed.

Reporters were barred from the hearing by Judge Sartorius, who said he did so at the request of counsel for the principals. The Judge suggested that reporters obtain the testimony from the court stenographer, but immediately after the hearing the stenographer went to work in another courtroom, and later was engaged in taking depositions.

The testimony, Judge Sartorius said, followed closely the allegations of the petition which were general indignities and mental cruelty.

Wife Says He Was Indifferent.

The petition alleged that Lambert absented himself from home for substantial periods without just cause; that his attitude toward his wife was one of indifference; that he had failed to try to be agreeable to her friends, and that he had no interest in their life together.

Lambert's attitude toward his wife, the petition added, created an atmosphere of manifest and constant unhappiness in their home which was an undesirable influence on their children.

Mrs. Lambert alleged that the attitude her husband took toward her was so habitual and constant as to constitute mental cruelty and that it had destroyed her happiness and impaired her health.

Under the terms of the decree Mrs. Lambert is to receive the $1,600,000 in "money value" to consist of properties selected by agreement between her counsel, Daniel N. Kirby, and George C. Willson, attorney for Lambert.

Yearly Yield to Be $45,000.

It was explained that the $1,600,000 alimony was agreed on as a sum which would yield an income of $45,000 a year, enabling the plaintiff to live in the manner to which she had been accustomed as the wife of the wealthy sportsman.

Character witnesses for Mrs. Lambert were Mrs. Joseph L. Werner of Ladue road, and Mrs. Lola Niedringhaus of the St. Louis Country Club Grounds. Lambert was not present for the hearing, but his entry of appearance was filed by Willson.

In addition to the $1,600,000, Mrs. Lambert is to retain the furnishings of the residence at 17 Beekman place, New York, where she and Lambert "sojourned" until their separation last Nov. 27, and the town car kept at that residence. Mrs. Lambert is studying art in New York.

There is also provision for support of the children, J. D. Wooster Lambert Jr., 10 years old, and Jarvis Winn Lambert, 7. Lambert is to pay for each of them $100 a month until he reaches the age of 12, and gradually increasing amounts up to $400 a month at the age of 18. The payments will be discontinued when the children reach the age of 21.

Lambert May Visit Children.

It is agreed that Lambert may visit the children at "reasonable times," although the mother is to have sole custody.

Mrs. Lambert, daughter of the late John T. Milliken, multi-millionaire chemical manufacturer, was Lambert's second wife. They were married Sept. 26, 1925, in Denver, Colo.

Lambert's first wife, who was Miss Julia Marion Turner, also obtained a speedy divorce and a hear-

'FLIVVER' PLANE DESIGNER HURT IN CRASH DURING TEST

Hayden Campbell St. Joseph Suffers Head Injury in Trial at Washington.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Hayden Campbell, St. Joseph (Mo.) pilot, was injured today when a "flivver" plane he brought to Washington to demonstrate before Bureau of Air Commerce officials crashed at Bolling Field.

Attendants at Casualty Hospital, where Campbell was taken, said he suffered a head injury, the seriousness of which had not been determined.

Walter Brownell, a test pilot in the Bureau of Air Commerce, who was riding with Campbell as an unofficial observer, escaped injury. Brownell told officials Campbell was putting his small plane through speed tests when the oil pressure failed, causing the motor to "freeze" and the plane to crash.

The plane was powered with a regular automobile engine of the eight-cylinder V-type.

90 FUR SCRAPERS STRIKE; OWNERS PROMISE MORE PAY

Men Demanded Increase for Handling Skunk and Opossum Skins.

Ninety members of Fur Scrapers' Union, Local No. 31, went on strike for higher pay today at 10 raw fur buying houses along Main street.

Scrapers, who are employed for only about 10 weeks a year, beginning Dec. 1, are paid on a piece work rate. The controversy was over the union's demand for an increase of one-fourth of a cent in the rate paid for scraping skunk and opossum skins. They have been getting 3 cents for skunk and 1¾ cents for opossum.

B. J. Teach, secretary of the St. Louis Raw Fur & Wool Association, said the demand would be granted and that workers were expected to return to work tomorrow. Gus Orris, business agent for the union, could not be reached.

TEACHER WHO KILLED FATHER RECONVICTED

Gets 20 Years, the Maximum for Second Degree Murder, at Second Trial.

By the Associated Press.

WISE, Va., Dec. 17.—A Wise County jury today convicted Edith Maxwell, 22-year-old former schoolteacher, of second degree murder in the death of her father, Trigg Maxwell, and fixed her punishment at 20 years.

In a previous trial Miss Maxwell was convicted of killing her father, a blacksmith and miner, and sentenced to 25 years in prison. But the Virginia Supreme Court gave her a new trial on the ground that the evidence at the first trial did not justify a verdict of first-degree murder.

The jury was out an hour and 20 minutes today. Miss Maxwell burst into sobs and buried her head on the shoulder of her brother, Earl Maxwell, on hearing the verdict.

Her punishment is the maximum permissable for second-degree murder in Virginia.

M. J. Fulton of the defense staff, immediately announced he would appeal the conviction.

Miss Maxwell later said, "This sure knocks out my Christmas."

Her 13-year-old sister, Mary Kathryn, the only one of the family to testify to events in the home the night Trigg Maxwell was killed, stood behind her with other members of the family. The child wept.

Judge Ezra T. Carter fixed bail at $15,000, pending arguments on the defense plea to set aside the verdict. He said they would be heard not later than March 1.

The Court continued until the March term the case against Mrs. Ann Maxwell, mother of Edith, indicted jointly with her for the killing of Maxwell.

TROTZKY'S PERMIT EXPIRES BUT HE STAYS ON IN NORWAY

Government Can Do Nothing but Try to Cut Cost of His Internment.

By the Associated Press.

OSLO, Norway, Dec. 17. — The expiration today of Leon Trotzky's permit to reside in Norway created an impasse for the exiled revolutionary leader and the Norwegian Government.

It appeared Trotzky would go right on as a virtual prisoner of Norway. The Government can do little about it except to try to cut the cost of his internment. Norway has insistently refused to extend Trotzky's asylum. He, on the other hand, has announced he would refuse an offer of refuge in Mexico except with full freedom of political activity. It was understood here that would not be granted.

LABORATORY FUMES KILL CINCINNATI U. CHEMIST

Electrician Overcome When Overturned Tank Poisons Atmosphere of Building.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 17.—Fred Thamann, research chemist at the University of Cincinnati Medical College, died today in a laboratory filled with deadly fumes, the result of overturning of a tank filled with hydrogen sulphide.

David Birrell, an electrician, was overcome by the fumes. Hospital physicians said his condition was serious. Eight or ten university employes fled the building as the fumes spread through it.

University officials expressed opinion that Thamann had bumped into the tank as he walked into the storeroom and knocked it over. He was overcome before he could get out.

KANSAS CITY VOTE FRAUDS DETAILED FOR GRAND JURY

Poll Watcher's Affidavit Says He Was Beaten for Challenging Fakes —740 of 748 Ballots Fraudulent Another Swears.

STORY OF THE ORIGIN OF FEDERAL INQUIRY

Lop-Sided Counts in 30 Precincts — Wholesale Ballot Box Stuffing by Judges and Clerks of Election Is Charged.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 17.—Affidavits describing amazingly corrupt conditions in Kansas City in the November election, naming officials and detailing their methods, are included in evidence for submission to the federal grand jury investigating charges of election fraud here.

Provided with ballot boxes of certain precincts, impounded by the court, the jury is engaged today in checking their contents with the officially announced totals while agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation are prepared to make any recanvasses that may be deemed necessary.

Although the immediate scope of the investigation includes only some 30 precincts which had fantastically lop-sided totals in the official returns, other evidence has been obtained and is accumulating daily which will extend the investigation to other precincts throughout the city.

A Challenger's Affidavit.

One of the affidavits in the grand jury's hands is from an attorney who served as a Republican challenger at a polling place in one of the downtown wards. This polling place, he stated, was in a saloon which remained open throughout the election day and continued to serve drinks. The saloon contained three voting booths. Of 748 straight ticket Democratic votes and five Landon votes officially returned, the challenger expressed an opinion that not more than eight of the Democratic votes were actually cast by qualified voters.

"I saw the election officials at the counter marking these ballots and putting them in the boxes," he said in his affidavit, "and one interesting thing that happened was that the amendment ballots did not arrive until about 9:30 a. m., after something like 390 votes had been put in the ballot box. When these amendment ballots came these same officials had them marked so that they voted 'yes' and put them in the boxes so that the number of amendment votes would tally with the total number of votes cast in the precinct. My protest against such action was unavailing."

During the count, he continued, one clerk took an unmarked ballot "over to a pool table," marked it for a straight Democratic ticket and put it back with the other ballots.

Irregularities Throughout Day.

Throughout the day, the affidavit continued, the polling place was filled with a group of men who were not officials and who had no right in the place at all.

"Gambling was going on in the voting place the greater part of the afternoon," he went on, "and about 6:30 one of these hangers-on announced, 'We have gotten all the votes in now and from now on we will take just the 'legits'—by which he meant the legitimate voters of the precinct."

When a voter appeared, the challenger said, an election official would say, "Well, I suppose you want to vote the straight Democratic ticket?" and would receive an affirmative reply, whereupon the official would mark it and drop it in the box. The affidavit said he could not challenge very often because he was not familiar with the precinct and when similar names appeared at different addresses officials would explain to him they represented "cousins."

Telling of his attempt to canvass the precinct before the election, he stated that his Democratic partner refused to canvass hotels, saying "it was just as important we canvass the City Hall and the City Market."

Finally, he said, a few hotels were visited and "we found a printed list on the door and it was quite apparent that the number of people supposed to be registered from

RFC HEAD TELLS OF INQUIRY INTO LOAN TO MO. PAC.

Jesse Jones Asked Attorney-General if Concealment of Terminal Transaction Violated Law.

LIMITATIONS ACT A BAR TO ACTION

Baldwin's Efforts to Inform I. C. C. of Van Sweringen Deal Developed Before Senate Committee.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, disclosed today that he had called on Attorney-General Cummings to determine whether the Missouri Pacific Railroad Co. violated the RFC law in concealing facts at the time that the railroad applied for RFC loans in 1932.

Jones had a letter sent to Cummings setting forth all details surrounding the loans, including the fact that the Missouri Pacific application for a loan did not tell of the railroad's contract to buy terminal properties at Kansas City and St. Joseph, Mo., from a Van Sweringen holding company.

Assistant Attorney-General Joseph B. Keenan replied that the law had apparently been violated. But he added: "It appears, however, from the dates set out that action would be barred by the three-year statute of limitations, inasmuch as the offense was consummated at the time the applications containing the false statements were filed."

Law Violation Suggested.

Jones, appearing briefly before the Senate Committee investigating railroad finance, said he had pointed out to Cummings that apparently section 16-A of the RFC Act had been violated. This section provides severe penalties, including a fine up to $5000 and imprisonment of not more than two years, for anyone found guilty of making "any statement knowing it to be false or whoever willfully overvalues any security for the purpose of obtaining for himself or any applicant any loan."

Jones' action was taken after John W. Barriger, chief examiner of the railroad division of RFC, had submitted a memorandum pointing out that on applications based on "false balance sheets" the Missouri Pacific had obtained $17,100,000 between Feb. 15, 1932, and April 29, 1932. The railroad has obtained a total of $23,100,000 from the RFC, Jones said.

Barriger's memorandum was dated April 25, 1935. Jones called the apparent violation of the law to the attention of the Attorney-General on Oct. 5 of the same year and Keenan replied Oct. 24.

Concealment on Second Loan.

On March 17, 1932, Barriger's memorandum set forth, the Missouri Pacific made application for still another loan. In this application the Missouri Pacific said that "several events" had made necessary the new appeal. But the application said nothing about the $400,000 payments called for under the terminal properties deal, although only a short time before such payment was made. Barriger's memorandum declared: "Had the disclosures been made, the Terminal Shares contracts would have been the subject of investigation and their unfairness would then have been revealed. The consequence would doubtless have been that the application for the loan would have been rejected in the absence of a cancellation or substantial modification of the Terminal Shares contracts."

Barriger followed Jones on the stand and testified that Missouri Pacific accounting practices, called "false" by Joseph B. Eastman of the ICC, had had the effect of keeping up values of Missouri Pacific securities. He substantiated the charges that Eastman and Chairman Wheeler of the Senate investigating committee have brought against the railroad in course of earlier hearings.

"I might add," Jones said, in concluding his brief appearance before the committee, "that I regard the loans as fully and amply secured."

Wyer and Johnson Testify.

Wheeler recalled William Wyer, treasurer and Fred B. Johnson, vice-president and chief financial officer of the Missouri Pacific, after Jones' disclosures, to obtain from them details of how applications for the RFC loans were made.

Wyer said that as treasurer he had sworn to the loan applications, Johnson repeated his previous statement to the committee—that if he had known in 1931 what he knows now, he would not have listed the terminal payments as "current assets" as they were shown on Missouri Pacific balance sheets for 1931, 1932 and 1933.

Wheeler sought to show that cash forecasts, submitted to the RFC in connection with loan applications, had been drawn up in the St. Louis offices of Missouri Pacific but had been altered by Wyer in the Clevland offices in such a way as to conceal the $400,000 payments. Wyer entered into a long explanation of why he had made the changes in the forecasts.

Wheeler disclosed that working papers used in working out these changes had been destroyed.

Baldwin's Efforts.

Efforts of L. W. Baldwin, acting head of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, to get permission from the Van Sweringens and high officers in their holding company system to give the Interstate Commerce Commission the facts in the terminal deal, were disclosed at today's session.

Chairman Wheeler of the investigating committee put into the record a series of letters dealing with the request of the Interstate Commerce Commission for "full information" about the deal. Reports of it had appeared in the newspapers and Oliver E. Sweet, director of the ICC Bureau of Finance, had written to Baldwin for verification.

Baldwin, on receipt of Sweet's letter, wrote to John P. Murphy, Van Sweringen attorney, asking for the "benefit of any suggestions" that Murphy or Herbert Fitzpatrick, chief of the Van Sweringen legal staff, might care to make. With this request Baldwin inclosed a copy of a "proposed" reply to the ICC request.

"Redraft" of Baldwin's Reply.

Murphy sent back to Baldwin a "redraft" of the proposed reply "containing some suggestions we thought might be helpful for your consideration in replying to Mr. Sweet." Baldwin soon afterward wrote to Sweet explaining that the contract was subject to "certain terms and conditions." There has been put into the record previously an opinion by a firm of New York lawyers, drafted at the request of the Van Sweringens, stating that the contract for the terminal properties was absolutely binding on Missouri Pacific.

Several months before this correspondence, the I. C. C. had made a request to T. M. Niven, general auditor for the Missouri Pacific, for information about the contract entered into with a Van Sweringen holding company for the purchase of the Terminal properties. At that time Horace Stringfellow in the St. Louis offices of the Missouri Pacific wrote to Murphy that Baldwin was "very anxious to get your suggestions before reply is made to this letter."

"I will appreciate it," Stringfellow wrote, "if you will give me your comments by telephone or wire, if you prefer, as we feel this letter should be answered promptly."

"Option Not Purchase."

In the files of Fred P. Johnson, vice-president of Missouri Pacific and chief accounting officer, a copy of the letter finally sent under Niven's signature was found. On it was a pencil notation, "approved over phone by John P. Murphy." Of the circumstances of the Terminal deal the letter said:

"This company (Missouri Pacific) has not as yet acquired control of these corporations; however, a contract has been entered into between this company and the owners of the stock of such corporations whereby this company is given an option to purchase such stock upon certain terms and conditions, all subject to the approval of the commission."

The opinion by the New York lawyers stated that the contract was not conditional upon the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Wheeler, questioning Murphy, recalled the testimony of Johnson on Tuesday that he had not been informed of the opinion or of other circumstances surrounding the Terminal transaction. Johnson declared that if he had known the facts brought out by the investigation, he would have followed different methods in recording the deal on Missouri Pacific's books.

"What you were doing was trying to deceive the Interstate Commerce Commission," Wheeler said to Murphy. The latter denied this.

"Then the way that the Van Sweringen interests deal with the I. C. C. is to be so technical as to give them as little information as possible. Anyone who reads these letters can come to only one conclusion."

Sold Stocks to Themselves.

Another witness told how the Van Sweringens used holding company control of railroads to sell the stocks of one of their lines suffering losses from the depression to another of their lines which was prosperous.

For several days it has been expected that Baldwin would be called to testify. Max Lowenthal, committee counsel, said late yesterday that Baldwin was ill in St. Louis and it might be some time before he would be able to come to Washington. Wheeler indicated that it might not be necessary to call him, since the investigation was soon to go on to another phase of railroad financing.

The "profit" from this transaction went to pay a debt at the Van Sweringens' New York brokers, Paine, Webber & Co. This occurred at a time when the two financiers were making a desperate effort to hold their railroad empire together in the face of drastic business decline.

The witness who verified details of the transaction between the Nickel Plate and the Chesapeake & Ohio, most prosperous road in the Van Sweringen system, was J. J. Anzalone, controller of several holding companies created by the Van Sweringens.

"This is another case," said Chairman Wheeler of the Senate committee, "where it is a serious question whether or not there was a violation of the Sherman anti-trust law as Commissioner Eastman pointed out in relation to another transaction developed here."

In the transaction between Nickel Plate and Chesapeake & Ohio, the C. & O. made a down payment on a contract for $382,300 shares of Nickel Plate stock of $3,440,700. Wheeler tried to show the the purchase contract required C. & O. to pay a higher price for the Nickel Plate shares than the market price at that time. But Anzalone said he could not remember whether that was true or not.

MILWAUKEE JOURNAL DEAL APPROVED, HIGH BID REJECTED

Nieman Stock Bought by Niece and Publishers; Annenberg Offered $750 a Share More.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 17.—Sale of 1100 shares of Milwaukee Journal stock at $3500 a share was approved today by County Judge D. E. McDonald.

The stock, owned by the estate of the late Lucius W. Nieman, founder and editor of the Journal, was sold to the Journal Company and Miss Faye McBeath, a niece of Nieman.

Consideration of an offer of $4250 a share submitted by Moses L. Annenberg, publisher of the Philadelphia Inquirer and other publications, was refused by the Court.

Under the sale plan, a block of stock in excess of $1,000,000 will be made available for employe participation in the newspaper's ownership. Stockholder employes will have a majority of the stock and control will be vested in Harry J. Grant, publisher.

Judge McDonald said, "I don't think that the stock should be exploited and put on the auction block to the highest bidder."

The will stated that the trustees did no have to sell the stock to the highest bidder and emphasized the importance of "continuity of control" of the paper.

Stark Calls on Pendergast.

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 17.—Governor-elect Stark called yesterday on T. J. Pendergast at the latter's political headquarters, but after the meeting the Kansas City Democratic chieftain said the visit was entirely personal. Pendergast said no questions concerning patronage or politics were discussed.

Affidavits Describe Kansas City Vote Frauds

there could not have lived there because of want of room capacity."

A report to a Republican election commissioner got no results, he concluded.

Another Challenger's Story.

Another affidavit, prepared by an attorney who was a Republican challenger in another ward, told how his challenges were nullified. He described a beating he got when he continued to try to challenge. His affidavit named the officials on duty at the polling place and included the names and addresses of eight citizens who appeared and tried to vote but were told by officials that they had already voted.

He said that when he challenged a voter an official would promptly fill out a house-holder's affidavit which the voter would sign without being sworn. In response to his complaints, he said, two deputy election commissioners finally arrived, and one of them turned to him, saying, "I hear that you are going to make over one hundred challenges here today. Don't you know you are going to get into trouble?"

Shortly afterward, he added, a young man appeared and asked the deputy commissioner to step outside and the deputy commissioner did so. Within a few minutes, the challenger continued, three men pushed their way back of the rail and assaulted him, one holding him, while another beat another Republican official.

"I was hit about 20 times but could not see just what was going on," he said, "because I was trying to protect my head with my arms. My poll book was grabbed from my hand."

Business as Usual, Afterward.

The deputy election commissioner, he said, then ordered the judges to resume their work and asked him if he was going to continue to challenge. When he replied that he was, the deputy commissioner asked him, "Haven't you had enough? Do you want a house to fall on you next time?"

The challenger said he went to his apartment, treated his bruises, and then returned to the booth, but most of the voting was over.

He described irregularities in counting and noted that one young woman was recorded as voting although she was attending school in Minneapolis at the time.

Telling of his pre-election experiences, he said that it was his duty as a precinct captain to check on persons who had received court orders to be registered—about 10,000 were put on the books at the last minute by this method—but he could not make much headway at one hotel, because the management flatly refused to check the register. He tried to verify his list by telephone, he said, but finally discovered that his calls to individuals in the check list were being switched to the same person.

U. S. Agents Prepared to Act.

Agents of the Bureau of Investigation are prepared not only to obtain affidavits such as these and others of those voting whose votes were not officially counted—as was done by the Post-Dispatch for its expose of the Jefferson Memorial bond issue election frauds—but are checking data submitted by the Citizens' League, other interested sources and scores of tips which have poured in since United States District Judge Albert L. Reeves delivered his charge last Monday to the grand jury to "move on" those responsible for tampering with the ballot.

It is learned that, besides the matters mentioned, material has been made available to the Government, directly and indirectly, by members of factions in the Democratic organization not allied at primary time, at least, with the dominant Democratic machine of Thomas J. Pendergast. Such data is supplementary to evidence submitted by members of both the Republican and Democratic parties who are not affiliated with party machines.

U. S. Attorney's Statement.

Maurice M. Milligan, United States District Attorney, a Democrat not affiliated with any machine, declared he was determined to "go to the bottom of this matter, let the chips fall where they may."

Judge Reeves said: "This is no gesture or political move. It strikes at the very heart of our Constitution. It involves the constitutional right of each citizen to cast his vote without danger of neutralization by illegal votes."

Typical of information received since the impaneling of the grand jury was that volunteered by a hotel clerk, who stated that disclosure of his name would cost him his job.

"So long as I keep my mouth closed and say nothing I can keep working," he said. He said he had a wife and two children.

This man, after telling how a machine boss had instructed him to vote in another precinct under an assumed name, told also of a "pad" at his hotel.

"Right here in this hotel as well as many other hotels," he said, "there are supposed to be a number of fellows registered as living here. I myself and the other clerk were instructed more than once that when the men came to check up we were to say, 'Yes, he rooms here.' But if we should say 'no' we would just be out of a job. At my hotel, as at many others, there were not more than half of the voters registered from here who were bona fide voters."

Election Day Experiences.

Telling of his experiences on the last election day, the clerk related:

"Early in the morning the precinct captain came to the hotel. He talked to the manager a minute. Then they called me in and I was told to go among residents at the hotel and find out how many were going to the polls. I did as instructed.

"When I gave the precinct captain the list, he checked off the names of those who said they would go to the polls and told me that if any of those who were absent when I made my canvass came in to tell them that they would be voted and not to show up."

It was so arranged, he said, that election clerks and judges who might be hard to handle would go to lunch in a body and fraudulent votes would be cast in their absence.

The hotel clerk asserted that among his personal friends was a WPA worker who balked at voting and revoting under an assumed name, but was told "if you want to eat, help out here," and was promised protection if he got into trouble.

Potential Witnesses Afraid.

The fear inspired in some potential witnesses was manifest in the clerk's letter. He wrote:

"The worst of the thing is—how can it be broken up? I cannot myself come up here and testify. You see I am right here among the boys. I am dealing with them. The manager himself said he did not like the way of voting but said he rented from one of the clique; that he was a little behind on his rent and did not dare oppose or expose them. If he did he would be thrown out.

"I want to ask what you would do in such a case. I hope you carry on and get to the bottom of it. There are many poor individuals like myself who are forced into the clique against our wishes. If it were not for my family, I would not stand for it now, but you know I must look out for them. There is plenty of evidence if you only could get to the right ones. It is the big shots who are doing the dirty work."

Congressional Races Involved.

Consideration of the grand jury today was focused on the surprising returns from certain precincts in the congressional balloting—one of the factors, since it involves federal offices, that makes the federal investigation possible.

Provided with the tally sheets, ballots and records of the precincts and empowered to subpena any officials or other witnesses, the grand jury turned its attention to the voting on C. Jasper Bell, successful Democratic candidate for Congress, and Paul A. Byrum, Republican, and on Congressman Joseph B. Shannon, Democratic winner, and L. R. Johnson, Republican.

While the margins in the Roosevelt landslide left no doubt as to the victors, the following lop-sided totals suggested need of scrutiny:

Judge Reeves' action in ordering the investigation was not spontaneous nor the impulse of himself alone.

The "inside story," as told, goes back about a year. The present investigation is supported by United States District Judge Merrill E. Otis, who has conferred frequently with Judge Reeves and would have given similar instructions to the grand jury had it been his turn to deliver the charge. The two judges here alternate in impaneling grand juries. Neither judge would take action on requests that the Federal Government attempt to remedy the acknowledged corrupt situation here until definite information was forthcoming on violations of federal laws, which would come under their jurisdiction.

A committee waited on the judges prior to election with information about the August primary, but it was decided that only the election itself, not the primary, would fall under federal jurisdiction, and only then in certain circumstances, but the grand jury may refer to the primary to establish points in its investigation.

The two judges were motivated also by a determination that any investigation should be free of political color, and the committee agreed unanimously.

Although individuals and delegations had approached both judges at various times, the committee which waited on Judge Reeves shortly before the election included Herman M. Langworthy, chairman of the platform committee at the Republican national convention; Henry M. Ess, a delegate to that convention, and I. N. Watson, Henry Bunschu and D. J. Haff, attorneys.

Basis for Federal Inquiry.

Federal intervention in the local situation is based on the primary circumstance that federal offices are involved. The Federal Corrupt Practices Act makes it unlawful to affect a vote by expenditure—Judge Reeves has pointed out that a promise or even a dinner might come within this provision. Another federal statute forbids and punishes conspiracy to intimidate any citizen "in the free exercise or enjoyment of any right or privilege secured to him by the Constitution or laws of the United States." It carries a maximum fine of $5000 and imprisonment of 10 years. It applies specifically to ballots cast for members of Congress and presidential electors.

In citing these two statutes to Judge Reeves, the United States District Attorney's office disclosed that it had obtained evidence that ballots had been recorded falsely or not counted at all, and that further examination of election paraphernalia might disclose "various other devices employed to defeat the intent of the voters."

Judge Reeves, in a communication to the District Attorney's office, directed attention to a third federal statute, one forbidding the use of a false certificate of naturalization for the purpose of registering to vote. Whoever aids in such a registration, the Judge pointed out, is a principal in the crime.

The Judge had in mind information that Mexicans, not citizens of this country, had been voted. He added: "From the data furnished me it appears that there have been quite flagrant transgressions and it seems that the evidence is available." Immigration authorities, he remarked, are familiar with some of these registrants "and know that they were born in Mexico and have not been naturalized."

Judge Reeves' Instructions.

In his charge to the grand jury Judge Reeves said in part:

"You can't leave the ballots and voting to the men who go through the streets of the city with machine guns and with licentious plans intimidating, striking, and bludgeoning the honest citizens who are trying to cast their honest votes.

"The Government must look into those cases. A very short time ago, kidnapings were common. Men were taken across the state line and the Government tracked them down until many of the guilty men are in their graves or in Alcatraz. They stopped that crime and the Government will move upon corrupt voting.

"I want to say that if any person or individual who shall insult or intimidate any individual in the exercise of his rights or franchises guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States, then that person is subject to heavy penalties."

The Judge said he or any other citizen was entitled, if voting for President or a Congressman, to know that he would not only be permitted to vote but "that my vote will be honestly counted and not neutralized by the vote of an illegal voter."

The Judge told the grand jury that "if 80 votes were cast and when the booths were closed the votes were certified, there were only four or five certified from such a precinct, then the judges or clerks or somebody is responsible for it. It makes no difference who they are, they are law violators. They are cheating and defrauding the American people of their rights."

The Judge assured the jurors that ballot boxes and election records would be demanded if needed and that anyone interfering with the inquiry would be regarded as a party to "an overt act of treason."

The Judge added: "You have every good citizen of Missouri and the nation back of you. The public will focus their eyes upon you and welcome you and cheer you as you go forth in your efforts to remove from Kansas City this odium that has been laid upon the city."

In the meantime, the investigation goes forward, despite the cry of "politics" advanced by machine partisans.

GAVE $54,500 TO DEMOCRATS

W. A. Jones, Pittsburgh, Reports Gift to Senate Committee.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—A contribution of $54,500 to the Democratic National Committeet during the campaign was reported to the Senate Campaign Funds Investigating Committee today by Walter A. Jones of Pittsburgh.

Jones also reported he had lent $50,000 to the Pennsylvania State Democratic Committeet and $2000 to the Good Neighbor League which supported President Roosevelt.

U.S. PROSECUTOR CONFOUNDS JONES WITH HIS LETTERS

Witness Admits He Wrote Grace Thomasson She "Need Not Come Down" Day Before Baby Deal.

HE HAD TESTIFIED SHE WAS WITH HIM

Several Days Later He Wrote He Was 'Lonesome' for Her—Cross-Examination Is Completed.

After almost four hours of relentless grilling by United States District Attorney Harry C. Blanton, Attorney Wilfred Jones, the baby broker, completed his cross-examination today before Judge George H. Moore in the trial in which he and three co-defendants are charged with mail fraud in the Muench baby hoax.

Jones and his co-defendants—Mrs. Nellie Tipton Muench, her husband, Dr. Ludwig O. Muench, and Mrs. Helen Berroyer—are charged with being parties to use of the mails in a scheme to defraud Dr. Marsh Pitzman, wealthy bachelor physician, by convincing him falsely that Mrs. Muench was the mother of a child and that he was its father.

Blanton completed his cross-examination this morning in 25 minutes, during which he confounded the witness in two of the most important points of his testimony.

In the first of these he caused the witness to repeat once more that Mrs. Grace Thomasson was his companion when he took from Anna Ware the baby subsequently palmed off by the Muenches as their own. This was on Aug. 17, 1935.

Then he asked Jones if he had written a letter to Mrs. Thomasson on the preceding day, addressing it to her under the name "Jean Tremaine" at Chicago. Jones uneasily admitted that he had and at the prosecutor's direction read the postmark, "St. Louis, Aug. 16, 1935, 2:30 p. m."

"Need Not Come Down."

In the letter, in which Jones discussed Mrs. Thomasson's children, then under his care, he wrote these lines, which were read to the jury: "You need not come down at all this time if you cannot afford it."

Next, he admitted he had written a letter on Aug. 22, five days after taking the Ware baby, in which he told Mrs. Thomasson he was "lonesome," that the month of August had been "a nightmare, and experience I never want to go through again." How, asked the District Attorney, could he explain his statement that he was lonesome, when, according to his story, he had seen Mrs. Thomasson just five days before in St. Louis.

"You can be lonesome any day of your life," the witness replied.

The prosecutor then recalled that the witness had testified yesterday as follows: that when he got the so-called Price baby, predecessor to the Ware child in the baby hoax, after it had been taken to the Muench home, because it was sick, according to his story, he had told Mrs. Thomasson it had enteritis. The prosecutor also recalled that Jones had testified Mrs. Thomasson went with him to the Jewish Hospital with the baby.

Note on Price Baby.

Jones conceded that he had so testified. The District Attorney then gave him a letter he said he had written to Mrs. Thomasson on July 16, five days after the Price child had been taken to the hospital. In it he wrote "it looks like I'm going to have a funeral on my hands" (the baby died that day); that the baby was at Barnes Hospital, that it was "very sick" and "the doctors call it enteritis."

"Why did you feel called upon to tell Mrs. Thomasson the baby had enteritis, when you already had told her that, according to your story, when you took the baby to the hospital," the District Attorney demanded. Jones went into a windy explanation of the enteritis and dysentery, which he said were the same, but made no direct answer.

"And why, if you had taken the baby to Jewish Hospital, did you say Barnes Hospital?" "That was a mistake, everybody makes them," the witness replied.

"That's all," said the prosecutor, and sat down.

Verne R. C. Lacy, counsel for Jones and himself a defendant in pending disbarment suit, then began re-direct examination.

Lacy Produces Carbon Copy.

Lacy exhibited to Jones a typewritten affidavit bearing a signature which Jones identified as that of Mrs. Thomasson. It was sworn to in Chicago Nov. 9, 1935, and in it Mrs. Thomasson asserted she had accompanied Jones on July 11, when he took the Price baby to the Jewish Hospital, and that on Aug. 17 she went with him to the Winner home and took away the child of Anna Ware "for the purpose of adoption." Jones said he typed the statement from information Mrs. Thomasson gave him, making an original and carbon copy, and that she took the papers with her to Chicago. The carbon copy was the one Lacy had. It was read to the jury.

It was not shown that the carbon copy of the purported affidavit bore the signature of a notary.

Over the objection of the Government, the defense then introduced a sheet of paper, identified by Jones as written by Mrs. Thomasson, in which her movements during the baby hoax were detailed. The defense admitted that this statement had been altered in two places, one as to date and the other as to the name of a woman. In the case of the name, the amendment, in ink of a different shade from the rest of the writing, was not legible.

In Custody of Defendants.

Jones testified the statement had been in the custody of Mrs. Muench or her two co-defendants. The reason why the statement was made was not clear from its context, but in it, the writer, identified by Jones through the handwriting as Mrs. Thomasson, said she was in St. Louis on July 11 and Aug. 17, respectively, the dates of the taking of Price and Ware babies from their mothers.

Lacy then introduced a stack of letters from Mrs. Thomasson to Jones. He read one of them. It was all about the salubrious climate of Florida, where Mrs. Thomasson was when she wrote it, March 26, 1935. In it she wrote she expected to be in St. Louis the latter part of April. Her testimony has been that Jones wrote her that spring urging her to come to St. Louis as he had "a big deal" in prospect.

The redirect examination proceeded tediously until the noon recess. Among other things, Jones testified his apartment was forced and ransacked when he was absent, Oct. 10 to 18, 1935, and was again entered some time prior to Dec. 13. On both occasions he found his files scattered about the place, he said.

Talks Until Recess Is Called.

Lacy then asked him about what Mrs. Thomasson said after she had visited Dr. Ben Reitman of Chicago, who, she testified, was to furnish the third baby in the case. Not answering the question directly, the witness went into a rambling account of the movements of himself and Mrs. Thomasson between that date, Dec. 16, and the first of the year. He had been talking on this subject for more than 20 minutes when the luncheon recess was taken.

Jones Continues Testimony at Afternoon Session.

When the afternoon session began, Jones testified that when he was in Chicago with Mrs. Thomasson Dec. 17, 1935, she told him her friend, Mortimer Coleman, had "conceived a plan to lead Mrs. Muench's Kansas City lawyers to believe Mrs. Thomasson could return the real Ware baby, then to expose the plan to newspapers." Mrs. Thomasson, Jones declared, said Coleman believed he would "name his own price," and added that the "real Ware baby" was with Coleman's relatives and only he could return it.

Jones said that he had made the telephone calls Dec. 11 to 13 from the Muench home to Mrs. Thomasson in Chicago. His testimony dragged on slowly as the afternoon progressed with numerous attempts to bring in other litigation involving Mrs. Thomasson, blocked by Government objections.

Jones Flounders Some More.

Re-direct examination ended at 3 o'clock and the District Attorney began further cross-examination, firing questions at the witness so fast that Jones was son floundering again. Returning to the purported affidavit of Mrs. Thomasson, the District Atorney pointed out that it was not notarized and that it was a carbon copy. Jones agreed that it was, and that he had not seen Mrs. Thomasson sign it. Would he say that she did sign it?" No, he wouldn't.

"This signature couldn't have been traced with a sheet of carbon paper, could it?" the District Attorney demanded. Jones replied that he wasn't able to say.

"You drew this affidavit with the intention of having it go before the grand jury after it was signed?" "Yes."

"You didn't present it—it didn't go before the grand jury, did it?" "No."

"Yet you're offering it to this jury, aren't you?" The witness replied that he was, "for what it was worth."

Liquor Case Continued One Week.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY. Dec. 16.—Leo Levy, operator of two bars at the Madison Hotel here, who was cited by E. J. Becker, State Liquor Control Supervisor, on charges of keeping open after closing hours, was granted a week's continuance when his case was called up for hearing yesterday. His attorney said Levy had not had time to prepare the case.

Aboard Missing Airliner

FIRE IN OIL PLANT ATTRACTS BIG CROWD

Three-Alarm Blaze Threatens to Destroy Building at 102 Barton Street.

Fire broke out at 3:30 p. m. today in the oil plant of the Schaeffer Bros. & Powell Manufacturing Co., lubricant manufacvturers, 102 Barton street. Eight men at work in the two-story brick building were said to have emerged safely.

Burning oils and greases caused heavy smoke to pour from the structure, attracting a large crowd of spectators. Owing to danger of explosions and spread of fire to surrounding industrial buildings, firemen who arrived on the scene early turned in second and third alarms.

The fire, of undetermined origin, apparently started in an elevator shaft. Company officials said the building and contents probably would be a total loss.

BILL FOR ELECTRIFICATION OF RAILWAYS IN CITY READY

Alderman Joseph B. Schweppe's Smoke Abatement Measure Would Become Effective in 3 Years.

A bill to require electrification within three years of all railroads operating within the city limits, as a step in the movement toward smoke abatement, will be introduced at an early meeting of the Board of Aldermen, Alderman Joseph B. Schweppe, of the Sixth Ward, said today.

The Alderman said he considered steam locomotives one of the chief causes of the smoke evil, and pointed out that many Eastern cities already have this requirement. A similar bill was introduced about five years ago, but was dropped after protests from railroads, which contended they could not afford such a revolutionary change.

The proposed bill is being drafted by the City Counselor's office and will be offered tomorrow if it is ready in time, Schweppe said.

ROBBERS NAIL YOUTH TO SEAT BY HAND, CLAMP OTHER IN VISE

Wisconsin Filling Station Attendant Says He Was Slugged From Behind; $160 Taken.

LAND O' LAKES, Wis., Dec. 17.—Harlen Pitts, 20-year-old filling station attendant, was slugged and then nailed to a bench last night by two robbers who escaped with $160.

His mother found him slumped over the bench in a kneeling position. His left hand was spiked down with a large nail and his right hand clamped in a vise. He was semi-conscious. She called her husband, who withdrew the nail and then rushed the youth to a hospital.

The youth said the men ordered 10 gallons of gasoline and then slugged him from behind.

500 RENEW SEARCH FOR MISSING AIRLINER

Skis, Snowshoes and Horses Used in Hunt Near Salt Lake City After Storm.

By the Associated Press.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Dec. 17.—On snowshoes, skis and horseback, more than 500 men today renewed a search for an airliner with seven aboard that was last heard from at 3:37 a. m. Tuesday. Soldiers from the post here, members of the Civilian Conservation Corps and ranchers took up the hunt that was broken off late yesterday by a snowstorm. The search is centered in the Wasatch Mountains, 25 miles southwest of here.

Relatively improved visibility permitted six searching planes to get into the air.

Lieut. John Campbell, Army flyer, after a search, said: "Everything is white up there. It is doubtful that the plane could be seen from the air today because of the new snow. The only chance is that wind will whip up the new fall from the wings, so the sun will shine on them."

Frank Crismon, piloting the only radio-equipped plane in the search, reported he "could see absolutely no trace" in a swing along the Wasatch Mountains.

Meanwhile, the heavily-clothed men toiled up opposite sides of a ridge below 11,200-foot Lone Peak. They encountered snow two to four feet deep.

Separate parties were formed at Alpine, where a plane was reported heard in distress before dawn Tuesday, and at Draper, five miles from Alpine. This is about 25 miles from Utah's capital.

Leaders of the ground parties pressed forward on horses. Their plan was to proceed as far as the horses could carry them in the deepening snow up the slopes; then dismount, turn to snowshoes or skis where practicable.

George Keyser Jr., traffic manager for Western Air Express, led one group of ski experts. He emphasized, however, that the difficulties were great—owing to the new-fallen snow.

At dusk yesterday a broken tree was found atop a ridge and on the nearby rim of a canyon were deep indentations in the shale. J. I. Hess, Forest Service foreman, said they "might be tracks of an airplane."

The missing seven were: Mr. and Mrs. John F. Wolfe, of Chicago, married only 17 days ago; Henry W. Edwards, Minneapolis, a representative of Northwest Airlines; Carl Christopher, Dwight, Ill., on his way home when informed his wife was seriously ill; Stewardess Gladys Witt, who recently figured in a cross-country romantic mixup; Pilots S. J. Samson and William Bogen. They have been given up for dead by company officials.

ing in the Judge's chambers from which the press was barred. Her decree was granted Oct. 16, 1924, within 40 minutes after she filed the petition. Terms of a financial settlement agreed on before the divorce were not made public. Lambert and his first wife, who was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Turner, were married in 1914.

The first Mrs. Lambert, now Mrs. Sydney T. Allen, has been residing with her husband in Paris in recent years. Two years ago former King Edward of England, then Prince of Wales, and Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson, were guests on the Allen yacht at Cannes, where Mrs. Simpson is staying at present.

In April of this year Lambert was sued in New York by Miss Dorothy Sabine, former chorus girl in George White's 'Scandals," for $35,750, alleging that her advice on stock market transactions had enabled Lambert to make a profit of $125,000. She alleged that she had been employed by Lambert as "confidential statistician and secretary-companion."

Lambert, a member of the St. Louis family which made a fortune out of Listerine, has spent much of his time in New York in recent years. When in St. Louis he resides at the Park Plaza Hotel. In 1932 he was president of the St. Louis Symphony Society.

Relatives With City Jobs.

Foreman FitzGibbon, who is 73 years old, was City Register in the administration of Rolla Wells as Mayor. He has two sons now on the city payroll, Assistant Prosecuting Attorney David FitzGibbon and Mathew FitzGibbon, a clerk in the Water Department.

Juror Cassidy has a son and a daughter working for the city. His son, Frank George Cassidy, is a clerk in the Public Safety Department, and his daughter, Miss Julia Mae Cassidy, is a stenographer at the City Hospital. Juror Cassidy's wife is a sister of Mrs. Joseph Dickmann, widow of the brother of Mayor Dickmann.

Juror Wuerz is a brother-in-law of City Treasurer H. C. Menne.

Majority's Attitude.

The grand jury's decision not to investigate the bond election was based on the majority view that the riverfront memorial would be a "good thing" for St Louis. Those who took that position wanted the jury to do nothing which might prejudice the case in favor of the memorial when the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at Washington considers, next month, the injunction suit filed by riverfront property owners seeking to block construction of the memorial.

The evidence of fraud in the bond election which Circuit Attorney Miller was prepared to present to the jury was based on the Post-Dispatch exposure, last September, of wholesale fraud in the conduct of the election, with details of ballot-box stuffing and falsification of the vote in many precincts. Fraud was proved in every one of the 19 wards which gave the bond proposal the necessary two-thirds majority.

Getting Out the Vote.

Mayor Dickmann had put the full political strength of his administration behind the bond proposal. Addressing 4200 city employes at the Municipal Auditorium before the election, he said he expected them to get out a favorable vote. He said there would be a check-up the day after the election to determine who were the workers and who the shirkers, and added, "I don't mean maybe."

Following the grand jury's decision to pass up the bond election investigation, Circuit Attorney Miller said he would not ask this grand jury to investigate any phase of the election fraud situation.

A new grand jury will be chosen early in February by Circuit Judge John W. Joynt.

The grand jury met this afternoon for its first session since it decided last Friday not to make the bond election investigation.

Arrested Patrolman Freed.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Patrolman iMchael Darienzo, arrested by Magistrate Overton Harris last Sunday when his motorcycle popped off with much noise in front of Harris' court, was acquitted today of the charge of violating Mayor Fiorello La Guardia's anti-noise law. Chief Magistrate Jacob Gould Schurman Jr., held that Darienzo's motocrcycle made no unusually loud noise, and, when arrested, he was pursuing his duty.

REDISTRICTING BILL ILLEGAL, SAYS MASON

President of Board of Aldermen Thinks It Conflicts With Charter.

President William L. Mason of the Board of Aldermen said today that he had declined to introduce the ward redistricting bill in the Board of Aldermen because he believed the plan proposed by the Municipal Initiative League and embodied in the bill, is illegal.

Copies of the bill were placed on the desks of each member of the Board of Aldermen last Friday by Harold R. Hay, chairman of the League, but no one introduced the bill.

Mason pointed out that Section 3, Article I of the city charter authorized the establishment by ordinance of "corrected" ward boundaries, which should comprise "as nearly as practicable, compact and contiguous territory within straight lines, and contain nearly as possible the same number of registered voters."

This provision, Mason said, was in conflict with the League's plan to eliminate four downtown wards and create four new wards in northwest and southwest St. Louis, since the charter provided only for a revision of ward boundaries and not for their elimination or the establishment of new wards.

Commenting on the League's plan to circulate initiative petitions to have the redistricting proposal placed on the ballot in the city election next April, if the Aldermen do not enact the bill, Mason said he believed the proper procedure for the league would be to seek to amend the charter provision on redistricting. Such an amendment would require the signatures of 10 per cent of the registered voters at the last mayoral election in order to be placed on the ballot, or about 38,000 signatures, and to become law, would have to be passed by a three-fifths affirmative vote.

Redistricting the wards by ordinance, under the initiative, as the league proposes, requires the signatures of only 5 per cent of the voters at the last mayoralty election, and such an ordinance could be adopted by a simple majority of the vote at an election.

Mason also said that he believed other civic problems were more important at present than redistricting. Other Aldermen have objected to the redistricting plan on the ground that it should have been prepared in consultation with Aldermen and members of the party committees. Hay has sought support chiefly from non-political groups.

LACY ORDERED TO ANSWER BAR'S SUIT BY WEDNESDAY

Granted Extension on Bass' Plea That He Is Busy in Muench Mail Fraud Trial.

Verne R. C. Lacy, defendant in a disbarment suit charging he withheld about $10,000 from a decedent's estate and sought to corrupt a juror in a criminal trial, was ordered peremptorily by the Court of Appeals today to file his answer by next Wednesday.

His answer was to have been filed today, but the Court granted the extension on application of his attorney, Sigmund M. Bass, who said he had been unable to confer fully with his client because Lacy was engaged in "a case in Federal Court." Bass referred to the Muench mail fraud trial, in which Lacy represents Defendant Wilfred Jones, also an attorney, himself facing investigation for his professional conduct in the Muench case.

When the Court ordered the answer to be filed no later than Wednesday, Judge William D. Becker pointed out that the disbarment petition against Lacy was filed (by the St. Louis Bar Disciplinary Committee) last Nov. 2.

Big Holdup Near Police Station.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Three hold-up men entered a Brooklyn pawnshop within two blocks of Police Headquarters today, held up three employes, and escaped with $30,000 in jewelry and $2000 in cash. Three customers who entered the shop during the robbery were locked up by the robbers in a back room with the employes.

MO. PAC. TRAIN HITS TRUCK, DRIVER INJURED

Accident at Private Crossing; Machine Nearly Across When Struck.

Harry Johnston, 4314 West Papin street, suffered a brain concussion when a dump truck he was driving was struck by a westbound Missouri Pacific train today at the Evens & Howard Sewer Pipe Co. crossing, 5200 Manchester avenue. Johnston was taken to City Hospital, where his condition was said to be not serious.

The truck was moving north out of the plant and was almost across the tracks when hit. The truck body was thrown to one side of the tracks and the chassis to the other. The train was stopped within several car lengths.

The only protection at the crossing is a bell signal, which plant employes said was ringing when the accident occurred.

Johnston, 30 years old, is the owner of the truck, which he was using to haul sewer pipe for Kahlmeyer Bros. Co., building materials dealers, 310 South Newstead avenue.

WOMAN RUNNING TO BOARD BUS HIT, INJURED BY AUTO

Miss Inez Baker Knocked Against Motor Carrier; Miss Della Walker Hurt in Another Accident.

Miss Inez Baker, 6263 Reber place, running to board a bus at Kingshighway and Southwest avenue at 6:30 o'clock last night, was struck by an automobile driven by Dr. L. H. Glynn, a dentist, of East St. Louis, and knocked against the bus. She was taken to City Hospital with injuries of the skull, legs and arms. Police said the automatic signal was in Dr. Glynn's favor. Miss Baker is a stenographer at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co.

Miss Della Walker, 4246 McPherson avenue, ran into Enright avenue at Whittier street at 6:15 p. m. and was knocked down by an automobile driven by Charles Campbell, a plastering contractor, 1473 Stewart place. Witnesses said a taxicab driven by William Washington, a Negro, also struck her. Washington told police he swerved and his machine did not hit her. She was taken to City Hospital with skull and internal injuries. Both drivers were placed under bond.

Mrs. Wanda Bobbitt, 1145 Walton avenue, suffered a spinal injury when she fell down the stairs of a double-deck bus at Penrose street and Kingshighway.

M. P. CALLS CABINET 'HUFFY OLD WOMEN'

"Let Them Deal With Unemployment Instead of Kicking Man When He's Down."

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Dec 17.—In a scathing attack on the British Government during House of Commons debate on unemployment today, Jockq McGovern, Independent Liberal, described the Cabinet as a "number of old worn-out veterans who are continually threatening to resign" to force the King's abdication.

Former King Edward would have "beaten the Cabinet if the issue had been put to the country," McGovern said.

"Never mind Mrs. Simpson," he continued. "Let them (the Cabinet) deal with unemployment instead of kicking a man when he is down."

His criticism was leveled also at the Church of England.

"Let the Bishops get out and deal with unemployment," he said.

Referring to the Cabinet, he went on:

"If they don't get their own way they go on like a lot of huffy old women complaining about their health and onerous duties.

"We are all willing to relieve them if they want to go.

"Let the Cabinet go on the wireless and try to arouse the indignation and conscience of the nation against the social injustice and wrongs that the common people suffer."

His statement was apparently directed against the Archbishop of Canterbury's recent radio castigation of former King Edward and his friends, which has incurred the resentment of the militant Commons members against the British Broadcasting Co., a semi-public monopoly.

McGovern said he had visited Spain and seen children killed by bombs.

"That action was cruel and deadly," he declared, "but it was swift and sudden. The death being dealt out to millions of chilrdren in this country is like putting them into a compartment where life is slowly squeezed out of their bodies."

EX-KING JOLLIER, READY TO DROP ROLE OF RECLUSE

Edward to Receive Newspapermen — Considers Proposal for Deer Hunt in Styria.

GOING TO VIENNA ON SHOPPING TOUR

Also May Visit Some Night Clubs Where He and Mrs. Simpson Spent Many Hours.

By the Associated Press.

ENZESFELD, Austria, Dec. 17.—Edward, Duke of Windsor, was represented today as ready, if not eager, to drop his role of a semi-recluse and consent to a few words and pictures for the newspapers. At the same time, watchfulness of the guards at the chateau of Baron Eugene de Rothschild, where he is a guest, was somewhat lessened.

The former King of Great Britain was said to be considering a proposal to go deer hunting in Steiermark (Styria), South Austrian province.

Suffers Head Pains Again.

Reliable sources disclosed the Duke suffered last night from another attack of severe head pains, which some said might be connected with his ear affliction. Attendants at the castle asserted, however, the Duke "is not really ill."

The Duke received 6000 letters today from feminine admirers applauding his "romantic gesture" in giving up the British throne. Eight hundred of the writers also asked for jobs, most of them expressing a preference for secretarial work.

The presence of the abdicated monarch brought a new bustle to this village where spectators thronged in the hope of getting a glimpse of him. An innkeeper, whose best business day formerly had grossed $8, took in $275 yesterday.

A Vienna woman sent Edward a gray terrier as a companion for his dog, Slippers.

In contrast to his earlier moroseness, Edward sat up late last night listening to a British radio broadcast over his receiving set with its special antenna. In golf and an evening game of ninepins he displayed much of his old time gaiety at the chateau.

Trip to Vienna Planned.

The Baroness Rothschild won Edward over to her suggestion that he make a Christmas shopping tour in Vienna and perhaps even visit some of the night clubs in which he and Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson spent so many carefree hours during previous visits to Austria.

Persons close to Edward said his mental depression of the first few days of his seclusion was created partly by the question of whether his best course was to meet Mrs. Simpson or remain away from her until after her divorce from Ernest A. Simpson becomes final April 27. Edward also was angered and distressed by the Archbishop of Canterbury's radio broadcast Sunday in which he rebuked the former King and his friends.

Now whatever doubts were bothering him seem to have been dispelled and he has returned to some of his old time jollity, friends said.

Loses to Baroness at Golf.

Persons who witnessed Edward's evening game of ninepins said he played with great abandon and a good deal of skill. The Baron and Baroness and a fourth person were the other players.

Edward played a losing round of golf with the Baroness yesterday.

Afterward the Baroness said to the Associated Press correspondent: "I am proud that, as an American, I can extend the American type of hospitality to a distinguished exemplar of democracy."

Seated in the reception hall of the chateau, she said: "We Americans and we Austrians think highly of the obligations of hospitality. I hope our guest will continue to enjoy our hospitality. We enjoy having him, very much."

Mrs. Simpson Still Receiving Threatening Letters at Cannes.

CANNES, France, Dec. 17.—Letters threatening Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson for causing the abdication of King Edward VIII are still being received at the Riviera villa where she is staying, a spokesman said today. Mrs. Simpson herself, he said, tore up many of the letters, spurning suggestions that some of the more violent ones be turned over to the police.

A French taxpayer's protest was followed by assurance from Mayor Pierre Nouveau that he didn't go into the public coffers of Cannes to pay for flowers sent to Mrs. Simpson. The Mayor sent her a big bouquet Tuesday after a crowd of curious persons, attracted by Mrs. Simpson, shopping in Cannes, had made necessary a detective escort.

Mrs. Simpson left the Villa Lou Viel for a twilight motor drive today. The chauffeur and a bodyguard accompanied her.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Dec. 17.—Lord Brownlow, gentleman-in-waiting to former King Edward, returned today from Austria, where he saw Edward after taking Mrs. Wallis Simpson to Cannes.

ROMANCE OF KING AND MRS. SIMPSON AS TOLD TO ADVISER

mind was filled with problems that were destined not only to change the course of his whole life but to rock the entire world.

That very afternoon, it developed later, the King had conferred at length with Premier Baldwin on the possibility of a morganatic marriage. In some quarters even the mention of a morganatic marriage has been rewarded as a slur on Mrs. Simpson. That is not true.

The King was overlooking no possible chance to marry the woman he loved and still continue to perform his obligations to his subjects. But he was as conversant with British constitutional law as anyone in his kingdom, and it should have been apparent to all that his conversations with the Premier were mainly for the purpose of establishing definitely and publicly that a morganatic marriage was impossible.

Bishop of Bradford's Talks.

He had learned that afternoon, also, that the Bishop of Bradford was sounding the tocsin for a hue and cry which would be taken up within 24 hours by every newspaper in the kingdom.

And yet he was the perfect host, the courteous, thoughtful and even gay friend of Mrs. Simpson—to every outward appearance the relaxed executive, happy to be home and at his fireside after the day's work. There were no tell-tale lulls in the conversation, no feeling of tenseness or preoccupation, no word or even the slightest hint of what must have been on his mind and in his heart that night.

To me it seems obvious that no ordinary man could grip himself so firmly in such a crisis, leaving so gallant an impression that his only thought was that of unalloyed pleasure in being our host. And knowing, now the weight of the burden he was carrying so lightly I marvel at the strength of his determination that no shadow of the ominous future should fall on the woman he held dear if he could prevent it.

Our conversation was interrupted by the voice of the butler at the door: "Your Majesty's dinner is served."

The King arose, and with Mrs. Simpson at his side, moved toward the dining room across the hall.

Conversation at Dinner.

Mrs. Merryman and I followed. In contrast to the consequence of the chatting about the fireside, the trend of conversation at the dinner table was along much more serious lines. It always is when the King and Mrs. Simpson sit down to a meal. There was a discussion of world politics and of affairs in England and America—the King always refers to the United States as America.

There was reference, too, to the manner in which news of the King's friendship for Mrs. Simpson was being received in the United States.

"Knowing the broad-mindedness and chivalry of your country," the King said, "what I cannot understand is the attitude of your press toward an American woman who is my friend."

I repeated what I had already told Wallis—that undoubtedly only the most unfavorable of the American newspaper stories had found their way into his hands, and that it was my personal opinion that at least 70 per cent of the stories dealing with their romance had placed Mrs. Simpson in a favorable light.

King's Views of Press Stories.

"I am glad to have your opinion," he said. "As a great admirer of America, I would have expected it to be as you say, although frankly the things I have read in American journals have seemed hardly fair."

Mrs. Simpson took an animated part in the conversation. Mrs. Merryman spoke but little preferring to listen while her niece and the King debated some fine point.

Whenever Mrs. Simpson said anything she did not want the servants to overhear, she spoke in German and the King replied in the same language.

And as I watched and listened through the evening, it seemed to me that the whole significance of the personalities of these two before me—the two most talked-of people in the world—became clearer and more understandable than would have been made possible by the reading of thousands of abstract words.

Of those two personalities, each of which so completely complements the other, I shall write more in succeeding installments of this series.

EMERALD CUT DIAMOND RINGS

AT 20% LESS

THAN THE PRICE FOR ROUND DIAMONDS OF SIMILAR QUALITY

For years Emerald cut solitaires have been considered smarter than round diamonds, and, although there is less wastage in cutting them, they have always been more expensive. We did not see any justification for it so we decided to do something about it. After months of painstaking efforts we succeeded, and managed to do better than we had hoped. As a result, we are proud to present a fine collection of emerald cut solitaires not just at the same prices, but 20% below similar round diamond prices.

SHENSI WAR LORD GIVES TERMS FOR CHIANG'S RELEASE

Chang Sends American Adviser to Nanking by Plane, Frees One of His Captives With Message.

By the Associated Press.

NANKING, Dec. 17.—Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, in rebellion against the Nanking Government, opened negotiations today for peace and the release of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, whom he seized several days ago at Sianfu, capital of Shensi Province.

Authorities here announced that the Shensi war lord had released Gen. Chiang Ting-wen, trusted lieutenant and fellow captive of Chiang, to convey a message to the Nanking Minister of War, Gen. Ho Ying-chin, commanding the punitive expedition against Sianfu.

The Foreign Office repeated its statement that Chiang "remains safe," and T. T. Li, director of intelligence, announced, "Chang Hsueh-liang broadcast a statement that protection had been afforded the Generalissimo."

It was believed Chang had outlined his terms for settlement. James Elder, Chang's British adviser, arrived in Nanking yesterday by plane from Sianfu. Although he was held incommunicado, it was learned he had paved the way for consideration of the proposals to be made by Chiang Ting-wen.

A spokesman declared a messenger was bringing an autographed letter from Chiang which would "dispel doubts as to the General's safety." He also cited a telegram, purportedly from W. H. Donald, Chiang's Australian-born adviser, saying he "had returned to Sianfu and was remaining in the same room with the Generalissimo."

The Yuan approved a motion condemning Chang to public execution as a result of the military rebellion.

"He (Chang) has shaken the nation to its foundations," the Yuan declared in a statement. "So enormous is his crime it cannot be expiated should he die ten thousand deaths."

Chang Reported Surrounded.

In the meantime, the Nanking punitive expedition was reported to have virtually surrounded Chang. Chang's forces were reported retreating on Sianfu before the advancing divisions of Gen. Ho. Chang's troops were said to be cut off from all aid to the east and outflanked on the west. Officers of the Central Government were hopeful of quick success. Observers pointed out that Chang, expecting his lieutenants at Loyang, Honan Province, to join the Sianfu mutiny, had failed to block strategic Tungkwan Pass where Shensi, Shansi and Honan Provinces meet. A dozen machine guns could have held the Pass and barred entrance to Shensi, but failure of Chang's Loyang Satellites to rebel threw control of the Pass to the Central army.

The Government reported it had control of Paochi, Westernmost extremity of the important military Lunghai railroad. To the East of Sianfu the railroad was said to be in loyal hands to within 50 miles of Sianfu.

Demonstrations of Government warplanes over Sianfu were said to have been a factor in Chang's willingness to negotiate. Four hundred planes, one report said, darkened the skies over the city as an indication of the Nanking Government's ability to blow Sianfu off the map.

Statement by Government.

Following the conference between Elder and Nanking officials a Government spokesman said:

"One thing is certain. It would Elder and Nanking officials a Government to negotiate with Marshal Chang whom we consider a bandit.

"Nanking might be prepared to offer Chang assurances for his personal safety but the Government will never come to political terms with him."

Chang's selection of Chiang Ting-wen as intermediary for the negotiations was considered significant. His appointment by Generalissimo Chiang to replace the rebellious Chang in the western provinces was considered by many to have been the immediate cause of Chang's rebellion.

The newspapers of China united today in an emotional appeal to the people, asking for unqualified support of the Government.

Leading vernacular newspapers in 19 cities eulogized Chiang as the "leader of a nation of 400,000,000, in whom all repose their implicit confidence; in whose hands lies the fate of a country with 5000 years of history."

Nanking military officers telegraphed Chang: "If you persist in your obstinacy or harm the Generalissimo we shall never share the earth with you."

Three hundred graduate officers of the Whampoo Military Academy at Canton, which Chiang formerly commanded, wired Chang: "If you refuse to awaken from your blunders, then, even though the seas evaporate and the mountains decay, we shall never co-exist with you or your conspirators in this world."

14 Taken to Prison From Clayton.

Fourteen prisoners, recently convicted in the Circuit Court at Clayton, were taken to the State Penitentiary at Jefferson City today by Sheriff Philip G. Deuser and four deputies in automobiles. Their sentences range from two years to life.

TWO MISSOURIANS NAMED FOR RHODES SCHOLARSHIPS

E. Lemoine Skinner Jr. and Leslie Epstein Chosen to Take District Examination.

E. Lemoine Skinner Jr., an instructor at Country Day School, and Leslie Epstein, a sophomore in the Washington University School of Medicine, were selected from among nine young men as Missouri candidates for Rhodes scholarships, following interviews with the Missouri Selection Committee at the University Club today.

The two will compete with 10 other candidates—two each from Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Minnesota and South Dakota—at a district meeting next Monday at Des Moines, Ia. Four scholarships will be awarded.

Skinner resides at 100 Orchard avenue, Webster Groves, and was graduated from Princeton University last June. He has been teaching Latin and public speaking at Country Day, of which he is a graduate. Epstein is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert F. Epstein, 4605 Lindell boulevard. He formerly attended Soldan High School and received the degree of bachelor of arts at the University of Illinois in 1935.

Russians Applaud Paul Robeson.

MOSCOW, Dec. 17.—Soviet workers pounded their approval of Paul Robeson, the American Negro singer, at a concert in the Moscow Conservatory last night. Robeson sang "Old Man River," "Old Black Joe" and "The Waterboy," which he called the "Workers' Song."

NEW YORK OFFICIALS RIDICULE U. S. AGENTS

Refer to Capture of Desperado and Wife as "Small Town Stuff."

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Heads of the New York police and fire departments have voiced sharp criticism of what they called the "melodramatic" Federal raid on an Upper West Side apartment house Tuesday by J. Edgar Hoover and his Department of Justice agents.

"Heroics" and "small town stuff" were among the descriptive phrases applied by Fire Commissioner John J. McElligott to the submachine gun and tear-gas barrage that resulted in the capture of Harry Brunette, Green Bay (Wis.) desperado, and his wife.

"I don't think it takes more than two New York policemen to do a thing of this kind," he said.

Braved Bullets.

McElligott denied that Hoover and his 10 agents had shot the lock off Brunette's apartment with machine gun fire. He said it was ripped off by two firemen who braved a storm of bullets to extinguish a blaze caused by an exploding tear-gas bomb.

McElligott protested in a letter to Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine that the firemen had been unnecessarily exposed to gunfire. Valentine replied that he considered the protest "well founded," and blamed all the shooting on the Federal agents.

The Police Commissioner said it was his rigid policy to "prohibit melodramatic raids on the hiding places of criminals."

Departmental Routine.

"In a matter of departmental routine," he said, "members of our force frequently arrest criminals as desperate as Harry Brunette is alleged to be, yet always without fanfare, the spectacular or unnecessary gun play."

In this connection he recalled the capture last March of 10 members of what came to be known as the "Arsenal Gang," so called because their hideout contained numerous firearms. The police did not give them an opportunity to use any of their weapons.

Despite Hoover's assertion that "nobody was double-crossed," Valentine said Federal agents had violated a pre-arranged plan by which it was hoped to seize Brunette as he entered or left the apartment.

He expressed relief that "no innocent person was injured or killed" in the raid. Brunette's wife, who was slightly wounded in the thigh, was the sole casualty.

Rhea Whitley, head of the New York Bureau of Federal Investigation, said today there was nothing "melodramatic," at all, about the raid.

"There was absolutely no hysteria among the families in the raided apartment house, and a surprising lack of excitement," he declared.

"As for charges that firemen were in the line of fire, if anyone can find a fireman who will say we fired anywhere near him and heard a bullet whiz—I, personally, will eat it!"

He said that there was never any understanding whatsoever between Federal agents and the New York department either as to raiding tactics or the time and place of the raid.

Three Under Federal Indictment on Kidnaping Charge.

By the Associated Press.

NEWORK, N. J., Dec. 17. — The Federal grand jury today indicted on a kidnaping charge Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brunette, who were captured in a fight in New York Tuesday, and the fugitive, Merle Vandenbush. This is the second time in as many days that these three have been indicted for the abduction of State Trooper William A. Turnbull near Somerville Nov. 11. The indictment named all of the three on kidnaping and concealed weapons charges, and the men, residents of Green Bay, Wis., on a robbery count.

The Federal indictment, recited that Turnbull was carried across a state line to a point near Freemansburg, Pa., after being robbed. It said the kidnaping was "for the purpose of preventing arrest."

Brunette's wife, the former Arlene La Beau of New York, who was wounded in the thigh when they were captured in a fight in New York early Tuesday, was held in Trenton. A Federal agent said she signed a statement that she was in the automobile with Brunette and Vandenbush when they kidnaped Turnbull as he stopped them for speeding near Somerville, on Armistice day. Turnbull was robbed, bound, gagged and thrown out of the car into a ditch near Freemansburg, Pa.

The woman was arraigned before United States Commissioner Marvin A. Spaulding in Trenton today and committed to Clinton State Reformatory for Women in default of $100,000 bail, the same amount set for her husband yesterday.

Physician Discloses He Had Streptococcic Infection.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Dec. 17.—Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., who is recovering from a combined streptococcic infection of the throat and an acute sinus infection, will join his fiancee, Miss Ethel du Pont for the holidays at the White House if present plans carry through.

Dr. George Loring Tobey disclosed the seriousness of young Roosevelt's illness but said, "that's all over now," the crisis having been passed last week.

VOLUNTARY BANKRUPTCY PLEA BY CREAMY ICE CREAM CO.

Schedules of Assets and Liabilities Not Filed; Receiver for 10 Days Named.

A voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed yesterday in Federal Court by the Creamy Ice Cream Co., Inc., 8452 North Broadway, operators of 13 shops throughout the city which specializes in the sale of ice cream cones.

The matter was referred to Referee in Bankruptcy John A. Hope, who appointed David K. Breed, an attorney, receiver to operate the company for 10 days. The receiver's bond was fixed at $7500.

The company's bankruptcy petition stated the action had been authorized by the board of directors. Schedules of assets and liabilities were not filed.

BIG CAMPAIGN GIFTS LISTED IN SENATE REPORT

Irenee du Pont Contributed $166,000 to Anti-New Deal Organizations, It Is Disclosed.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Campaign contributions by individuals are listed in reports made yesterday to the Senate Campaign Funds Committee.

Irenee du Pont of Wilmington, Del., reported his contributions to various anti-New Deal organizations totaled $166,630, made up of 32 items, none of which exceeded $5100.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau contributed $2050 to the Democratic campaign and Secretary of War Woodring gave a like amount.

Representative Rayburn of Texas, who headed the Democratic National Committee's speaking bureau, contributed $1000, while Senator George (Dem.), Georgia, gave $2070.

Republican contributors included: H. F. Brown of Wilmington, Del., $10,000; Joseph E. Widener of Elkins Park, Pa., $10,000; William M. Potte of Wyebrooke, Pa., $10,050; Mrs. Mabel L. Kent of Philadelphia, $15,000; Mrs. E. Parlamee Prentice of New York, $15,000; John A. Roebling of Bernardsville, N. J., $25,000. W. S. and M. W. Carpenter of Wilmington, Del., $10,000; R. M. Carpenter of Montchanin, Del., $21,000, (Republicans, Jeffersonian Democrats and Crusaders); W. R. Coe of New York, $17,000; E. C. Grace of Bethlehem, Pa., $10,000; Harold F. Pitcairn of Pittsburgh, $15,925; C. McCormick of Chicago, $11,000; E. T. Stotesbury of Chestnut Hills, Pa., $11,000. Nathan Miller of New York, $3000; Dwight F. Davis of Washington, formerly of St. Louis, $6000.

P. D. Block of Chicago reported a contribution of $5100 to the Republicans and $1000 to the campaign fund for Gov. Henry Horner of Illinois, a Democrat.

Democratic contributors included: Samuel Kramer of New York, $25,000 (loan); W. A. Julian of Washington, $7600; Henry S. Hooker of New York, $5500; Jacob Ruppert of New York, $5000.

15 BOROUGH COUNCILMEN INDICTED AT POTTSVILLE, PA.

Accused of Misdemeanor; Charges Followed Political Fight in Which Factions Met Separately.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 17.—Fifteen members of the Shenandoah Borough Council were indicted yesterday on charges of misdemeanor in office, failure to publish a public debt statement and purchasing without advertising for bids. The charges were filed by Frank Gessicki for a Shenandoah taxpayers' association.

The charges were made a short time after Shenandoah returned to a Democrat-controlled, one-council government following nine months during which evenly split Republican and Democratic factions held separate meetings, each refusing to recognize the other.

Highest Honor for Crippled Scout.

TAX HEARING ORDERED IN COL. GREEN ESTATE

New York Surrogate Grants Four Other States Permission to Intervene.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Surrogate Harry E. Owens announced yesterday he would sign an order permitting Massachusetts, Texas, Florida and Vermont to intervene with the New York Tax Commission in tax proceedings over the $50,000,000 estate of Col. Edward H. R. Green, son of Hetty Green.

Counsel for Mrs. Mabel Harlow Green, who is seeking to break the will by establishing her late husband's legal residence in Texas, consented to the intervention, which opened the way for a possible decision on the claims of the five states. The hearings were adjourned until Jan. 28.

The intervention order was requested by Harrison F. Tweed, counsel for Mrs. Matthew Astor Wilks, sister of Col. Green and chief beneficiary of the will.

Tweed asserted that he did not know the attitude of Vermont about entering the case and that Texas had "indicated a disinclination to join" at least until disposition was made of its petition to the United States Supreme Court to 'accept jurisdiction in settling the question of Green's legal domicile. He said, however, that Massachusetts was eager to join the proceedings and Florida was willing to take part.

Mortimer M. Kassell, representing the New York State Tax Commission, opposed the proposal. He sought to have the case taken out of Surrogate Owens' hands on the ground that he is from Essex County, where Green died, and that the jurisdiction should be in New York County where Green had lived. Kassell's petition to file a written answer to the order was denied.

Mrs. Green contends she was tricked into signing a pre-nuptial agreement under which she receives $1500 a month for life in return for surrendering her dower rights. If Texas is established as Green's legal residence, she would share in the estate under a State law.

ALEXANDRE TANSMAN ON MODERN MUSIC

Polish Pianist Says Piece Should Be Heard Several Times Before Judgment.

When Alexandre Tansman was a soldier in the Polish army during the World War he got his first public recognition as a composer. Since then he has hated war and has written music that is played by orchestras all over the world.

In the city to appear as piano soloist with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra in a performance of his works tomorrow afternoon and Saturday night, Tansman talked with a Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday in his room at Hotel Coronado, telling a little about his life and a good deal about his ideas on modern music.

To his fellow townsmen in a provincial Polish town before the war Tansman was merely "a young pianist who thought he could compose." The war, to which he went as a "romantic volunteer" because it was for the independence of Poland, was quiet enough for him to write some music.

Two of the pieces he sent, under different and fictitious names, to a national music contest, received both the first and second prizes. "The judges didn't like it much," he said, "but I was encouraged. When the war was over I went to Paris and that has been my home ever since."

"The newest music I had ever heard before this was Wagner, yet I was writing in a modern manner that my countrymen didn't understand," the composer continued. "The musicians in Paris were doing the same sort of thing. Association with them influenced my work without changing it radically."

One of his first and most helpful friends in Paris was Vladimir Golschman, now conductor of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, who gave the first public performance of Tansman's work. In the concert tomorrow Golschman will present the world premier of his "Adagio, for String Orchestra," a number which is dedicated to the conductor.

Describing the musical world of Paris in the early '20s, he said, "There was a terrible deluge of modern music. Writing it seemed the easiest thing in the world to do—a few false notes and the job was done. A daring innovator was instantly famous, until next day a more daring one came along.

"There had been no music for four years and the revolution was needed. But one can't go on revolting forever; after a while a composer has to find his way of writing and settle down to write that way. Of the hundreds who composed in those years only five or six have any stature today. They have gone back to modified forms, dropping some of the mannerisms."

"A composer's passport," he continued, "is his music's place as a link in the chain of great music. He can't get away from that music and write anything that is good, because music is a developed art. It is not written independently of influence. Beethoven, Bach, Brahms, Wagner, Strauss and Stravinsky have forged the chain.

Tansman, now 39 years old, urged concert-goers to withhold their judgment of any piece of contemporary music until they have heard it several times. "I know as much about music as a good many critics and I wouldn't dare give an opinion of a composition after the first hearing. Of course, there is music that one can say at once is bad."

The program for the symphony concerts tomorrow afternoon and Saturday night follows:

Toccata and Fugue in D Minor — — Bach
(Orchestrated by Alexandre Tansman).
(The Fugue, First World Performances).
Adagio for String Orchestra— —Tansman
(First World Performance).
Concertino for Piano and orchestra — — — — — — — Tansman
(First American Performance).
Symphony No. 1, in C Minor, Op. 68 — — — — — — —Brahms

FIREMAN BURNED ON FACE

Flames Flare From Sawdust Bin Which He Opened.

City Fireman Roy Romine, 5535 Walsh street, was burned on the face by a flare of flame from a fire in a sawdust bin at the United Wood Heel Co., 2705 Olive street, last midnight.

Romine was burned when he opened the iron door of the bin. He was taken to St. John's Hospital. The fire was confined to the bin, and firemen said the damage was slight.

TWO CONVICTIONS FOR MINE BOMBING IN ILLINOIS UPHELD

Pair Sentenced to Five to 25 Years Defendants in Other Cases.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 17. — Two of the 41 men under Federal indictment in the bombing investigation today faced five to 25 year sentences in the State penitentiary, their conviction in another case having been upheld by the Illinois Supreme Court.

It affirmed the conviction of John Mitchell McDonald and Robert Robertson of Valier, Progressive miners, who appealed from the Franklin County Circuit Court verdict that they were involved in the bombing of the Valier Coal Co.'s power plant.

McDonald and Robertson also face a Federal Court trial, with 39 other Central and Southern Illinois men, on charges that members of the Progressive Miners of America conspired to bomb trains to force recognition of their union by coal companies operating under United Mine Worker labor.

21 MILLION RISE LIKELY IN REALTY ASSESSMENT

Market Improvement and New Structures Expected to Restore 1935 Values.

Enhancement of real estate values and construction of new buildings will restore the real estate assessment for 1937 taxes to about the 1935 level, Assessor Ralph W. Coale said to a Post-Dispatch reporter today. This would mean an increase of about $21,100,000 over the assessment for this year's taxes.

Detailed figures have not been compiled, but Coale's deputies have begun to prepare the 1937 records, which will be made public in March. The assessment was made as of last June 1, for 1937. The valuation for 1936 taxes was $896,130,620, compared with $917,263,570 the year before.

An increase of $21,100,000 would yield an additional $584,470 in taxes for the city, schools and State, at the 1936 total tax rate of $2.77 on the $100 valuation. This would include $284,850 for the city and $179,350 for the Board of Education for general purposes, not counting sinking fund revenue.

Coale said there would be no blanket increases in the tax valuation of realty, but only rises justified by erection of new structures or improvement in actual market values. These factors, he added, figured especially in the southwestern part of the city, the most recent scene of general development. Coale, formerly a real estate dealer, related that he had received reports of somewhat better conditions in the real estate field than in recent years, particularly as to rentals. The better classes of apartment houses, he said, now had occupancy of 96 per cent, and office buildings, which had been lss than 50 per cent occupied in recent years, were about 78 per cent filled at present.

The Assessor was hopeful the tax valuation of personal property for 1937 might be somewhat better than the $68,220,910 level for 1936. The 1935 assessment was $83,030,910. Coale was disappointed over efforts to obtain an appreciable increase in returns for 1936 in the household goods classification of personal property. He achieved an increase of about $1,000,000 in the returns of corporations on their fixtures, money in bank and other items.

NORTH CAROLINA NIGHT RIDERS FLOG VICTIMS AND THEN PRAY

Two Men of "Good Reputation" Report They Were Abducted by Masked Band.

By the Associated Press.

SOUTHPORT, N. C., Dec. 17. — The Sheriff's office is investigating the reported night-riding activities of a band of "praying floggers" in the Waccamaw River region of Brunswick and Columbus Counties.

Sheriff J. A. Russ of Brunswick County said William Inman and Jesse Cox, both of Friedland, reported a masked band of 25 or 30 men drove them six miles from their homes, and flogged them a few weeks ago.

The Sheriff said there had been rumors of other floggings in the community and other residents had received warnings to "mend their ways."

He quoted Inman and Cox as saying that after the flogging, the leader of the band, who was called "Judge," and the others knelt in prayer. The Sheriff said both Cox and Inman were men of "good reputation."

The section in which the reported floggings took place is adjacent to Columbus County, where a series of whippings were reported a few months ago.

3 KILLED IN HEAD-ON TRAIN COLLISION IN ALABAMA STATION

Southbound L. & N. Passenger Runs Into Northbound Which Had Stopped at Castleberry.

CASTLEBERRY, Ala., Dec. 17.—Two engineers and a fireman were killed in the head-on collision of a southbound Louisville & Nashville passenger train and a northbound train standing in the station here at 4:30 a. m. today. Passengere were shaken up, but none was reported seriously injured.

Castleberry is in South Central Alabama, 20 miles north of the Florida line.

The two engines virtually were demolished. Trainmen said passenger train No. 3 crashed into train No. 2, as it stood at a water tank on the main line. The dead were listed as Engineers Lee Gorey and Philip Grizzard, both of Montgomery, Ala., and a Negro fireman named Barnes.

No. 2 runs from Mobile to Cincinnati, and No. 3 from Cincinnati to Mobile. The southbound train, No. 3, was running about three hours late when it left Montgomery at 2 a. m.

WORKERS TO GET BONUS WHENEVER DIVIDEND IS PAID

California Mining Firm Also Gives 10-Day Christmas Vacation.

GRAND VALLEY, Cal., Dec. 17. —The Idaho-Maryland Mines Corporation announced yesterday that starting next year, every time a dividend is declared, an amount equal to the dividend on 150,000 shares will be set aside for employes. About 1,750,000 shares are outstanding.

This fund will be distributed Dec. 15, 1937, to employes according to length of service. On the basis of 1936 dividends, employes would receive $80 to $120 additional compensation.

The employes this year will receive a 10-day Christmas vacation with pay.

4 ROADS SEEK RIGHT TO SPEND $17,000,000

Mo. Pac., Cotton Belt, Frisco, Wabash All in Financial Difficulties.

The four St. Louis railroads which are in bankruptcy or receivership—the Missouri Pacific, Frisco, Cotton Belt and Wabash—have obtained or are seeking authority from Federal Court to spend a total of more than $17,000,000 for additions and betterments during 1937, in addition to ordinary maintenance expenses.

Their improvement programs will increase employment, it has been pointed out, not only in the factories and steel mills furnishing products and materials but by the railroads themselves. The railroads will employ additional labor to lay new rails and at least one of them, the Cotton Belt, will require extra workers in the construction of five locomotives to be built in its own shops.

The Missouri Pacific sought Court authority yesterday to spend $9,026,302 for improvements. Previously its trustees had obtained authority to spend $1,562,192 for new rails. Early applications for authority to buy new rails were made by the carriers in order to effect savings by contracting for the steel before prices were increased Dec. 1.

Authority has been obtained by trustees of the Frisco to expend $2,184,875 for improvement of equipment and roadbed. Other expenditures contemplated for next year would bring the total to more than $5,000,000.

Applications made so far for authority to make expenditures do not necessarily indicate the total amounts to be spent by the four railroads in 1937.

The Cotton Belt (St. Louis Southwestern) has received authority to spend $550,000 for five new locomotives and $500,000 for 10 air-conditioned coaches, and the Wabash has authority to expend $944,644 for rails and roadbed equipment.

Federal Judge Charles B. Davis, presiding in the reorganization of Cotton Belt and the receivership of the Wabash, has taken the position that financially embarrassed railroads should not create new debt for equipment but should go on a "cash and carry" basis. The question has not been presented to Judge George H. Moore, presiding in the Missouri Pacific and Frisco reorganizations.

The Bankers' Trust Co. of New York, trustee under a second mortgage bond issue of the Cotton Belt, appealed to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals today from Judge Davis' order approving the pay-as-you-go policy in purchase of the new equipment. At the same time Trustee Berryman Henwood of the Cotton Belt filed a motion to dismiss the appeal. The Bankers' Trust has contended that equipment should not be paid for in cash but through issuance of trust certificates, stating that interest on the second mortgage bonds had been defaulted.

In its program the Frisco has placed an order for 13,000 tons of steel rails with Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Co., at Birmingham, Ala., assuring, with other business on hand, operation of the rail mill until next summer.

It was announced at San Francisco today that the Western Pacific Railroad had placed a $1,000,000 order for new freight equipment, including 100 steel ballast cars to be built at the St. Louis plant of the American Car & Foundry Co.

CABLE FAILS; PARTS OF CITY AND COUNTY IN DARKNESS

Power Shut Off for 14 Minutes Last Night; Washington, Mo., Also Affected.

Lights were out for 14 minutes last night in the northwest and west part of the city and in parts of St. Louis County, St. Charles and Washington, Mo., as a result of a cable failure in the Union Electric power line leading from Venice, Ill., to the Page substation. The failure occurred in a cable in the Mississippi River.

At Lambert-St. Louis airport all lights were out between 9:43 and 10 p. m. During that time no planes were scheduled to arrive and none took off, although there were two on the ground. Two power lines, including an emergency line, failed. Eight minutes after the lights went on again, a scheduled plane landed.

When the cable failure occurred at 9:43, power was supplied by another line also on the bed of the Mississippi River. The breakdown of the first cable was caused by the insulation wearing through.

SAMUEL A. LEVY, INSURANCE MAN, FILES AS BANKRUPT

No Schedule; Catanzaro Fruit & Produce Co. in Another Petition Seeks Reorganization.

Samuel L. Levy, 7711A Arthur avenue, Richmond Heights, head of an insurance company bearing his name, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy yesterday. There was no schedule of liabilities or assets.

A voluntary petition seeking reorganization under the amended bankruptcy act was filed yesterday by the Catanzaro Fruit & Produce Co., wholesale fruit dealers at 808 North Fourth street. The petition listed liabilities of $17,428 and assets of $14,300.

The company stated that it was unable to meet maturing obligations, and that reorganization of the concern would be to the best interests of creditors and stockholders.

TWO BOYS INDICTED FOR THEFT OF LETTER

One 16, Other 17, Accused of Opening Mail Box and Cashing $12.50 Check.

An indictment charging Charles A. Vosburgh, 16 years old, 55 Fair Oaks, Ladue, and Kenneth J. Elmer, 17, 5551 Enright avenue, with theft of a letter, containing a check for $12.50, from a community mail house at Fair Oaks and Lay road was returned by the Federal grand jury today in a partial report to Judge Charles B. Davis.

Postoffice inspectors alleged the youths broke open a mail box in the community house, Sept. 2, opened a letter containing a dividend check made payable to Mrs. Mary R. Herbel, 67 Fair Oaks, cashed and spent the proceeds. Vossburgh, they alleged, indorsed Mrs. Herbel's name on the back of the check and Elmer wrote below it the name Fred Herbel.

Vosburgh is the son of the late Dr. Charles A. Vosburgh, former president of the St. Louis Medical Society. He was a student at the Georgia Military Academy near Atlanta. Elmer is a high school student. The maximum penalty for the offense charged is five years in prison and $2000 fine.

In its partial report the grand jury returned a total of 50 indictments, of which 53 charged violations of the internal revenue laws and the Harrison anti-narcotic act.

Indictments were also returned against Robert Hayward and Donald W. Mattson, charging them with possession of a sawed-off shotgun with a barrel less than 18 inches in length, in violation of Federal statutes which require such firearms to be registered with the Collector of Internal Revenue. The maximum penalty for this offense is five years in the penitentiary or a fine of $1000, or both.

Hayward, 20 years old, and Mattson, 22, both of Chicago, were arrested last Oct. 22, a few minutes after they held up a filling station in Maplewood. The sawed-off shotgun was found in their car.

Charles La Peer, self-styled minister, 1954 North Broadway, was indicted for sending obscene and defamatory matter through the mails. La Peer, according to postal inspectors, admitted sending offensive postcards to editors of the St. Louis Argus, a Negro newspaper, criticising them for certain editorials. The maximum penalty for the offense is five years in the penitentiary or a fine of $100 or both.

Other indictments returned by the grand jury were for minor offenses including violation of the Dyer Act and forgery of Federal relief checks.

ARTIST R. W. GRAFTON DIES

Coolidge and Hoover Sat for Noted Portrait Painter.

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Dec. 17.—Robert W. Grafton, noted portrait painter, died today at his home here. He was 65 years old. Physicians said heart disease, complicated by a stomach ailment, caused his death.

He was recently commissioned to replace portraits and murals destroyed when the Saddle and Sirloin Club was burned in the Chicago Stockyards fire several months ago. Presidents Coolidge and Hoover sat for him in the White House. A daughter, Patsy, 15, survives. Mrs. Grafton died a year ago.

RFC LOSES $1,250,000 DAWES LOAN INTEREST

Corporation Fails to Collect on Payment by Bank's Stockholders.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—The Reconstruction Finance Corporation lost yesterday an attempt to collect $1,250,000 interest on the $90,000,000 Dawes loan. Its request was denied by United States District Judge James H. Wilgerson.

Filing of the interest suit Nov. 24 followed a ruling Nov. 7 by Judge Wilkerson that Illinois stockholders of the defunct Central Republic Bank & Trust Co. must pay $12,500,000 toward the deficiency on repayment of the loan. The amount represented the value of the bank's stock held by the stockholders, who were liable under the Illinois double liability law.

Then counsel for the RFC demanded 5 per cent interest on the $12,500,000 for each of the two years during which trial of the case was in progress. Interest at a similar rate on the original loan was included in the estimate of deficiency on the repayment of the loan.

"The court is of the opinion," Judge Wilkerson said, "and finds that the collection of this interest is governed by authoritative decrees and hat the interest claimed by the plaintiff is not allowable by Illinois law. Plaintiff's request is denied."

Attorneys for several groups of the stockholders have announced they will appeal the liability decision to the United States Supreme Court.

The RFC lent the $90,000,000 to the Central Republic Bank, of which Charles G. Dawes, former Vice-President of the United States, was chairman, during the banking crisis in 1932.

Dawes had been chairman of the RFC until 15 days before the loan was made. Now he is chairman of the City National Bank, which assumed the deposit liabilities of the Central Republic when it was unable to continue in operation even with the aid of the loan.

MAJ. SHEPARD SERIOUSLY ILL

Retired Army Doctor Was Acquitted of Poisoning Wife.

DENVER, Dec. 17.—Maj. Charles E. Shepard, retired, who once was charged with poisoning his second wife at Fort Riley, Kan. was seriously ill today in Fitzsimons General Hospital. The former army doctor suffered a gastric hemorrhage in his home here yesterday, physicians said.

Shepard was tried on a charge of killing Mrs. Zenana Shepard, who died in June, 1929. He was convicted the first time, granted a retrial and acquitted. His third wife is the former Mrs. Alice J. Watt, Denver widow, whom he married July 4, 1933. He is 65 years old.

DENIES FRANCE SEEKS TO BORROW IN U. S.

Finance Minister Replies to Charge War Debt Is Discussed to Help Get Loan.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Dec. 17.—Finance Minister Vincent Auriol denied in a Chamber of Deputies debate today a declaration by one parliamentarian that France was reconsidering the war debt question in order to obtain a loan from the United States.

The Chamber was debating the budget for the Ministry of Finance, the last of the individual budgets to be taken up. The Deputies were expected to vote tonight on the budget as a whole.

Rightist Deputy Emerand Bardoul charged that the Government's finances were in such a serious condition that it had to choose between loans and inflation.

"Loans in France are not sufficient for you," he declared, addressing Auriol. "You would also make loans abroad. And so you would be led to reconsider the debt question in regard to America."

"No," the Finance Minister replied. "You've seen the Government's answer."

He referred to the semi-annual war debt note sent to Washington which announced France would again default her payment due last Tuesday but hoped to open negotiations for a new agreement "acceptable to both" parties.

"You would ask an American loan," Bardoul persisted. "That rumor was false and remains false," Auriol answered. He added: "We should have no need of loans if certain capitalists had not sent billions abroad."

Outside the chamber later, he asserted: "There never was any question of a loan in America."

United States Ambassador William C. Bullitt visited French Foreign Minister Delbos during the morning, but an Embassy spokesman said their talk had nothing to do with war debts.

The Chamber of Deputies Foreign Affairs Committee suddenly dropped discussion of war debts Dec. 2 when the chairman, Jean Mistler, declared the Government wished "to have a free hand in its present negotiations with the United States."

BENEFIT ASSESSMENT DECREE

$41,413 Due City From American Hotel and Theater Owners.

In a decree signed yesterday by Circuit Judge John W. Joynt, it was held that the amount due the city from the Southern Real Estate & Financial Co., on account of benefit assessments in the Market street widening project, is $41,413.

The company, which owns the American Hotel and American Theater, Seventh and Market streets, had tendered this amount in court through former Circuit Judge William H. Killoren, its attorney, but the city demanded $3900 additional as interest running from the date the benefit judgment was rendered in Circuit Court in 1932. The company contended interest did not begin until the Supreme Court affirmed the judgment in 1934, when it became a final order.

WINS WEST POINT NOMINATION

Private John G. Glascock, Battery A, First in Missouri Examination.

Two enlisted men of Battery A, 128th Field Artillery, ranked first and second in the recent state-wide competitive examination for an appointment to the Military Academy at West Point, it was announced today by Capt. Harold Beck, battery commander.

Private John G. Glascock, son of Maj. C. H. Glascock of Jefferson Barracks, won the appointment, and Private William G. Muller, son of Capt. William G. Muller, also of Jefferson Barracks, won the position of first alternate.

GLASS STRIKE LEADERS TO CONFER WITH LEWIS

Presidents of Two CIO Unions on Way to Meet Him in Washington.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Issues in the strike-paralyzed flat glass industry were being studied today by John L. Lewis, head of the Committee for Industrial Organization, as he awaited arrival of the presidents of two of his CIO unions, Glen W. McCabe of the Flat Glass Workers and Homer Martin of the United Automobile Workers.

Henry Baum, Glass Workers' national organizer, left Toledo with McCabe. Wyndham Mortimer and Edward Hall, vice-presidents of the Automobile Workers, accompanied Martin from Atlanta, Ga.

The strikes Tuesday night at Libbey-Owens-Ford plants at Toledo and at Charleston, W. Va., and Shreveport, La., increased to 14,000 the number idle in the flat glass industry. The glass union demands 10 per cent wage increases and other concessions.

A strike has kept 6000 workers idle at five factories of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., which, with Libbey-Owens-Ford, manufactures about 85 per cent of the automobile industry's safety glass and 90 per cent of the nation's plate glass.

The Libbey-Owens-Ford plant at Ottawa, Ill., has been idle, affecting 1300, for two weeks in sympathy with the Pittsburgh walkout.

Officers of Auto Workers' Union Go to Confer With Lewis.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Dec. 17.—Officers of the United Automobile Workers of America, directing two "sit-down strikes" in Detroit industrial plants, went to Washington today to discuss the situation in the automobile industry with John L. Lewis, head of the Committee for Industrial Organization.

Two Federal labor conciliators reported no progress toward settlement of disputes involving 5000 employes of two plants of the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel Co., and 600 workers of the Aluminum Co. of America. Both strikes have been in progress a week.

At Windsor, Ontario, officers of the Kelsey Wheel Co., a subsidiary of the Detroit firm, were hopeful of resuming operations today. One hundred and forty employes quit work yesterday in what was said to be the first "sit-down strike" in Canada. A few hours later the workers left the plant. Company officers said they would negotiate with the International Automobile Workers' Association over the dismissal of five employes and the demand that the union be recognized as the bargaining agency.

Guards Stop Food Supply to Strikers in Kansas City Plant.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 16.—Fisher Body plant employes, started the second day of a "sit-down strike" within the plant this morning.

Wives who took sandwiches and coffee to the plant last night said guards ordered them off company property and closed plant windows before all the food had been passed inside. Company officers have not yet announced whether distribution of food will be blocked.

The strike began yesterday when a worker in the affiliated Chevrolet plant, occupying the same building, was dismissed for jumping across the assembly line in violation of a plant rule.

Ralph Marshall, union officer, said the punishment was considered drastic and the strike would continue until the dismissal was rescinded. Plant officials refused to comment.

EXTORTION CASE MISTRIAL

Prosecutor Mentioned Another Charge Against Defendants.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—A mistrial was declared yesterday in the case of A. Henry Ross, attorney, and Max D. Krone, private detective, because Assistant District Attorney Eugene J. Finnegan told the jury the defendants were under a second indictment, charged with blackmailing Alfred E. Smith Jr. The trial had been in progress 10 days. The defendants will be tried again in January.

In the case in which a mistrial was declared charged them with extorting $5000 from Samuel C. Stampleman of Boston, president of the Gillette Safety Razor Co.

TESTIFIES GROVE'S PRICE ON PARIS CO. WAS $23,000,000

Isaac Lande, New York Lawyer, Supports Testimony of David Kahn on This Particular.

$2,840,000 CLAIM AS BIRTHDAY GIFT

Claimant Assigned It to Wife in 1930—Suit Was Not Filed Until Four Years Later.

Isaac Lande, New York lawyer, testified today in the $2,840,000 suit of Mrs. David E. Kahn against the estates of Edwin W. Grove and E. W. Grove Jr. for services performed by Kahn in the attempt to sell the Paris Medicine Co. of St. Louis to Zonite Products Corporation for $22,000,000. A jury in Federal Judge Charles B. Davis' court is hearing the case.

Lande testified in support of Kahn's statement that the younger Grove, now dead, placed a $23,000,000 price on the medicine company in 1929. At a conference in Boston, Lande said, Grove gave to Kahn and Lande revised figures on the company's finances, quoted by Kahn in his testimony yesterday. These figures showed prospective annual net earnings of $1,810,000 a year for the company, after elimination of some expenditures which had kept the net earnings from exceeding $1,320,000 a year in the five-year period, 1924 to 1928, inclusive.

"Mr. Grove said," Lande testified, "'There are your figures. Annual net earnings, $1,810,000, or call it $1,800,000 even. Ten times that is $18,000,000. That is what I want for the company—$18,000,000, plus $2,000,000 for royalties held by my father's estate, plus $3,000,000 for my own royalty contracts—$23,000,000 in all. That's the price.'"

Claim as Birthday Gift.

Kahn testified, in his three days on the witness stand, ending yesterday afternoon, that he asked for $25,000,000 in negotiations with Zonite, and received an offer of $22,000,000, subject to verification by an audit of the value represented. When the audit fell $500,000 short of the representations, according to Kahn, the Zonite offer was withdrawn. Kahn contends that, as his part of the work was done, his claim, now held by Mrs. Kahn under an assignment from him, should be paid.

Kahn told yesterday how he assigned the claim to his wife March 21, 1930, giving her a lawsuit as a birthday present, and why the actual suit was not filed until four years later.

The nominal plaintiff, Mrs. Lucille P. Kahn, is not here, and her husband said he talked with her by long-distance telephone Tuesday night, she being at their home in Scarsdale, N. Y.

Questioned About Gift.

Kahn was questioned about the circumstances of the assignment by E. C. Hartman of the law firm of Fordyce, White, Mayne & Williams, representing the E. W. Grove Jr. estate. The assignment, on a sheet of office stationery, was read to the jury. In it, Kahn made over to his wife all his rights in the matter of the claim against the elder Grove's estate and the younger Grove—who was then living—with specific authority to bring suit as she might be advised, for a consideration of $10.

"The date, March 21, 1930, was that of my wife's birthday," Kahn testified. "I wrote the paper a day or two before, to give her for her birthday. I also wrote a letter of explanation."

"When and where were these papers delivered?" Hartman asked. "In our apartment in New York City," Kahn said.

"In which room?" "I don't remember; the apartment had nine or 10 rooms."

"At what time of day?" "I don't remember."

"Did you receive the $10?" "Yes." "Cash or check?" "Cash."

"Bills or silver—what denomination of money?" Kahn did not remember this.

Letter of Explanation.

Asked as to his reasons for the assignment, Kahn said they were told in his letter. This letter, which was read to the jury by Kahn's lawyer, former United States Senator James A. Reed, said that Kahn was making the assignment to his wife so that, if anything should happen to him, she might be in a position to realize on his labors. He wrote that he knew, if she should collect his claim, she would "do the right thing" by their son, and by Kahn's mother, brothers and sisters.

Reed asked Kahn why suit was not filed until March 30, 1934, and Kahn said his friend, F. L. Seely of Asheville, N. C., brother-in-law of the younger Grove, had asked him to "wait five years" before taking his claim into the courts. The younger Grove died two months after the filing of the suit.

Kahn told previously in his testimony of having attempted to bring about a better understanding between Seely and E. W. Grove Jr. It was through Seely, Kahn testified, that he came to undertake the task of finding a purchaser for the medicine company.

Kahn went into details of his present claim, which is for $1,840,000 commission on the attempted sale, and an added $1,000,000 which, he said, was to be set aside for him from the purchase price.

Kahn's testimony took him to the beginning of a conference in St. Louis Oct. 10, 1929, between the Zonite and Paris Medicine principals. He was not asked about the incident on which the defense in the present case is based. This incident was the signing by Kahn of an agreement by which he was to receive no compensation if the deal for the sale failed to go through, and 2 per cent of the purchase price if the deal were made. Former Senator Reed said, in his opening statement Monday, that this agreement would be shown to have been a matter of compulsion and "worthless under the circumstances."

Reed Gets Names Mixed.

Former Senator Reed apologized to the Court and other attorneys today for mixing the names of persons concerned in the suit, naming one person when another was meant. When he confused the names of the late E. W. Grove Jr. and J. H. Grover, who is one of the trustees of the elder Grove's estate, Ethan Allen Shepley, one of the defense lawyers, asked that the names be straightened out for the jury's benefit.

"I wish to apologize to the Court and these gentlemen for my mistakes as to names," Reed said. "You might think it old age (Reed is 75), but the fact is that I've done it all my life—never could get names right."

STRIKING DRIVERS GO TO WORK

Philadelphia Truckers Accept Fair Practice Agreement.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 17.—Striking truck drivers returned to work today and hauled fruits and vegetables which had stood untouched on loading platforms for two days.

An agreement, signed by union officers, employer representatives and Mayor S. Davis Wilson ended the strike by setting up a Fair Practice Commission to decide on demands for a 48-hour week and $34 weekly wage. Edward Crumbock, secretary of the local union chapter, said drivers had been receiving from $15 to $20 a week for hours considerably over 48.

HOW TO CHECK LOOSE DANDRUFF AND SCALP ITCHING

When your clothing is showered with loose dandruff scales, it's time to do something about it. Skin specialists say that excessive dandruff is one of the important causes of hair loss.

Two things can be done to check loose dandruff:

First, shampoo once a week (oftener if necessary) to keep the scalp free from oiliness or crusting, using a rich lather of mild Resinol Soap and rinsing thoroughly.

Second, fine-comb the scalp twice weekly so as to remove loose dandruff scales. Then part the hair carefully and apply Resinol Ointment to the scalp, rubbing it in gently. Persistent use of this treatment for a reasonable time usually brings pleasing results.

BRITAIN TO RETAIN 5 OVER-AGE SHIPS

Cruisers Will Not Be Scrapped, Because of "Deterioration in International Situation."

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Dec. 17.—Great Britain intends to keep in service five over-age cruisers which were due ot be scrapped under the 1930 London naval treaty, Sir Samuel Hoare, first lord of the admiralty, told the House of Commons today.

He said an answer had not yet been received from Japan, but that the United States had consented to the proposal.

"I should like to take this opportunity for giving public expression of our appreciation for the sympathetic, helpful attitude adopted by the governments of the United States and Japan," he said.

Replies to Churchill.

Answering a question put by Winston Churchill, he said:

"For some time His Majesty's Government have been giving serious consideration to the question of scrapping five over-age cruisers in order to conform with the provisions of the London naval treaty.

"In view of the deterioration of the general international situation, this obviously is not the moment at which any Power could wish to scrap serviceable vessels, and His Majesty's Government have been exchanging views on the subject with the other parties to the three-Power treaty, namely the governments of the United States and Japan.

"The United States Government has intimated if His Majesty's Government decide to retain these vessels on the ground that requirements of our national security necessitate this action, no objection will be raised."

Increase in Fleet.

Sir Samuel disclosed in a speech last night that Great Britain had laid down five times as much naval tonnage in 1936 as it did three years ago.

He told the House of Commons yesterday he woud ask for bids for new capital ships.

The new battleships will be the King George V and the Prince of Wales. They have been authorized but their keels will not be laid until after Jan. 1, under the terms of the 1930 London naval agreement.

TREASURY REPORTS REVENUES ARE UP, EXPENDITURES DOWN

Federal Deficit $1,297,286,000 on Dec. 15 as Compared With $1,606,711,000 Year Ago.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17. — Reporting on Government finances from July 1 to Dec. 15, the Treasury today said revenues had increased and general and emergency expenditures had declined.

On Dec. 15 the deficit stood at $1,297,286,871 compared with $1,606,711,375 on the same date last year.

Revenues for the first five months and 15 days of the fiscal year totaled $1,865,627,532, compared with $1,700,636,910 last year, while expenditures were $3,162,914,404 and $3,307,348,286, respectively.

Of the aggregate expenditures this year, $1,871,065,769 was for general departments, and $1,291,848,634 for recovery and relief. In the period last year, the figures were $1,895,812,886 and $1,411,535,400, respectively.

On Dec. 15 gold stocks were $11,221,542,483, a new high.

For a Better MARTINI

USE Mistletoe Dry Gin, with good vermouth, and your Martini cocktails will be smoother, drier, with the delicate taste and aroma that connoisseurs appreciate.

Mistletoe Gin owes much of its bland smoothness to the grain spirits used — our own distillation for Mistletoe beverages only, free from all harshness or off-taste.

By the drink or by the bottle, always ask for Mistletoe Dry Gin (distilled 100% from grain neutral spirits, our own).

MAN, 63, ACCUSED OF BIGAMY

Wife No. 1 Learns of Wedding From Newspaper.

By the Associated Press.

SNOW HILL, Md., Dec. 17.—Mrs. Ida Altman Barton, 74 years old, read a newspaper account of her husband's wedding—to someone else. Today Harry E. Barton, 63, of Salisbury, faced grand jury action on a charge of bigamy.

Mrs. Barton alleged her husband suggested she go to Baltimore in November on a vacation. While she was away, she asserts, Barton went to Pocomoke City and married Miss Mary M. Grandee.

TELLS OF MURDER OF FIRE CAPTAIN TO GET $120,000

Last of Four Wanted in Killing of Cincinnatian Arrested in San Francisco, Signs Statement.

HE ACCUSES MAN ON TRIAL IN INDIANA

Declares Heber L. Hicks Promised Him and Others $2000 Apiece but 'Double-Crossed' Them.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 17.—Frank Gore Williams, last of four men wanted in the murder of Harry R. Miller, retired captain of the Cincinnati Fire Department, was arrested here yesterday.

Police said he signed a statement admitting participation in the abduction of Miller, whose dismembered body was found in Kentucky last summer. He named Heber L. Hicks as leader in the plot. Hicks is now on trial at Brookville, Ind., for the murder. William A. Kuhlman was arrested a week ago today in Portland, Ore., after a theater holdup, and taken to Brookville. He and J. J. Poholsky are held there for trial.

Williams' Story.

Williams told police that Hicks, a "chauffeur and sort of secretary to Miller's sister, Miss Flora Miller," offered him, Kuhlman and Poholsky $2000 apiece to help him abduct Miller so he could get Miller's bonds worth $18,000. In this, Williams said, Hicks "double-crossed us," for they later learned the bonds were worth $120,000. Williams, in his signed confession, said:

"The proposition was that Miller was to be kidnaped and taken to a farm. With Miler out of the way, Hicks said, he (Hicks) could get possession of Miller's stocks and bonds kept in a safe in Miss Miller's house. Hicks said Miller, being an eccentric in the habit of going on trips, could disappear for a time without anything being thought of it.

"On the night of June 10 we all met at a Cincinnati hotel. Then we drove to New Trenton. Hicks went up to Miller's house alone then called us in. We posed as whisky salesmen. . . . We sampled whisky in the kitchen. I knew Miller was suspicious.

Slugged With Pipe.

"Hicks finaliy managed to get behind the old man and slugged him twice on the head with a steel pipe . . . The old man fell, but he got up. He fought the four of us all over the house. . . . The fight carried us to the front porch where Capt. Miller dropped cold. We dumped him in the rear of Hicks' car and Hicks, Kuhlman and Poholsky drove off with Miller."

Williams said he was in Cleveland with Kuhlman two weeks later when a radio news flash apprised them of the finding of Miller's severed head and hands.

When arrested, Williams had just got a job as clerk in a clothing store. He arrived here Dec. 5 from Chicago with Miss Betty Murphy.

Miss Murphy appeared at the Hall of Justice when she learned of Williams' arrest. "I knew he was in trouble," she told police, "but I didn't know anything about the case. I met him in Chicago while I was working in a drug store," She was not held.

24-HOUR GUARD AT CROSSING WHERE TWO WERE KILLED

Additional Watchman Employed by L. & N. at 25th Street in East St. Louis.

An additional watchman has been employed by the Louisville & Nashville Railroad to provide a 24-hour guard at the Twenty-fifth street crossing in East St. Louis, where two persons were killed by a train last month when no watchman was on duty.

Heretofore the crossing has been guarded by watchmen 16 hours a day, from 6 a. m. until midnight. William McKenna, operator of a tourist camp at French Village, drove onto the tracks in the path of a train early on the morning of Nov. 24, and he and his wife were killed. Following the accident, B. C. McCurdy, superintendent of highways in St. Clair County, asked the railroad to guard the crossing at all hours.

Hat Factory Closed by Strike.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 17.—George V. Mackinnon, president of the John B. Stetson Co., hat manufacturers, announced that the company's plant would be closed today because of a strike. He said negotiations looking toward a settlement would continue. The strikers are asking for a 25 per cent wage increase, union recognition and improved working conditions.

By W. J. McGoogan.

After scoring a thrilling 2 to 0 upset victory over the Chicago Blackhawks of the National League, the St. Louis Flyers today were looking for more worlds to conquer. So A. Frank Ruppenthal, president of the club, has started negotiations to bring the Detroit Red Wings here next month.

And the 12,223 fans who watched their favorites triumph over the major league club want to see more of the same sort of show.

It was a great night for the Flyers. They beat the big leaguers on their merit, make no mistake about that, and no alibis are in order for the Hawks. They didn't try to offer any excuses after the game.

They may have thought when the game was originally booked that it would be a breather but they came down here victory hungry after five successive defeats. They were out for everything that was in it and while the game was clean, the Hawks put everything they had in an effort to win.

Beat the Regular Squad.

All of the members of the squad were on hand except Tommy Cook, a center, who has an injured leg, and Coach Clem Loughlin, who is ill in a Chicago hospital with pneumonia.

But W. J. Tobin, who was in charge of the club, sent in every one of his available men, 16 in number, in an effort to win and the Hawks just weren't good enough.

The Flyers met them in every department of play and bested them, particularly in defense and in teamwork. The Hawks, generally regarded as a great teamwork organization, couldn't click with their passes, while the Flyers worked together in great style.

The St. Louis players skated just about as fast as the Hawks, they checked more carefully and the work of Stopper Nelson in goal was really the highlight of the contest although all the members of the Flyers deserve a full measure of credit for their efforts.

It was Nelson who had the major share of the defense work to shoulder and he did it in such fashion that he had the spectators gasping. He was credited with 38 stops, many of them of the most difficult kind while Mike Karakas, former Flyer, in the Hawk net had 29 stops and missed two shots.

A Versatile Defender, Nelson.

Just as an illustration of what a great job Nelson was doing the writer made 11 notations during the contest of "great stop by Nelson." Hub was all over the goal, in and out of it, on his face, on his back, upright and upside down in clearing Hawk shots. He used his hands, feet and his hockey stick. He kicked out shots with his skates which seemed definitely headed for the net.

Of course, even such splendid efforts on the part of the goal tender would have been wasted if some of the Flyers hadn't been able to get the puck in the Chicago net and that's where the forwards came in.

Pete Palangio scored one of the Flyer goals after a little more than 12 minutes of the first period, assisted by Oscar Hansen and Ollie Mulvihill while Duke McDonald scored the other with Purpur and Olson getting assists.

Palangio and Hansen, potent factors in running up the long string of victories which the Flyers have compiled this season now amounting to 14, including 13 league victories, worked together beautifully as usual.

Shortly after Nelson had checked a Hawk rush, turning back a shot by Johnny Gottselig, Palangio and Hansen took charge of the puck, after Mulvihill had passed to Pete. Palangio drove through the Hawk defense and passed to Hansen who handed it right back to Pete and the light over the Chicago goal flashed after Palangio had made a short, sharp shot.

The "Kid" Line Scores a Goal.

And after nearly 15 minutes of play in the second period had elapsed, the Flyer "kid" line of Ol-

THE FLYERS FLY HIGHER: Clipping the Blackhawks' Wings

The National League Chicago Blackhawks got a real surprise at the Arena last night when the Flyers kept them from scor ing and made off with their exhibition game by 2 to 0. Above, Goalie Stopper Nelson of the St. Louis team is sprawled over the ice, but the puck has been stopped by his left foot. This play, in the third period was one of the many with which Nelson and his team-mates kept the 12,000 crowd roar ing.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Top Row at 20 to 1.

IT isn't what you used to be, it's what you are today—and that seems to go for horses as well as men. Last year Top Row, which humbled the mighty Discovery two or three times, won the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap. But in the future book of the Tom Kearney "big store," issued today by Manager Charley Burke, Top Row is quoted at 20 to 1 against his chance of repeating that victory this year.

Also there is Azucar, which won the 1935 running of this, the richest stake of the year. He can be had at 15 to 1. Both horses ought to be as good or perhaps better than when they won the event. But there they are, if you like them, at long odds.

In the case of Top Row an intestinal illness, which may prevent his proper conditioning, is said to be behind the long odds quoted. Azucar did not do so well, after his Santa Anita victory, his consistency being in serious question.

Bold Venture Doubtful.

BESIDES this, the quality of the opposition this year will be better than ever before. In Burke's book, as in the one being conducted on the Pacific Coast, Seabiscuit is made favorite, Burke holding him at the short price of 6 to 1. As already pointed out in previous comment, Seabiscuit has been the sensation of recent weeks.

Then there is sturdy and consistent Roman Soldier, and that fine racer, Rosemont, second choices at 8 to 1, with Time Supply and Mr. Bones at 10, and King Saxon and Indian Broom at 12.

Bold Venture, Derby and Preakness winner last spring, is listed as a doubtful starter, and the year's "champion", Granville, was not entered.

Following are the entries, weights and odds of the 88 horses nominated:

Another Suzanne?

SINCE the retirement of Suzanne Lenglen of France, we have had some capable women players in international tennis contests, with Helen Wills Moody being, of course, the standout.

But, with all due credit to Mrs. Moody's wonderful playing, she did not rise to the heights attained by Suzanne—the all-time woman champion.

Today we have on the horizon a young woman player who may climb high, perhaps to the Lenglen level.

She is Senorita Anita Lizana of

Auburn Coaches Favor L. S. U. Eleven to Beat Santa Clara

By the Associated Press.

AUBURN, Ala., Dec. 17. — Auburn football coaches and players installed Louisiana State today as a slight favorite to beat Santa Clara in the New Year's Sugar Bowl game at New Orleans.

Auburn lost only to these teams this year and was the one team met by both contenders. The Californians handed the plainsmen their first defeat, winning 12-0 at San Francisco. L. S. U. won, 19-6, at Birmingham.

While the majority leaned toward Louisiana, none figured the undefeated Southeastern Conference champions would have any picnic riding the once-beaten Broncos from the coast.

The comment:

Head Coach Jack Meagher: "L. S. U. lacks all around offensive polish of Santa Clara but has more power and better running attack."

Assistant Coach Dell Morgan: "I like L. S. U. because of greater reserve strength."

Center Walter Gilbert: "L. S. U., but a break or two may decide it."

Guard Frank Gantt: "L. S. U. by a touchdown."

Guard Wesley Loflin: "Santa Clara first team better than L. S. U., but state's first three teams better than Santa Clara's first three."

Tackle Hugh Rodgers: "Give me points and I'll take either team."

End Hamp Williams: "L. S. U probably a shade better."

Quarterback Sidney Scarborough: "L. S. U. if it plays as it did against us."

Halfback Wilton Kilgore: "I favor L. S. U. Give me a point and I'll take Santa Clara."

Halfback John Paul Tipper: "I'm in a minority but I like Santa Clara."

Former Purdue Star To Get Trial With Sox Next Spring

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.

ED SKORONSKI, former Purdue football captain and baseball star, will get a trial with the Chicago White Sox next spring.

Skoronski, a member of the Pittsburgh club of the National Professional Football League last fall, was signed on recommendation of a former college rival, Vernon (Whitey) Wilshere, who pitched for Indiana against the ex-Boilermaker. Wilshere, released last summer by the Athletics, will join the Sox in spring training.

TWO FIVES BEAT 3300 TOTAL IN CLASSIC LEAGUE

Back on their "pet drives" after a mediocre round on the Gravois Recreation, the teams in the Classic Bowling League "went to town" in the round on the Del-Mar Recreation alleys last night. Five of the six quintets hit for better than 3000; three individuals totaled better than 700, while two others were over the 690 figure.

The league-leading Budweisers did some heavy gunning, putting over a total of 3315, with counts of 1019, 1130 and 1166, to win three straight from the Witeks, with 3046.

The Hermanns, in second place, one game behind the leaders, hit 3323, with consistent 10-frame totals of 1095, 1112 and 1116 to whitewash the Say It With Flowers. The losers totaled 3051.

In the other match, the Silver Seals counted 3022 to make a clean sweep against Club Plantation. The losers totaled only 2841.

High man among the individuals was Art Scheer, with 717, followed by Harold Schaeffer's 707 and Buzz Wilson's 705. Those in the 690 class were Otto Stein Jr. with 699 and Ray Newton 691. Other high figures were Ray Holmes 678, Sam Garofalo 670 and Lowell Jackson 663. Newton had a high single of 280 to his credit.

Lamberts Roll Into Lead.

Winning two out of three from the S. & S. five, while the Krons were dropping three straight to the Cabannes, the Wooster Lamberts moved into first place in the Major City League on the Rogers alleys last night. The Lamberts, paced by Ed Held's 632, totaled 3000, the high team figure of the round.

Other results: Allhoffs 3, Brunswicks 0; Old Judge 2, Falstaffs 1; Missouri Pacific 2, Silver Seals 1.

ZACH AND OTTEVAIRE WIN SIX-DAY EVENT

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 17. — Freddie Zach and Freddie Ottevaire, the American bicycle championship team, won the Minneapolis six-day race by a single lap last night.

The winners pumped their way over the 2467-mile run one turn ahead of Torchy Peden-George Dempsey and Rodman-De Fillippo in a spirited last-hour finish that closed the run at midnight.

Points, of which Peden-Dempsey had garnered 1559, won them the second-place rating over the team of Rodman-De Fillippo that tied them in distance, and finished third. Cecil Behringer and Archie Bolleart came in fourth.

TWO MEMBERS OF THE BROWNS BATTED IN MORE THAN 100 RUNS

By Herman Wecke.

Two of the 18 players who last season drove in more than 100 runs for their clubs in the American League flag race were members of the Browns, official statistics of the league, released today, show. The athletes were Julius Solters, who ranked fifth in the circuit with 135 runs batted across in 152 contests, and Beau Bell, first-year outfielder, who drove in 123 in 155 games.

Hal Trosky, first-sacker of the Cleveland Indians, won the runs-batted-in honors, with 162 to his credit, the lowest figure to lead the league since 1929, when Al Simmons won the title with 157.

Despite the low individual figure, a new team record was established, the world champion Yankees driving across 995 tallies to beat their own record of 991 established in 1931. They shattered the league mark for the most runs batted in for a single game, when on May 24, they clouted across 25 tallies in a contest with the Athletics. The old mark of 23, held by the Athletics, was made in 1925.

For the first time in history five players on one club drove in more than 100 runs and this honor fell to the Yankees. Lou Gehrig paced the champions with 152, Joe DiMaggio was credited with 125, Tony Lazzeri 109, and Bill Dickey and George Selkirk, 107 each.

It was the eleventh consecutive season that Gehrig has batted in more than 100 runs, tying him with Simmons. His total of 152 gave Columbia Lou a record of having driven in more than 150 runs for the sixth time in his career, tying Ruth's standard. DiMaggio, on June 24, drove in five runs in an inning to tie the American League mark, while on May 24, Lazzeri drove in 11 runs in a game with the Athletics to break the old American League mark of nine, held by Jimmy Foxx. The total of 18 men batting in 100 runs constituted a new league figure.

Four players drew 100 bases on balls during the season and two were members of Rogers Hornsby's club. They were Lynn Lary, who finished second to Gehrig with 117, while Harland Clift worked the enemy hurlers for 115 passes. Gehrig drew 130 bases on balls. Foxx was the other to reach the "century" total with 105. Foxx, for the sixth time, struck out more than all other players in the league, whiffing on 119 occasions.

During the campaign, pitchers walked a total of 4847 batters, a new record. The old mark of 4612 was made in 1935.

BARTLESVILLE TAKES VALLEY LEAGUE GAME

By the Associated Press.

WICHITA, Dec. 17.—Two highly rated Missouri Valley A. A. U. League teams opened the basketball season here last night with Phillips "66" of Bartlesville, Ok., defeating Santa Fe Trailers of Kansas City, 32 to 25.

Phillips hit several goals at the start and led all the way, 16 to 12 at the half. In the second half the Trailers pulled up within a point but Hyatt and Pickell scored winning buckets then. The game was hard fought but very ragged, both missing many shots.

Browns Will Remain the Browns; Fans 4 to 1 Against a Change

Donald L. Barnes, Bill DeWitt and Rogers Hornsby are still working for the Browns today. Examination by the judges of returns in the contest sounding out fan opinion on a new name for the club revealed that the followers of the team stand 4-to-1 against any tampering with the moniker that has come down the years from Chris von der Ahe and his colleagues in the old beer and basehit industry at Grand and Dodier.

More than 1000 fans wrote letters on the subject to the new owners and the following were awarded season passes for the best opinions:

J. W. Yule, 2323 Michigan avenue.

Mrs. Louise W. Langston, West Plains, Mo.

Elmer R. Taff, 1218 Olive street.

Judges of the contest, including J. Roy Stockton, Martin J. Haley, Sid C. Keener and representatives of local radio stations, rendered their decision at the Missouri Athletic Association yesterday. In addition to awarding passes to the letter writers, they conferred a free ticket for 1937 to Ray Grace, R. R. 1, East St. Louis, Ill., for two drawings protesting against a new name.

The winning letters follow:

I have been following the Browns for more than 30 years. There have been many disappointments during that period but not once has this writer ever heard a complaint as to the name. It was the playing and the standing of the team that caused the criticism.

There are many old time baseball fans in St. Louis who have waited patiently for years for the Browns to produce a winner. They have been ridiculed, laughed at and made the goat of arguments by the other fans. They have waited years for revenge—and when they get it they want to say it was the Browns who did it. There are others who could not take it who will shout just as loud when that happens. As the famed Senator from Arkansas said: "Change the name of the Browns? Hell's fire, no!"

J. W. YULE,
2323 Michigan Ave.

Change the name of the Browns? No! Did it ever occur to you to change your name because things did not always come your way? The only time I have ever known an individual to give up his "christening name" was when he had dragged it in the mire. The Browns have done nothing of which to be ashamed, and a real ball fan looks upon his favorite club almost as an individual. It's the Browns the fans are rooting for—not any set group of players. Players come and players go, but I, for one, hope that the Browns will go on forever and, backed by their loyal friends, bring home the American League flag some day soon.

MRS. LOUISE W. LANGSTON,
West Plains, Mo.

Believe it or not, I haven't missed an opening game of the Browns in St. Louis for years. I have been a consistent fan for both clubs for a long time and before that was a semi-pro player. I mention this because most ball players are superstitious. So am I.

I think 35 years are enough for a sentimental name, especially when so many fans of the old Browns have passed on.

Change the name to anything you wish, but change it.

I suggest "Mules," the greatest beings known for work; they are tough and can take it and will kick when imposed upon. I've given up hope of seeing a pennant winner under the name of Browns. Why not try something else for luck?

ELMER R. TAFF,
1218 Olive st.

$280,000 GATE PREDICTED FOR HUSKIES' GAME WITH PANTHERS

By the Associated Press.

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 17.—Rose Bowl ticket officials looked up yesterday from their pleasant task counting receipts and announce Washington University's Huskies and Pittsburgh's Golden Panthers probably will play before the second richest "gate" in the history of the New Year's day classic.

It will be several days before the actual amount of cash taken in will be known, but the total is expected to be around $280,000. "Sold out" signs have decorated the ticket headquarters' front door since Monday.

The Rose Bowl's largest gate wa in 1930, when Pittsburgh and University of Southern California drew what was then a near-capacity crowd of 65,309 people, who paid $306,421.15 to see the game.

Bowl Seats 65,511 Fans.

The bowl was sold out in eigh days for that game, and most o the seats went for $5.50 apiece. This year it took only seven days t wind up the ticket sales at slightly lower rates.

The bowl, enlarged twice since it was first built in 1923, now seats 85,511 customers—and more, if bleachers boxes are erected.

The smallest crowd in recent years turned out in 1934 to see Columbia spring a surprise and defeat Stanford. Attendance was only 42,127, and receipts totaled $109,043.37.

The surprising seven-day sell-o this year was equaled a year ago, when the Stanford-Southern Methodist game was announced. A packed house of 83,982 paid admissions saw the encounter, receipts totaling $225,172.98.

Attendance in paid admissions and receipts since 1930 follow:

1930—U. S. C.-Pittsburgh, 65,309, $306,421.15.
1931—Washington State-Alabama, 54,495, $241,891.72.
1932—U. S. C.-Tulane, 75,562, $274,990.96.
1933—U. S. C.-Pittsburgh, 74,874, $190,107.90.
1934—Stanford-Columbia, 42,127, $109,043.37.
1935—Stanford-Alabama, 81.756, $226,942.26.
1936—Stanford-S. M. U., 83,892, $225,172.98.

Pitt Squad Starts West.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 17. — Pitt's husky Panthers headed West last night for their fourth attempt to capture a Rose Bowl game—a grim looking bunch of youngsters.

Dr. John Bain (Jock) Sutherland, the coach, with his usual dour face, said as he waved farewell:

"We had our best practice of the season. The boys are putting out. Their spirit is great. I won't make any predictions. I am satisfied. I know we are going to try our best."

One of the many giant guards displayed the team's grimness when he heard someone request Marsh (Biggie) Goldberg, sophomore backfield sparkplug to pose with a "victory smile."

"Shall I crack him?" demanded the guard, while Goldberg and the others grew as solemn as if in church.

The departing squad consisted of 34 players, three coaches and a score of other officials, student managers and others.

Brief stops will be made at Dodge City and Hutchison, Kan., but the first formal workout will not come until next Friday at Albuquerque, N. M. The squad will practice at the San Bernardino municipal baseball park, near their headquarters at Arrowhead Springs, Cal. Later they will move to Pasadena for workouts in the Rose Bowl.

Prepare for Examinations.

By the Associated Press.

SEATTLE, Dec. 17.—The West's Rose Bowl team, Washington Huskies, prepared mid-winter examinations today.

After the tests tomorrow, the squad will be given a workout in uniform. For the past several weeks the men have been keeping in condition with gymnasium workouts.

Coach Jimmy Phelan said he will announce Sunday the list of 34 38 players who will make the trip Monday to Pasadena, where the Huskies play Pitt New Year's day.

LARRY KELLEY GETS HEISMAN TROPHY

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Lawrence Morgan Kelley, the apple cheeked Irishman from Williamsport, Pa., whose pigskin exploits and wisecracks provided perhaps the most glamorous chapter in Yale gridiron lore, hauled down his house ag yesterday as he received the John H. Heisman Trophy as the outstanding college football player of 1936.

As 750 banqueteers, among them his mother, father and sister, honored him at the presentation ceremonies, Kelley picked up the ball and scored the winning touchdown of the luncheon with his wit.

"Fellow Rotarians," he began as his audience rolled with laughter and kept on rolling. "I represent only the voice of the Yale team—as the press would have it.

"Football is a big business, you know, and the press made it so. It seems there is nothing the press can't do. Why, they put a halo around Fordham's line and called it the 'Seven Blocks of Granite.' They built that line as they built me. When a little crack appeared in those 'seven blocks of granite,' why they chipped it down, piece by piece. What they'll do to me lat I don't know."

SCHMELING RATED AS GREATEST COMEBACK OF 1936 CAMPAIGN

GERMAN HEAVY IS GIVEN 152 VOTES IN POLL OF THE CRITICS

Alice Marble, Tennis Champion, Second on List With 57, While McLarnin Ranks Third.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—The laurel wreath for the year's greatest comeback in any sphere of sport adorns the black thatch of Germany's indomitable heavyweight fighter, 31-year-old Max Adolph Siegfried Schmeling.

The country's experts, who were just about 100 per cent wrong in their predictions as to what would happen on the night Schmeling scored a sensational 12-round knockout over Joe Louis, accorded the German a landslide vote in the annual Associated Press sports poll.

Forty-six out of 73 ballots listed Schmeling as the hero of the No. 1 comeback, based upon the fact that when the German left the United States three years ago he was considered "all washed up" as a fighter and, upon his return, conceded little or no chance against the spectacular Brown Bomber. Now Max has signed to fight James J. Braddock for the heavyweight title the Teuton won, on a foul, from Jack Sharkey in 1930.

Alice Marble Is Second.

The voting revealed Alice Marble, heroine of the year's finest tennis come-back, as Schmeling's only rival. The California girl, who scaled national championship heights three years after being forced by ill health from all competition was listed at the top on 10 ballots. Her point total of 57, however, was far below Schmeling's 152.

The balloting otherwise revealed scattered and surprising preferences. Braddock and Helen Wills Moody, who made their come-backs in 1935 and did not appear in serious competition this year, nevertheless got four points each. Lefty Grove, despite the fact he did not have as good a pitching season as he enjoyed when he returned to form in 1935, collected sufficient votes to land fourth place, on the heels of Jimmy McLarnin.

Johnny Fischer got a few citations for his remarkable finishing rally to overhaul Scottish Jack McLean and win the U. S. amateur golf crown. Joe Louis won applause as well as several votes for his return to fistic knockout form after being flattened by Schmeling. Flying Frank Wykoff, who came out of retirement to make his third Olympic team and anchor the record-breaking U. S. 400-meter quartet, was recognized as the comeback here in foot-racing competition.

Received Little Mention.

Baseball come-backs were numerous but one of the greatest, achieved by Danny MacFayden in pitching 17 victories with the sixth-place Boston Bees received surprisingly little attention.

Tabulation of the poll follows, with points tallied on 3—2—1 basis:

Leading comebacks, points.
1. Max Schmeling, knockout winner over Joe Louis, 152.
2. Alice Marble, U. S. tennis champion, 57.
3. Jimmy McLarnin, for fistic wins over Canzoneri and Ambers, 24.
4. Bob (Lefty) Grove, Boston Red Sox pitcher, 23.
5. Frank Wykoff, anchor on U. S. 400-meter relay team in Olympics, 15.
6. Joe Louis, for return to form after K. O. by Schmeling, 14.
7. Johnny Fischer, U. S. amateur golf champion, 11.
8. Denny Shute and Tony Manero, golf champions; Paul Waner, National League batting king, 10 each.
9. Tony Lazzeri, Yankees' second baseman, 9.

Scattered votes: 7 for Pat Malone, Yankees' pitcher; 6 for Danny MacFayden, Red Sox pitcher; 5 for Jack Lovelock, Olympic 1500-meter champion; 4 each for Helen Wills Moody, tennis; James J. Braddock, heavyweight boxing champion; Bronko Nagurski, Chicago Bears' footballer, and Lou Meyer, winner of 500-mile Indianapolis auto race for third time; 3 each for Fred Perry, world amateur tennis champion; Willie Hoppe, billiards; Carl Hubbell, leading National League pitcher; Fred Fitzsimmons, New York Giants' pitcher, and Ralph Guldahl, pro golfer; 2 each for Jimmy Phelan, University of Washington football coach, Gene Venzke, Pennsylvania foot-racer, Leo Durocher, St. Louis Cardinals' shortstop; Bill Mehlhorn, pro golfer; Charles Ruffing, New York Yankees' pitcher; Goose Goslin, Detroit Tigers' outfielder; Rabbit Maranville, manager of Elmira team in New York-Penn. Baseball League, and Discovery, A. G. Vanderbilt's handicap horse; 1 each for Lou Ambers, lightweight champion; Helen Jacobs, Wimbledon tennis champion; Jake Powell, New York Yankees' outfielder; Earl Averill, Cleveland outfielder, and Gil Dobie, Boston College football coach.

CONACHER IS INJURED, OUT FOR FIVE WEEKS

TORONTO, Dec. 17.—Charlie Conacher, right winger with the Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, may be lost to the team for five weeks, it was learned last night after physicians ordered him to keep his injured right hand in a cast.

The order came after Dr. J. W. Rush, club physician, saw him in practice today and later examined the hand. The injury was suffered in a pre-season exhibition game with the Detroit Red Wings.

Pro Star to Retire.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—Bill Hewitt, one of the greatest ends in National Professional Football League history, has played his last game for the Chicago Bears—he says. Hewitt said yesterday that he had decided to devote all of his time to a position with a railroad. He made the same announcement after the 1934 and 1935 seasons, however, but returned to hold his job as one of the Bears' outstanding offensive and defensive stars.

THE TERRIBLE TURK WAS FIERCE—But This Is Ali Baba!

We have with us today Ali Baba, wrestling Kurd, who will meet Blue Sun Jennings, Haskell Indian, in the semifinal bout on a card at the Auditorium tonight.

Ali Baba, With Aid of Abd-el Bull Bull, Speaks of the Brave and Fearless Kurds

Tired of Doing Nothing as a Youth He Came to America, Raised a Mustache, Became a Wrestler and a Celebrity.

By Robert Morrison.

Abd-el Bull Bull, confidential adviser to rasslin raconteurs, glared ferociously after an old Eastern custom and declared Ali Baba, the Kurdish Killer, was in town.

Not knowing the difference between a Kurd and a kumquat, the rasslin raspers shouted for information. Abd-el gave his high-falutin' mustachio an austere twirl, then grinned maliciously.

"You shall see what a Kurd is when Ali Baba steps in the Auditorium ring tonight to meet Blue Sun Jennings, Haskell Indian.

"Ah, the Kurds are an ancient and honorable race in northwest Persia and Turkey, a wild and carefree people roaming the hills of Kurdistan, their origin buried with the centuries and their law the length of their sword.

"By heritage they are shedders of blood, seekers after turmoil and uproar, albeit a brave race and fearless, in truth and honor unequaled."

It sounded like a lively session in the semifinal match in which Ali Baba will appear tonight. Bull Bull was pressed for more.

Evolution of a Face Maker.

"Ali Baba is one of the tribe of Kezel Basche, which means in English, red head. However, if you can find any hairs to speak of, red or otherwise, in Ali Baba's head, he'll probably kiss you."

Bull Bull chuckled at his own joke and the prospect of being kissed made his listeners squirm.

"Ali's mother's name was Arteen K. Ekezian, which he sometimes uses. His father was a pasha, very wealthy, so young Ali Baba didn't have to do anything when he was young except sit and ride and hunt."

Ali grew tired of doing that, Abd-el continued, and in 1920 came to America, the land of the income tax. (His physique and keen sense of humor led him into wrestling.) He went to Hollywood and later joined the Navy and through these experiences came to know his way around pretty well.

The Kurd was born he knows not when.

"The sun, the moon—they are the calendars of Kurdistan," Abd-el explained. "If you ask Ali, he will tell you he thinks he is 32 but might be 42. His parents never thought to mention it. His honorable father told him he was born on a rainy day but he didn't say which one."

He's Savage Only in the Ring.

Abd-el was left to his own devices and the Turk, or rather the Kurd, who once was reported very fond of raw beef steak, was sought and found at Promoter Tom Packs' office.

"No, don't eat it raw. After all, not an animal, you know."

Ali takes a short cut through his English and sometimes is difficult to understand, especially when he inserts Arabic-born words in trying to explain his history.

"I like beefsteak rare," said Ali, and when the Grecian Tom Packs mentioned a few near East delicacies, Ali broke into the widest grin of the mostly solemn interview. "I like them, too."

Persistently questioned about his background, Ali told how he had had six years formal education in Turkey. He can read but has not learned to write English extensively yet. His life in the old country was a bit sketchy because the places and things he mentioned were mostly unrecognizable.

"How you spell? You got me there," laughed Ali.

His fearless ancestry, however, showed through a discussion of wrestling. He's willing to meet any professional athlete in the country in his quest to regain the world title he held several months ago.

"Turkish wrestler have always been among the finest," said Ali. "I have no fear of any fighter. I'll meet them all." (He didn't say all in one evening.)

Ali overtook the champion, Dick Shikat, one night at Detroit last spring, after Dick had become embroiled in a breach of contract suit. The national wrestling situation at that time, as it usually is, was a bit odd, but Ali liked his place at the top of the heap and kept it for a while by beating Dick Shikat again in New York.

Not Sure When He Was Born, but He's Certain He's Fearless, Even Ferocious, and He Likes His Steak Rare.

Foul Play Alleged.

Along came Dave Levin and the first thing Ali Baba knew he was one of the numerous ex-champions. It was officially transferred by means of a foul the referee alleged Ali Baba perpetrated. Ali still maintains he did not foul Levin, that he merely became a little rough because Levin had done the same. That title has descended to the present champion of 40 states, Dean Detton.

Billy Sandow disagrees. Billy has claimed Ali Baba did not lose the title then but dropped it to his man, Everett Marshall, in a later match.

That's where things stand today and the Kurdish Killer is riding the comeback trail, the choice of many fans because of his glamour.

Ali has no special holds, he says. "Whatever I win with, that's a good hold. I crush 'em. Ooomph! Like that."

He has the earmarks of his profession, but his nomadic heart may take him away from it at first impulse. He stays in Detroit with his wife and boy, he says, but he has no home. He hasn't been back to Turkey since 1927, but some day may return.

Until this morning Ali had been scheduled to face Milo Steinborn, German strong man, but Milo was reported to have suffered a badly wrenched back in a match with Roland Kirchmeyer at Indianapolis last night and will be unable to compete. Sam Muchnick, Packs' assistant, announced Blue Sun Jennings, former Haskell football player, has been substituted.

Believe It or Not.

Paul Shikat, brother of Dick, and said by some persons to be the European champion, will meet Ray Steele in the other headline bout on tonight's Auditorium program. It will be a finish match, while Ali Baba's performance will last but a half-hour, if that long.

Lee Wykoff meets George Zaharias in the third bout of the evening; Louis Thesz, St. Louis boy who made a name for himself on the West coat, opposes Roland Kirchmeyer in the second, and Warren Bockwinkel and Hank Metheny, local men, will open the show starting at 8:30 o'clock.

Boston "Pro" Football Eleven Is Transferred to Washington

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The franchise of the Boston Redskins, Eastern professional football champions, was transferred to Washington yesterday.

The crack team, controlled by George Marshall, will play its home games here in 1937 at Griffith Stadium, American League baseball field.

Incorporated under the laws of Maryland as "Professional Football, Inc.," the new organization took over the franchise, stock and players' contracts of the "National League Football Club of Boston, Inc.," official name of the Redskins during their three-year stay in Boston. The local team will be called the Washington Redskins.

Marshall, prominent in local business and sports circles, reached his decision to move his club from Boston to Washington late today after a long conference with Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington baseball club. The two arrived at a satisfactory conclusion on rental fees, concessions and other matters attendant to the playing of pro games in the stadium.

The consent of the National Professional League concerning the transplanting of the franchise still is to come. But Marshall informally has been assured the league is in favor of the shift. The committee which will pass on the nomination of Washington as a big league football city is composed of Lee Joannes of Green Bay, Wis.; J. V. Mora of New York; George Halas of Chicago, and Bert Bell of Philadelphia.

In making the announcement Marshall revealed that three other cities, Philadelphia, Buffalo and Cleveland, had applied for the Boston franchise, which he gave indications of deserting some weeks ago.

The team lost about $90,000 during its stay in Boston.

ST. AMBROSE SOCCER TEAM WINS, 3-0 FROM ST. TERESA ELEVEN

A forceful attack in the second half enabled St. Ambrose team to score three quick goals to defeat the doughty young St. Teresa team in the first game of the Parochial Schools Soccer League final series at Sherman Park yesterday afternoon. St. Teresas, a small, light team, gave the larger St. Ambrose players a stiff battle through a lively first half but as they tired in the second period their defense collapsed. Final score was 3 to 0.

A second game will be played at Forest Park grounds near Barnes Hospital tomorrow afternoon, starting at 3:45 p. m.

IOWA COACH TO USE TWO FIVES AGAINST BEARS

Ten men, or two complete teams of almost equal strength, are expected to form the squad which Coach Rollie Williams of Iowa U. will bring to the Washington U. Field House for a game with the Bears, Saturday night.

For the first time in his eight-year career as head basketball coach of the Hawkeyes, Williams feels that he has men of sufficient talent so they can be used interchangeably, and consequently he has adopted the plan of using two complete teams in all games this season.

Nine lettermen make up the nucleus of the squad. The Hawkeyes lost only two regulars from their 1935-36 team, which tied for sixth place in the Big Ten conference, but while the loss is small numerically, it is otherwise great. The graduates included Sid Rosenthal, the highest Iowa scorer in the last 13 seasons, and Fred Schwartz, both regular forwards.

Four Veterans to Start.

Williams' most experienced team, the one he is more likely to start against Washington, is composed of four lettermen and a sophomore, who has shown exceptional promise in practice. The veterans include Captain Kenneth Suesens, usually assigned to cover the opposing team's leading offensive threat, and Joe Van Ysseldyk, guards; Jack Drees, center, who stands five inches over the six-foot mark, and Walley Gaddis, junior forward. The sophomore member of the combination is Ben Stephens, another forward who can shoot accurately with either hand.

The two first year men, Elmer Bratten, a left-handed forward, and Vic Belger, a guard, hold down regular assignments on the second squad. Teamed with this pair are Sam Johnson, a sensational hard-driving forward; Matt Walsh, six-foot six-inch center, and Al Bobby, a regular two years ago, who was ineligible last season. Alternating with Walsh at center is Floyd De Heer, whose six-foot seven-inch frame makes him the tallest man ever to play basketball at Iowa.

They're All Tall Players.

Whatever the Hawkeyes lack in experience is more than made up for in height. Each of the two alternating teams averages one inch over the six-foot mark; the smallest man on the squad is five-feet ten-inches, and eight of Coach Williams' boys are at least six feet tall

BILLIKEN TEAM IS AT ITS BEST FOR GAME WITH WICHITA FIVE

Planning an attack for the Wichita game tonight at the West Pine gym, Coach Eddie Davidson of the St. Louis University basketball team said the five probably will continue to use its fast break system.

Naming the same players who started in the game with Missouri last week to open the contest with the Kansas school's Shockers, Davidson said he also was still vexed over the height disadvantage problem.

"I don't think their team averages more than six feet," said the coach, "but if they're much taller we'll have to do some tall playing to stop them."

Wichita lost by only a few points to Oklahoma last Saturday. The Sooners are one of the best teams in the Big Six, so the St. Louis players will have to watch their step."

The starters he named were Frank Keaney, high scoring forward; Bob Bohn, forward; Jack Macheca, star center; and Sid Mudd and Al Dudenhoeffer, guards.

Others likely to break into the game, Davidson added, are Rossini, Len and Al Gorman, and Tom Fleming, a sophomore center and guard who has been coming along fast in practice. These boys, except Al Gorman, are more than six feet tall and will come in handy if the Shockers play over the regulars' heads.

Dropped from the St. Louis U. squad yesterday because irregular habits of practicing was Les Cagle. Davidson said loafing in workouts and failure to keep in condition were the reasons for dismissal.

Preliminary to the varsity game, which starts at 8:15, will be an intramural basket title game at 6 o'clock and a contest between the Billiken freshmen and the McKendree first-year team at 7 o'clock.

NORTHWESTERN, IOWA AND PURDUE TRIUMPH IN BASKETBALL GAMES

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—Northwestern's basketball warriors appear headed this season for a record as spectacular as the football Wildcats compiled last fall.

Coach Dutch Lonborg's squad established itself as a powerful threat for Big Ten honors last night at South Bend by trouncing Notre Dame 38 to 19, the most decisive score of their series. The triumph was Northwestern's third straight, the Wildcats having whipped Carleton and Pittsburgh in previous starts. Marcellus (Mike) McMichaels headed Northwestern's offense with seven field goals and a free throw, while the Wildcat defense held the crippled Irish to five baskets.

Purdue won its third straight by mauling Butler, 44 to 14, at Lafayette, and Iowa made it four in a row with a 34 to 30 decision over Denver at Iowa City.

The trio of victories added to the huge edge Big Ten teams have piled up over non-conference foes. In 26 games, conference teams today had lost only two, Chicago having bowed to Marquette, and Minnesota having been defeated by North Dakota State's strong five.

After the good ship Cardinal had safely docked at Daytona Beach Frankie Frisch wired Sam Breadon that the boat was still afloat.

He may have thought that Sam was afraid the Pirates had boarded him and grabbed Doc Weaver.

Frankie stood the voyage fairly well but he found that his sea legs were not what they used to be.

The Browns are not interested in the new bevel-edged platter. What those babies crave is a new gilt-edged pitcher.

Burleigh Grimes won his spurs at the recent joint meeting of the major leagues in New York. He came out of it with a couple of new players, a new hat and still had Van Mungo.

It is possible that the Huskies had the Panthers' Rose Bowl record in mind when they issued the invitation.

Tietje Signs With Browns; Arthritis Gone

Les Tietje, righthand pitcher, visited the Browns' office today accompanied by his wife, and signed his contract for the 1937 season.

Tietje was placed on the voluntarily retired list last August due to an attack of acute arthritis but he has recovered and will be put back on the active list merely by the Browns requesting the action, which, of course will be done.

Tietje said his knees, arms and then his whole system were affected by the disease, which he thought may have been attributable at least, in part, to infected tonsils.

He lost weight until he dropped below 150 pounds and Dr. Robert F. Hyland, club physician, ordered him to his home in Waverly, Ia., where he recuperated.

His weight is now back to near 185 pounds, about normal, and he says he feels fine.

Tietje came to the Browns from the Chicago White Sox and on occasions looked like he would be a help to the club but his illness naturally reduced his effectiveness.

His return to his best form would be a great help to the Browns' pitching staff and Manager Rogers Hornsby is confident that Les will come through.

OWENS TO MAKE PROFESSIONAL DEBUT IN RACE AT HAVANA

OLYMPIC STAR IN 100 METER DASH AGAINST TIME IN MEET

Negro Sprinter Also Scheduled to Test His Speed Against Horse at 100 Yards in Havana.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17. — Jesse Owens, Ohio State's ebony flyer who won four gold medals for the United States at the Berlin Olympics last summer, will definitely abandon the amteur ranks, Dec. 26.

The announcement was made yesterday from Havana by Carlos L. Henriques Jr., Cuban sports commissioner, in a communication with Marty Forkins, Owens' New York manager.

The Buckeye bullet, recently voted the outstanding athlete of 1936, will make his professional debut as a runner in the Cuban National Sports Festival at Havana, Christmas week. He will perform between the halves of the football game between the Cuban Athletic Club and the University of Miami freshmen on the Festival's opening day.

Owens will run against time in an 100-meter event, and will then test his speed over a short distance against a race horse. Owens' financial backers in New York are prepared to post a wager of $5000 that the dark streak can beat any horse on the Island Republic at 100 yards.

Owens leaving New York for Cuba early next week. Following the Havana Festival football game between Auburn and Villanova, New Year's day, Owens will fly to Miami and then proceed to Hollywood, where he is scheduled to make a movie short.

New Dye Developed to Keep Grass on Golf Course Green In Late Autumn and Winter

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Golfdom's turf experts have outwitted the law of nature, turning the rusty brown grass of fall into a bright green carpet.

The greens section of the United States Golf Association has developed a dye that artifically colors the grass. In the late fall and winter it will make golf greens and football fields sparkle like a well-kept baseball infield in June.

More than a hundred-thousand overcoated gridiron fans witnessed the first major experiment with this artificially colored grass a few weeks ago. Philadelphia officials surprised the throng attending the Army-Navy game with a bright green carpet instead of the drab turf on which most late fall grid battles are played.

"Our dye made a successful debut in every way," it was reported by Dr. John Monteith Jr., head of the Golf Association greens section here. "We naturally were a little nervous at giving it a first public trial at such a prominent spectacle, but all comment has been complimentary."

Dr. Monteith said experiment showed the dye would not rub off on uniforms and was harmless.

"I wouldn't be surprised to see many colleges adopt this dye for their football fields next season," he said.

"For the price of two tickets, say $5 to $10, they can dye the field and add another colorful touch to their big games."

Dr. Monteith estimated the cost of dyeing a golf green at 30 cents, or $5.40 for all the greens on an 18-hole course. His experiments at nearby Arlington, Va., have shown that one application will hold color for two or three weeks in winter and a shorter time in summer. Snow and frost do not erase it.

Originally in quest of a chemical to control disease on golf greens, Dr. Monteith hit upon the dye idea.

GRAPHITE CLUB HAS A STAR IN GOALIE RAMSAY

By Dent McSkimming.

The Shamrocks are not picking on cripples when they book their opponents. Last Sunday they scored a 4-0 victory over Sparta of Chicago, a team that had previously lost only one game this season, and next Sunday they meet a team that has not lost a single game, Graphite Bronze of Cleveland.

When the Graphites came here a year ago they were without the services of their star goaltender, Al Ramsay, who had suffered a broken hand. The man who took his place was no dud, but the fullbacks were never quite as sure of him as they are of Ramsay, who is regarded by Clevelanders as the best goaltender in the West. The Shamrocks won last year's game by a 4-1 score, Bert Patenaude scoring three times.

There are other changes in the Cleveland lineup as compared with that of a year ago, but none is more important than that in goal. Trevor Griffith, who has starred in previous games here as on outside right, is now playing at the inside right position; Alex Cooney will be at outside left and Lang at outside right—all of which are changes from the old lineup.

Graphite Bronze are defending their Ohio State Association and Cleveland major league championships won last season and their recent games indicate they will repeat. They won their game two weeks ago by a 9-4 score, Center Forward Jim McDermott scoring seven times.

With Jimmy Roe and Harry Hebberger available for duty, the Shamrocks will again be at full strength. Roe was out last Sunday, resting an injured leg. Hebberger was unable to play because of business.

Sparta of Chicago is said to have made strenuous efforts to obtain the services of Billy Gonsalves. Had it not been for a recent improvement in attendance at Shamrock games, Manager Fencl probably would have been successful in his bid. It appears now there will be no break in the Shamrock battle line.

Race Track to Be Built With PWA's $500,000

By the Associated Press.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Dec. 17.

STATE FINANCE DIRECTOR A. E. STOCKBURGER today approved an agreement between the Twenty-second District Agricultural Association, San Diego, and the Del Mar Turf Club, which Bing Crosby heads, for construction and operation of a horse racing plant.

The turf club gets a 10-year franchise for $100,000.

The Agricultural Association will use a PWA grant of $500,000 to help finance construction of the track, grand stand, clubhouse and stables, at San Diego.

KRIEGER DROPS BALSAMO SEVEN TIMES; REFEREE STOPS THE BOUT

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Solly Krieger, of Brooklyn, dramatically ended Harry Balsamo's come-back attempt last night by scoring a technical knockout over Harlem's former belting brakeman at 1:37 of the seventh round. The bout, scheduled for 10 rounds, was the main event on the Hippodrome program.

Referee Billy Kavanaugh did right in stopping the bout and saving a helpless, mercilessly beaten Balsamo from further injury. Krieger, displaying a crushing looping right, had sent Balsamo floorward a total of seven times, twice for nine counts. Balsamo's right eye was completely closed; his left bleeding and ready to close.

The downfall of Balsamo, hailed as a second Stanley Ketchel until Babe Risko defeated him recently, started on the downgrade suddenly and unexpectedly in the third round.

Balsamo had taken the first two rounds. Krieger seemed scared and nervous.

Then, the stumpy slugger dropped Balsamo with a right to the jaw. The Harlemite was down four more times before the round ended, took a nine-count in the fifth and went down for the last time in the seventh before Krieger's relentless offensive.

Balsamo's courage and ability to take it cannot longer be doubted but he is far from the first-rate middleweight they said he was. Balsamo weighed 159½, Krieger 161½ pounds.

JUNIORS TO COMPETE IN NOVICE FOIL MEET AT C. B. C. TONIGHT

Foil swordsmen from six fencing clubs will battle tonight at Christian Brothers College gymnasium in the novice foil tournament of the St. Louis Division of the Amateur Fencers' League of America. Bouts begin at 8 o'clock and are open to the public with no admission charge.

Alan Beck of the St. Louis Fencing team, winner of last week's Prep tournament, fences again tonight. Webster Groves High is sending George Curtis who took second place in the prep tournament. Morton Anderson, Jim Harlser, Bud Johnston, Louis Martsolf, Warren Brown, Louis Holekamp and Bill Talbott.

C. B. C.'s entrants are Captain James Quirk, third-place prep winner, and James Cunningham. Contestants from Salle de Arms Vical include Oris Poupeney, fourth finalist in the prep tourney, Harry Mewes, Charles Morgan, John Gast, Roy Bohne and Ed Vaughan.

The largest group comes from Washington University who are sending Joe Kelsay, Louis Shotliff, Bob Tyzzer, Wayne Willman, Harold Abrams, Leslie Slonim, Gerald Conlin, Bob Huffstot, J. Stephens and Alvin Governick. Fencers Club are entering three men.

The victors in the tourney, besides winning medals, will gain the title "junior" highest rating of local fencers.

Chile, petite and proficient beyond her years, 22. The senorita began her outdoor campaign in London this season by almost defeating the redoubtable Kay Stammers, pulchritudinous southpaw, in the British hard court championships.

Since May she has not suffered defeat in England, where she won 16 consecutive tournaments. Her most recent exploit proved her class, for she defeated the British No. 1 ranking woman player, Miss Dorothy Round, in an indoor court tourney. Previously she had defeated Miss Round outdoors.

Miss Lizana was within a few points of defeating Helen Jacobs at Wimbledon. This having been her first big tournament year, there is reason to look for substantial improvement and possibly her development into the outstanding player of the period. Observers say she is well equipped to carry on.

Rival for Slinging Sam.

SLINGING SAM BAUGH may be the top hand forward passer among the amateur (oh, yeah!) college football players of the country but he certainly has a red hot rival in a star of the Pittsburgh professional team, Matesic.

This player, so the league's official figures show, gained a total of 850 yards through his forward pass throwing. He attempted 138 passes during the season, completed 64 for the total given above, an average gain of 13.2 yards per successful throw.

He completed almost 50 per cent of his attempts and considering that only veteran players of long experience were opposed to him, his success becomes all the more remarkable.

* * *

Year's Best Ground Gainer.

THOSE figures might make one think that Matesic probably was the most valuable individual in the league. But when you scan other statistics you again have your doubts. In fact, you are not quite sure, after all, if a forward passer can ever be quite as valuable as a strong running back.

Figures show that in actual ground gained by running, the New York professional team has in Leemans a player who made almost as much total ground by running with the ball as Matesic did by throwing it.

The records tell us that in 206 tries Leemans gained 830 yards by rushing — an achievement really worthy of note. Nor is it just a single standout effort—Gutowski made 827 yards in 191 tries, a better average than Leemans. Caddell of the Detroit Lions gained 580 yards in 91 tries for an average of more than six yards for each effort.

Even though 10 other players are helping you, that is a distinguished record.

Decline of the Drop Kick.

WHILE field goals came back for a bigger year than in many seasons past, both in the collegiate and professional circles, the drop kick apparently has gone for good.

In the professional field, where they are apt to employ careful and more certain methods than in collegiate games, we find that of 48 successful field goals during the campaign, only four were drop kicks and all from the toe of the same individual—Clark of Detroit. All of his field goals were made via the drop kick style, the only man to employ this method professionally with success.

Time was when the drop kick was preferred to the place kick and when it was just as successful and from even greater distances. In the past decade or two the place kick, which apparently has greater certainty for the average booter, has become almost universal.

However, it has its drawback. It is more readily blocked and depends in considerable measure on the accuracy of its placement by the man touching down the ball.

They haven't practiced drop kicking much in colleges since they moved the goal posts back 10 yards and the result has been that few of the boys today know the technique of the drop kick.

It is a prettier play than the place kick and it's an even tougher play to score with than the forward pass. We believe fans would demand this play if given a chance to see more of it.

REDS WILL PLAY 24 SPRING GAMES WITH MAJOR LEAGUE CLUBS

CINCINNATI, Dec. 17.—Warren C. Giles, general manager of the Cincinnati Reds, announced today that he had scheduled 29 spring exhibition games for the club during the 1937 training season.

Fourteen of the contests, including six with Detroit, will be against American League teams, 10 against National League Clubs, and one against an International League combination. The other four are with teams representing Southern cities.

The Reds will launch their training grind March 1 at Tampa, Fla., and the opening game is scheduled March 18 at St. Petersburg against the world champion New York Yankees.

Camp will be broken April 5, and en route home the Reds will stop off for games at Daytona Beach and Jacksonville, Fla.; Savannah, Ga.; Spartansburg, S. C.; Durham, Rocky Mount, Asheville and Winston-Salem, N. C., Danville, Va.; Charltston, W. Va., winding up against Detroit April 18 at Cincinnati. The season opens Tuesday, April 20.

PRINCETON AND ARMY ELEVENS MEET IN 1938

By the Associated Press.

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 17.—Army, never victorious over Princeton in football, will meet Nassau in 1938, after a lapse of 30 years.

Asa B. Bushnell, graduate manager of athletics, announced yesterday in releasing Princeton's 1938 schedule.

The game will be the last on Princeton's 1938 schedule and the Army will travel to Princeton for the first time. All of the eight previous games between the two elevens, between 1893 and 1908, were played at West Point. Princeton won five of the series and three ended in ties.

Williams and Penn occupy places on the Nassau schedule, after absences of a year. They and Army replace Virginia, Cornell and Chicago. Dartmouth, Harvard, Navy, Rutger and Yale are on both the 1937 and 1938 lists.

The game with Navy, twenty-sixth in a series dating back to 1892, will be played in Baltimore. At that time the Tigers will travel south of Philadelphia for the first time since 1925, when they battled the Middies to a 10-10 tie in Baltimore. It will be the first Navy-Princeton game away from Palmer Stadium since 1923, when the teams met at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, Princeton replacing Army on the Navy schedule that year. Navy won, 9-0.

The 1938 schedule: Oct. 1, Williams; 8, Dartmouth; 15, Pennsylvania; 22, Navy at Baltimore; 29, Harvard at Cambridge; Nov. 5, Rutgers; 12, Yale; 19, Army.

Next year's schedule: Oct. 2, Virginia; 9, Cornell; 16, Chicago at Chicago; 23, Rutgers; 30, Harvard; Nov. 6, Dartmouth; 13, Yale at New Haven; 20, Navy.

Prep Elevens to Meet.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17. — Austin high school's football squad, Chicago public high school league champion, headed today for Memphis, Tenn., where it will meet Lee High of Columbus, Miss., Saturday in a charity game.

GRANVILLE'S RACING DAYS OVER, HE IS RETIRED TO FARM

WOODWARD'S COLT FAILS TO RECOVER FROM LEG INJURY

Went Lame After Beating Discovery in Saratoga Cup—Finished With Six Straight Victories.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—The question of which is the better horse, Bold Venture or Granville, never will be answered.

Hopes that the two great turf stars would take up their rivalry next year where they left off in the Preakness last spring vanished with William Woodward's announcement that Granville would be retired to the stud at Kenneth M. Gilpin's Kentmere Farm at Boyce, Va.

Bold Venture, representing Morton L. Schwartz, whipped Granville by the slimmest of margins in the Preakness after taking the measure of J. E. Widener's Brevity in the Kentucky Derby—the race in which the Woodward ace tossed his rider soon after leaving the barrier.

Won Six Straight Races.

The Schwartz colt went wrong soon afterwards with the result Granville never got a chance to atone for the defeat, one of three by nose margins in eleven starts during the year. Granville indicated there might have been a different story if they had met again, by winning six straight races, earning $110,295 and getting the acclaim of sports writers as the horse of the year.

Like Bold Venture and Brevity, however, Granville was forced to the sidelines with a minor leg injury in winning the Lawrence Realization in September at Belmont Park. The injury kept the great son of Gallant Fox out of the Jockey Club Gold Cup, a race which appeared easy after his victory over the famous handicap star, Discovery, in the Saratoga Cup.

Granville's knees were fired and he was turned out at Woodward's Farm at Belair, Md. There was little doubt in the minds of his handlers that he would be brought back to competition next year. But, Gilpin, owner of Teddy, great grandsire of Granville, which died recently, finally persuaded Woodward to retire the three-year-old. He has been leased to the Virginia breeder for a term of five years.

Too Great Racers Retired.

In retiring Granville at the height of his career, Woodward followed his policy with Gallant Fox six years ago. Both were leading money winners, the Fox earning more than $300,000.

The loss of Granville and the recent retirement of Discovery strips the handicap division of two of its greatest drawing cards. There also is a chance neither Bold Venture nor Brevity will stand training. Bold Venture is at Columbia, S. C., preparing for the rich winter stakes while Brevity is in Kentucky getting in shape for the $50,000 Widener Challenge Cup at Hialeah Park.

SYRACUSE STARS LEAD HOCKEY LEAGUE SCORERS

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 17.—Art Jackson of Syracuse led the International - American Hockey League scorers today, replacing Jack Keating, of Providence, who was at the top of the loop a week ago. Official statistics gave the Syracuse ace 19 points for seven goals and 12 assists.

Jackson's teammate, Markle, only a point behind, held second place while Keating, with 17 points, had to be content with third, although he was top man in the league's Eastern division.

Church of Syracuse, although he has yet to score a goal or receive credit for an assist, hadn't even a close rival for the position of top penalty carrier. His 20 penalties, however, have all been minor.

The league's top scorers:

ST. PAUL SIX WINS, TAKES SECOND PLACE IN ASSOCIATION RACE

By the Associated Press.

ST. PAUL, Dec. 17.—St. Paul's fast-skating sextet went into a second overtime period last night to snatch a 2 to 1 victory from the Minneapolis Millers in an American Hockey Association contest.

By virtue of the victory the Saints won undisputed possession of second place in Association standings which they previously shared with the Tulsa Oilers.

After two periods of scoreless play, the Millers opened the third by executing a pass, Brink to Mulligan, that counted in 4:54. The Saints retaliated when Burmeister flicked the disc past Goalie Gauthier on a pass from Flood and Modge Johnson.

The two teams battled up and up during the first extra session, but in the second, with Lespi, Miller wing, in the penalty box, Teel pushed one into the cage after a circuitous pass from Virg Johnson and Pleban. The sudden death score came in 15 seconds of the second overtime.

JACOBS' FILLY, STAR LOOM, IS VICTOR IN FIRST AT TROPICAL

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 17.—Today's racing program started off with another victory for America's pacemaking trainer, Hirsch Jacobs.

The young man from Brooklyn tightened the girth on the two-year-old filly, Star Loom. The daughter of Twink won in easy fashion under Irving Anderson's handling. She came from close off the leaders to run over them and register by two lengths.

It was number 169 for Jacobs this year and the winner's backers collected $9.50 for two. Dickery Dock closed a big gap to take the place by a half length from the early leader, Lucky Jean.

Zevanaid Is Winner.

Zevanaid, six-year-old daughter of Zev, outfooted six other sprinters in the second event. Backed down to 9 to 10 favoritism, the coal black mare dashed right to the front and, under Bobby Watson's hustling tactics, remained on the head end to the judges.

She was ridden out to beat the game closing Dixie Princess by Daylight. Character, a former star over this course, tired chasing the winner and was beaten two lengths for second money.

The veteran sprinter Miney Myerson showed his best form to win the third dash by a nose from the favorite, Likewise. It was a fast run six furlongs, the pair hitting the wire in 1:12 flat.

Count Rae was a well backed third, coming from far out of it to finish five lengths off the two leaders. Irving Anderson, earning a double, booted Miney Myerson into a lead of four lengths. Likewise gradually cut down the margin and just failed to get up in the last few strides.

The winner paid $12.70.

CARDS SELL HURLER LEONARD TO ATLANTA

GLENDALE, Cal., Dec. 17.—The second contingent of golfers set out today over the Oakmont course to conclude first-round play in the $1500 Southern California open tournament.

In yesterday's initial round, Orville White of St. Louis shot a 68, four strokes better than par, to lead the field. Two strokes back was Jules Huot of Quebec, Canada, while Harry Bassler, Long Beach, Cal., finished with a 71.

Tony Joy, Cory, Pa.; Frank Champ, Terre Haute, Ind., and Howard Ernest, Los Angeles amateur, tied with par 72s.

Other leading scorers in the first round include Les Bolstad, Minneapolis, 75, and Lin Storti, Milwaukee, amateur, 81.

Mildred Babe Didrikson, outstanding woman athlete, is slated to play her first round today in her initial competition with masculine opponents.

HOLY FAMILY QUINTET LEADS BASKET RACE

The Holy Family Church five took the lead in the South Side Holy Name League last night in its own hall, defeating the Immaculate Conception five, 35-20. Capitalizing on its large roster, Holy Family sent in 13 men during the course of the game to wear down the six I. C. players. Holy Family took the lead early in the first quarter and held it throughout the game, the score at half time being 15-6.

St. Henry's spurted in the second and third quarters and was ahead, 10-5, at the end of the latter, but Ray Holtzmann broke loose in the final period to give St. John's a 16-12 victory.

Flyers Defeat Hawks, Seek Game With Detroit Red Wings

son, McDonald and Purpur, was on the ice. They were not at all daunted by the prowess of the Hawks and worked the disc into Chicago territory.

Olson passed out of the corner to Purpur and Fido, seeing that he was covered, immediately passed to McDonald, standing at the corner of the net, and Duke counted with a short shot.

On each of these occasions the building rocked with the cheers of the Flyer followers who were seeing something which few even dared to believe could happen. And as the game wore on, the crowd sensed that the Hawks might never be able to penetrate the strong Flyer defense. There were anxious eyes on the clock in the third period as the Flyers fought hard not only to protect their lead but to add to their margin, and except for some almost miraculous saves by Karakas in the closing minutes of play they would have succeeded.

Palangio, Burns, Mitchell and others broke loose in the closing moments as the Hawks were vainly trying a gang attack to score and on one occasion only Karakas was between Mitchell, Palangio and Mulvihill and a score. Mike made a wonderful stop and kept the Flyers from scoring another.

No Pink Tea Affair.

Joe Matte, Leo Carbol, MacKinnon and Swede Swenson did yeoman service in stopping the rushes of the Hawks. None of them was a bit bashful about stepping into the charging Chicago forwards and the St. Louis players got none the worst of the exchange of bruises.

Tobin tried many combinations of Chicago forwards in an effort to break through the St. Louis defenders, but was never able to find the right one. Gottselig played a grand game, as did Mush March, Louie Trudell, Paul Thompson and Seibert for Chicago, but the Flyers matched them stride for stride and didn't give an inch.

One of the chief surprises was that the Flyers were able to maintain the pace for the full 60 minutes. Of course, they employed almost as many men as Chicago, but the major leaguers are accustomed to using three lines, switching often, while the Flyers have been playing with only two lines this season, and they had to organize a third line for the occasion.

But the Flyers stayed with the Hawks all the way and had the better of the play.

So much did the work of the Flyers impress Tobin that he immediately approached Ruppenthal relative to a chance of getting Nelson, Palangio and Mulvihill.

Tobin said that he did not make a definite offer, that he couldn't tell enough about the play of the men in one game, but would like to come back and watch them through a couple of contests.

Ruppenthal, however, said that Tobin wanted to take Palangio with him when the Hawks left the city at midnight, but that he (Ruppenthal) told the Chicagoan that he would have to think it over and send him a wire today.

"It would be a shame to keep the boys from a chance in the big league if one should come their way," said Ruppenthal, "but we have a fine team here and want to keep it."

Brydson Suffers Cut Hand.

Brydson suffered an unfortunate injury between the second and third periods in the dressing room. He picked up his skate to see if it was sharp and cut his right hand so badly that three stitches were required to close the wound, and he was unable to play in the last session.

The Flyers will be the recipients of a bonus for the contest, and, according to Ruppenthal, the amount will equal a week's salary for the players. The Flyers are reported to receive from $50 to $75 per week.

William F. Grant, president of the American Association, drove over with several members of the Kansas City club, including Mickey Murray, Curley Headley and Norm Walker, to see the game.

Tobin said that the Flyers played a great game and offered no excuse for the showing of the Hawks. He said that Nelson used his feet about as well as any goalie he had ever seen.

Tobin Uses Some Choice Words.

Those standing behind the Chicago bench said that Tobin didn't take the defeat lightly and urged his men on in emphatic language.

The Hawks, in the basement of the American division of the league, have won but one game this season, so the defeat by the Flyers was a bitter pill for them.

Emil Iverson, a coach of the Hawks, acted as one referee, while Carl Jacobs, American Association official, was the other. Jacobs, it appeared, had more work to do and did it very well.

The Flyers meet Minneapolis at the Arena Friday night and play St. Paul Sunday night.

Muny Leaguer Gets 20 Points But Team Loses

The Food Centers won from the Royal Hearts, 39—36 and United Service triumphed over the Polish Falcons, 35 to 25, in last night's Muny Basketball League games at Sherman Park Community Center.

Elmer Ackman of the Royal Hearts, with 20 points was the leading scorer of the round. Ad Dietzel scored 18 for the Food Centers, while Joe Wynne had 12 for the Food Centers.

Lay and McGrath Entered in Silver Skates Carnival

Two of the city's leading skaters this winter, Weber Ley and Phil McGrath, this morning entered the annual Silver Skates ice carnival to be staged by the Missouri Skating Association at the Arena, Dec. 27.

They join with another outstanding star of the city, Lamar Ottsen, defending Silver Skates champion; Bob Peterson of Milwaukee, member of the United States Olympic team last winter; Maddy Horn, feminine skater from Oconomowoc, Wis., and Bee Slater, leading local woman skater, to form the principal list of entries for the annual winter sports event that has been received so far.

Ley was the St. Louis city champion last winter. This season he again is turning in excellent performances in the weekly races being held by Earl Reflow at the Winter Garden and is in fine condition to put up a strong fight for the three senior men's titles in the meet—the Silver Skates, Southwest open and Missouri open championships.

McGrath was junior Silver Skates champion two years ago but now is skating in the intermediate ranks.

Peterson filed his entry late yesterday. He was one of the outstanding skaters on the team that represented the United States in the winter games at Garmisch-Partenkirchen.

Ted Young, secretary, and Henry Kemper, president, of the Missouri Skating Association, said this morning they expect other members of the Olympic team to enter.

Mixed Doubles Event.

Entries are being received for a mixed doubles handicap bowling event Saturday and Sunday at the Grand and Hebert Recreation Center. A $25 prize is guaranteed. To enter call COlfax 8395.

138th Infantry Team Wins.

Four field goals by Center Woods went a long way toward winning for the 138th Infantry basketball team in its game with the Laclede Christy team last night. The score was 36-34.

"... like in der old country, ya, Momma?... und Stag's got der good old tang I want for Christmas time, too."

Stag EXTRA DRY LAGER Beer

● Christmas is really a merry time in old German homes. They keep up the festive Yuletide traditions of the fatherland ... just as we adhere to old German brewing traditions in the making of Stag Beer.
And real beer drinkers know that there's nothing like a round of foaming, old-time beer for the good cheer and good fellowship that Christmas stands for all over the world.
Stag is just that kind of beer—a refreshing, dry lager ... a true German-type beer. Its mellow tang is especially bracing these cold December days. Be sure you have plenty in the house when the steins begin to clink around the Christmas tree. Better order a case of Stag today.
You'll really be a beer drinker when you stop drinking "sweet" beers and switch to Stag.

ARGUMENT HEARD ON WASHINGTON STATE WAGE LAW

Contended Before Supreme Court District of Columbia Decision Does Not Apply in Case.

CONCEDES INVALIDITY UNDER 'PROPER' TEST

Assistant Attorney General of State Argues, However, Present Suit Affects Public Interest.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Final arguments were completed today before the United States Supreme Court for and against the constitutionality of the Washington State minimum wage law for women.

The decision in this case is expected to determine whether the Court will uphold the right of states to enact minimum wage laws under their police powers or whether such statutes are in violation of the "due process" clause of the Fourteenth Amendment and liberty of contract.

Despite the importance of the case, only two attorneys presented oral arguments to the Court and neither used the entire time allotted. E. L. Skeel of Seattle represented the challengers of the Washington statute, the West Coast Hotel Co. and W. A. Toner, an assistant State Attorney-General, as amicus curiae, represented Mrs. Elsie Parrish, a chambermaid in Wenatchee, who refused to take in settlement of wages less than the minimum wages fixed by the State Welfare Board, administrator of the minimum wage act.

Interrupted by Justices.

Toner was obviously handicapped in his arguments by his inexperience with Supreme Court procedure. He was frequently interrupted by Justices Sutherland and McReynolds, and conceded, in an answer to Justice Sutherland, that, if the Washington statute had been "properly" challenged, it would be found unconstitutional by the highest court. The gist of his argument was that the hotel business was affected with a public interest and that, in this particular case, the Supreme Court's five to three decision in Adkins vs. Children's Hospital, a District of Columbia minimum wage case, did not apply.

Toner admitted that wage legislation was new to him, and observed that, while he had tried to study it, he had had difficulty in understanding the opinions of the Supreme Court. In a flight of rhetoric, he told the court of the great jurists of the ages who would watch them while they deliberated the constitutionality of the Washington statute, and quoted the motto on the entrance to the Supreme Court Building, "Justice Under the Law," rather than the exact inscription, "Equal Justice Under the Law."

Attorney Scores a Point.

The Justices, usually frigid in their formality, took small pains to conceal their smiles. Toner, however, scored one point, when he contended that the court had upheld the right of government to fix wages on interstate carriers in Wilson vs. New. Justice Sutherland observed that this had been done at a time of emergency, meaning that, at the time, a nation-wide railroad strike was threatening.

"But this court has said innumerable times," Toner replied, "that an emergency does not create new powers."

Sutherland was raising the point as to whether a state or national government could fix wages, even if the industry was affected with a public interest.

Before this sally, Sutherland had challenged Toner's statement that, even if the state law was unconstitutional, the plaintiffs in this particular case were improperly in court because the statute gave them a right of action against the State Welfare Board.

"Do you mean to say," the Justice asked, "that, even if the statute is unconstitutional, it is made constitutional by the right of action given to employers?"

Would Limit Consideration.

Toner did not answer this question directly, saying that the act might be unconstitutional if applied to janitors in public buildings. He continued along this line until Justice Sutherland reminded him that he had wandered far from the original question. When Toner insisted that the Court should confine its consideration to the instant case of a chambermaid and should not pass on the statute itself, Justice Sutherland again interrupted to declare that the attorney wanted the Court to "reconstruct the statute to limit it to one set of circumstances."

The attorney got into hot water again when he recounted at length, to the amusement of the Court, the

Madrid Defense Leaders Say They Can Defeat Rebels Only With Definite Foreign Aid

Government Unable to Control Anarchist Elements—Troop Desertions Increasing in Loyalist Army.

By the Associated Press.

HENDAYE, France, Dec. 17. — Uncensored reports from Madrid quoted reliable sources today as having said the Madrid Government was convinced that only with definite foreign aid could it defeat the Spanish Fascists.

Recognition of Gen. Francisco Franco's insurgent government by Italy and Germany struck a death blow at the Madrid cause, defense leaders feel, just at a time when the city's strong defense seemed to be turning the tide of battle in Madrid's favor.

The wariness of France in not becoming involved is one of the major disappointments to the workers' class which, from the beginning of the war, thought it could depend on the French proletariat for aid.

Trouble Within Madrid.

While anxious over the adverse international situation, the Government of Premier Francisco Largo Caballero is concerned over the threat of a Syndicalist-Socialist explosion which has been avoided thus far only through exercise of the greatest tact with frequent concession to the Syndicalists.

It is a well known fact in Madrid, the reports declared, that the Government, despite its report that it has firm control in the situation, is powerless to dominate the Anarchist elements within the National Workers' Federation.

The Federation of Iberian Anarchists ignores Government-made laws, decrees and ordinances, and has shown no respect for military men at the head of the Government forces.

Despite the Government's order that prisoners of war must be respected and suspected Rightists must be arrested only by official police, there have been few attempts to interfere with the anarchists' ideas of sterner treatment, the report said.

Many Prisoners Shot.

Political prisoners are shot at the rate of 25 a day in Madrid, the reports declared, from 50 to 75 daily in Valencia and from 30 to 50 a day in Barcelona. Foreigners look in vain for the concentration camps for prisoners of war.

One foreigner was told bluntly by an anarchist leader: "Take prisoners when food is so short? That would be foolish. Moreover, we don't want to use men for guard detail who could be fighting on the front."

A military commander told another foreigner: "I can do nothing with the anarchist militia. They fight when and where they please —if they please. They don't know what discipline is. If I should attempt to enforce orders I would suffer the same fate as others in my predicament—I would be shot."

Even the anarchist leader, Buenaventura Durruti, a brave man and courageous leader, was powerless to control his own men. He was killed in action and buried as a hero, but there are rumors he was shot by his own men for insisting on an attack.

Troop Desertions Increase.

Adding to the seriousness of the Madrid situation, the reports declared, was the increase in troop desertions.

One foreigner was informed on the highest authority that the whole general staff of Gen. Pozas' disappeared on the way from Madrid to Valencia, and 20 experts from the exchange control board left Madrid for Valencia but never arrived.

Officers have charged that whole militia units mysteriously disappear and there have been instances of the desertion of entire battalions, the accounts said.

ETHIOPIAN CHIEFTAIN CAPTURED BY ITALIANS

Former Provincial Head; Last of Major Leaders to Resist Invasion.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Dec. 17.—Italian press dispatches reported today from Addis Ababa that Ras Imeru, former Governor of Gojjam Province and cousin of Emperor Haile Selassie, had been captured.

The Ras was declared officially by Italian commanders to be the last of the major chieftains still resisting Fascist occupation of the East African kingdom.

Reports said hundreds of miles of new Ethiopian territory had fallen into Italian control in the so-called "second campaign" in territory already described as the Italian empire.

Dejaz Uonduossen Kassa, son of Ras Kassa, who led the resistance to Italian aggression in the Tembien district of Ethiopia, was reported executed for fomenting a counter-revolt in the Gojjam district.

The Stefani (Italian) News Agency said the younger Kassa was shot Dec. 14 by an Italian firing squad for having surrendered in order to direct an attack on Italian troops.

Official reports said Italian forces had won control of Bonga, in the Caffa region, after dispersing brigands with heavy losses; of Arussi Province, east of the southern lake region; and of the Cercer district, south of Addis Ababa, and of the Djibouti Railway, between Harar and the Awash River.

Eritrean troops were said to have seized 26,000 rifles and 112 machine guns without resistance from Ethiopian forces in the Cercer area.

OSSIETZKY NOW IN PRIVATE SANITARIUM NEAR BERLIN

Friend Says Nobel Peace Prize Winner Was Bothered by Visitors in Public Hospital.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Dec. 17. — Carl von Ossietzky, German pacifist and recent Nobel Peace Prize winner, rested today in a private sanitarium "not far from Berlin," a friend reported.

Concern for Ossietzky had been expressed last night when he could not be found at the West End Hospital.

"His health has improved sufficiently for us to take him from the public hospital, where people keep bothering him, to a little, private sanitarium," the friend explained.

"His chances for a complete recovery (from tuberculosis or heart disease, according to reports) are improving. We hope that as the world begins to forget him it will be possible for him to regain more and more freedom of movement. Publicity at this stage of the game doesn't help him."

RURAL SCHOOLS BILL DEADLOCKED IN CUBA

Army Demands Approval of Sugar Tax—President Gomez Leads Opposition.

By the Associated Press.

HAVANA, Dec. 17.—Military and civilian leaders deadlocked today over an Army-sponsored $1,500,000 sugar tax bill. The Army men called on all members of the House of Representatives to meet with them to thresh out demands for a fight to the finish for money for rural schools. Civilians declared an Army-controlled school system would be a "tumor . . . capable of becoming dangerous in the future."

Civilian authorities, led by President Miguel Mariano Gomez, declared unalterable opposition to the proposal for the tax of nine cents a bag to be handed over to the Army for establishment of country schools to be conducted by Army teachers. Domingo Macias, member of the Cabinet and close to the President, declared last night: "The President sees the possibility of Cuba's future sons being educated in a Fascist manner."

Col. Fulgencio Batista, "strong man" of the Army, speaking at Pinar del Rio for the bill, said it was designed "to take a little from those who have and give a little to those who have not." He spoke to 100,000 persons who jammed the little city in demonstration in support of his fight for the schools.

The bill will be up for action at a special session of the House tomorrow night.

Should the Army force its passage, as it seemed determined to do, and should President Gomez veto the bill, the House probably will repass it over the veto. The bill has already passed the Senate.

Last September the Army opened 700 rural schools, and 2300 more are to be opened next year.

SWISS FEDERATION ELECTION

Dr. Giuseppe Motta Chosen President for Fifth Term.

By the Associated Press.

BERNE, Switzerland, Dec. 17.—Dr. Giuseppe Motta was elected president of the Swiss Confederation today for his fifth term, although he succeeded Dr. Albert Meyer. Swiss law prevents the reelection of a president except after an interval of one term, a year.

Dr. Motta was elected by a secret ballot of both chambers of the Federal Assembly, which gave him 157 out of 201 votes. The nominee is selected each year from among the seven members of the Federal Council, on which Dr. Motta has served for 25 years.

Collector of Cuspidors Dies.

By the Associated Press.

OXFORD, England, Dec. 17.—The Rev. Lancelot Phelps, classical scholar who collected spittoons, died here last night. He was 83 years old. His collection, which was scattered throughout his home, included many cuspidors which were among the first used in England.

1933 PLOT TO KILL JAPANESE CABINET IN AIR RAID BARED

54 Army and Navy Men Accused of Conspiring Against Government Are Held for Trial.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Dec. 17.—Fifty-four army and navy men were held today for trial on charges of plotting three years ago to kill all Cabinet members in an air bombardment and to re-establish a system of direct rule from the throne.

They were ordered tried by the Supreme Court, which for the first time in Japanese history will hear a case which has not gone through a lower court.

The Ministry of Justice, in publishing a summary of the alleged plot, news of which had been suppressed since arrest of the 54 in 1933, declared the so-called "Godsent" group wished to alter the existing Japanese governmental and social system because the men thought it was poisoned by Western liberal, individualistic and materialistic ideas, contrary to what they thought was the correct Japanese spirit.

The late naval commander, Saburo Yamaguchi, was selected to fly over the official residence of the Prime Minister while the Cabinet was in session there and to drop bombs in an effort to kill all the officials and also to bomb the headquarters of the Metropolitan Police Board, the Ministry of Justice declared.

The bombings, the official statement said, were intended to be a signal for a general uprising in which residences of Cabinet members and party leaders, headquarters of all political parties and the Japan Industrial Bank were to be burned.

Cabinet members and political leaders who escaped were to be assassinated, the announcement declared.

The execution of the plot was set for July 7, 1933, but the date was postponed until July 11 because of the wavering attitude of some of the men, the Ministry of Justice said.

HAMILTON ADMITS MANY ERRORS IN G.O.P. CAMPAIGN

Offers Resignation as Chairman but Committee Refuses It, Votes Confidence in Him.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—The Republican National Committee refused today to accept the proffered resignation of John Hamilton, its chairman, and gave the party leader a vote of confidence in his management. The vote was 74 to 2.

The two votes cast against Hamilton's retention came from Mrs. Katharine Kennedy Brown of Dayton, committeewoman from Ohio, and from James W. Arnold of Georgia. Arnold's vote was cast by proxy.

When the vote came, on a motion from Arthur Curtis of Missouri, Rep. Hamilton Fish of New York passed his proxy, so that he took no part in the decision.

When it was suggested that the committee members vote by acclamation, Hamilton asked for a roll call which was granted.

"I have no defense of the campaign" Hamilton said in offering his resignation. "There were a lot of errors. I told the committee at the time of the Cleveland convention that there would be. We suffered a tremendous defeat in November, but we still have a future ahead of us. I think the new chairman should undertake his duties with the full support of the committee behind him.

Will Fill Out 4-Year Term.

Under the committee's action, which Hamilton had demanded as the only condition on which he would stay in office, the Kansas attorney will fill out the four-year term usually held by party pilots, who serve from one election year until the party puts forward its presidential nominee for the next.

The chairman arose after the vote to cross the room and shake hands with his principal critic, Fish. Then Hamilton told interviewers: "I'm gratified, that's all there is to say. I'll keep right on working."

ADMINISTRATIVE CHANGES IN TAX SETUP CONSIDERED

Harrison Talks to President; Says No Increases Will Be Proposed.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Chairman Harrison of the Senate Finance Committee said after a conference with President Roosevelt today that administrative changes in the tax structure were under consideration. He added that with further improvement in business it was hoped the Federal budget could be balanced by 1938.

Harrison, who talked over the general financial outlook with the President together with Chairman Doughton of the House Ways and Means Committee, repeated there would be no increased taxes proposed at the coming session of Congress.

"But," he said, "we are studying the situation with a view to eliminating miscellaneous and nuisance taxes where the administration cost is out of all proportion to the revenue collected."

With respect to the undistributed corporation earnings tax, Harrison told reporters that congressional tax experts were exploring the possibilities of modifying this tax so it would not fall too heavily on debt-ridden corporations and those using funds for enlarging plants and for new construction.

WISCONSIN U. HEAD TELLS REGENTS HE WILL NOT RESIGN

Dr. Glenn Frank Says He Has No Intention of Retiring Voluntarily Now or in Future.

By the Associated Press.

MADISON, Wis., Dec. 17.—Dr. Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, told the board of regents yesterday he had no intention of "presenting my resignation to the board now or at any other time." He made the statement after hearing charges read by Chairman Harold M. Wilkie. Wilkie said he would ask for Dr. Frank's retirement with the expiration of his contract next June.

The regents voted 9 to 6 for a public hearing on the accusations, to be held soon on call of the chairman.

Students who crowded around the meeting room cheered Frank and jeered Wilkie. One group of 3000 intends to call a strike if the board ousts the president. The university enrollment is 8000.

Charges Against Frank.

Wilkie in his charges against Frank said:

"The evidence is unmistakable that Dr. Frank lacks the qualities of either a business or an educational administrator.

"Dr. Frank has lost the confidence of those with whom he must deal. This extends to members of the regents, members of the Legislature and other officials and persons.

"Dr. Frank lacks primary qualities essential in the administrator of a university. He has failed to devote sufficient time and attention to university affairs.

"Dr. Frank has permitted practices regarding expenditures of public money in relation to himself and his household that I consider questionable, an opinion which has been held by members of the administrative staff who have been much embarrassed thereby."

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles: that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

WPA Lay-offs and Recovery.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THERE seem to be quite a few fallacies afloat that need punctures. One is that the reduction of the WPA rolls is due to the absorption by industry of those turned off. This is a wishful thought oft expressed in the press, but it ranks alongside the statement that the condition of the under-privileged would have the same thoughtful care after the election as before. The fact is that erasure of names from WPA rolls is being ruthlessly applied, without regard to re-employment by industry.

Despite a statement that Ford is calling back the "class of 1930" for work in Detroit, re-employment is at a minimum out here in the provinces, outside the big industrial districts. With the exception of a few men in service occupations and automobile and electrical appliance salesmen, there has been little upturn in employment in the rural districts.

In the WPA office in Peoria in the Sixth District, 16 out of 20 employed were dropped. In a small city nearby, 100 per cent of the workers employed on a white-collar project were dropped. These had no other jobs, no prospects. They were dismissed without inquiry or investigation. This statement can be documented.

Yet the public is led to infer from published statements that everything is well, everyone prosperous, wallowing in money, while there is no want, no hunger. That is real horse-and-buggy stuff. If our Bourbons are capable of learning, they should harvest some knowledge from the past six or seven years.

Mrs. Simpson's Technique.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IT WAS William Jennings Bryan who pushed back his silver-plated spectacles and shouted: "Every American is a King, but no one cares to wear a crown." Yet not since Delilah pruned her Samson has there been such a hullabaloo as Wally Simpson stirred up in her campaign to sit upon the throne.

It is inconsequential whether flapjacks a la Maryland played an important role in this international romance. Suffice it to say that when the King followed Mrs. Simpson into her kitchen, she parked him at a snug little table and before him placed three hot ones, smothered in syrup, all cooked by herself. And it would have been perfectly all right had she, with a coquettish wink, cracked this one: "Isn't this a dainty dish to set before the King?"

Did he like 'em? Verily, he did. And it was not long until two more were coming up; and when he finished, it is written that his platter was as clean as a hound's bowl. Under such circumstances, it was only natural that neither Edward nor Wally gave a hoot about the British Constitution, or the ghosts of antiquated conventionalisms rattling in the tomb. That, officially, embraces all that is now known of the romance.

Missouri Stuff.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

RIGHT again, Mr. Editor! But who would have thought it out but yourself? Let us paint the colossal Missourian according to your specifications: Tom Pendergast should be immortalized in art as a boss to whom all pay obeisance, from President to precinct boss.

All that concerns this wonderful undertaking is Missouri stuff.

GOOSE QUILL.

Protective Value of Debts.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I MUST confess to considerable dismay at your recent championship (perhaps in a rather cynical vein) of the acceptance of a compromise payment on the 12 billion dollars owed us by European Governments from any of them that might be disposed to offer us anything at all.

I wonder if you have sufficiently considered the consequences that such a compromise would in all probability lead to. As long as we accept no compromise and they do not pay, we are protected against further loans to governments which have demonstrated their low moral sense of financial obligation and who would undoubtedly spend the proceeds of the new loans in international strife and go bankrupt, so that repayment would be impossible, even if they had the intention of making good their promises to repay.

L. L. BERNARD.

MISSOURI IS WATCHING.

Kansas City's First Ward cast 19,863 votes for Roosevelt on Nov. 3; 854 for Landon; a total of 20,687. The ward's entire population, according to the United States census, is 19,923.

The vote exceeded the population by 764.

Kansas City's Second Ward gave Roosevelt 18,928 votes; Landon 2190; a total of 21,118. Its entire population, United States census, is 18,478. The vote exceeded the population by 2640.

Those figures are quoted by Jesse W. Barrett, late Republican candidate for Governor, in an article in the Missouri Farmer, reprinted yesterday on this page.

Mr. Barrett's discussion of Kansas City's part in the recent election is a restrained, factual recital. For that reason it is most effective. When he points to the official responsibility for such conditions, we all look.

In Kansas City, as in St. Louis, the Election Board is charged with the duty of conducting honest elections. It is, or ought to be, held accountable by the Governor and by public opinion.

Speaking from long political experience, Mr. Barrett says: "The choice of these election commissioners (members of the election boards of St. Louis and Kansas City) is probably the most important decision with which he (Governor-elect Stark) will be confronted during his whole term." And nobody knows better than does Mr. Stark that the eyes of the whole State will be on him when those appointments are announced.

What about Kansas City's Election board? Its chairman is Fred Bellemere. The other Democratic member is George V. Aylward. The Kansas City Star says that Mr. Bellemere has long been identified with the Pendergast organization. It reports his re-election a day or two ago as one of the vice-presidents of the Jackson Democratic Club, parent body of the Pendergast organization.

Mr. Aylward is a brother of James P. Aylward, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, and the party's national committeeman for Missouri.

Personally, both of those gentlemen—Mr. Bellemere and George V. Aylward—may be irreproachable. We know nothing to the contrary. But, manifestly, their political affiliations and relations disqualify them for the office of election commissioner. The record disqualifies them. That office is supposed to be aggressively impartial. It is, in a vitally important way, judicial. Yet it has a client and a cause. Its client is the sanctity of the ballot; its cause, honest elections.

That Kansas City's Election Board has failed both client and cause is not debatable. The figures of the First and Second wards are the evidence. They present an organized and functioning corruption far more glaring and defiant than the phantom registration of St. Louis. The exposure of padded registration in St. Louis moved Gov. Park to dismiss an election board, which had failed, and appoint another, which succeeded brilliantly in purifying the ballot.

Honest elections are not the dream of visionaries. They are a demonstrated actuality. And no new law needs to be written. The law we now have is sufficient. Given an able, honest election board, the honest election follows.

That is all the people of Missouri are asking. No Governor can afford to give them less. Yet the Pendergast organization is backing Mr. Bellemere and Mr. Aylward for reappointment as election commissioners.

Missouri is watching, Governor.

A CHANCE TO MAKE SOME SMALL PARKS.

Mayor Dickmann has ordered a survey of some 200 irregular bits of city-owned land left over after street widenings and other public improvements for which private property was condemned. It is the Mayor's hope that some way will be found to make suitable use of this now unused land. Meanwhile, Christmas trees will be set up on many of the plots.

This temporary use suggests what may be done with some of the pieces. For if a Christmas tree will decorate an irregular bit of land, simple planting and care will make a small beauty spot of it. Cities like Boston, Baltimore and Washington are full of tiny park plots, which add greatly to their charm.

It is to be hoped that the Mayor's survey will be made with an eye to turning some of the city's bits of odd land into little parks.

◆◆◆

WHO HATCHED THE CHINESE PLOT?

What forces are at the bottom of the revolt in China? To Tokio, the answer is clear as day. Those conniving, war-hungry Russian Communists are responsible for the whole thing, Japan charges. Because Gen. Chiang opposed the Reds and sought to avert war with Japan, it is asserted, Gen. Chang was bought with Communist gold and induced to mutiny against his chief, with the purpose of advancing the radical cause and causing trouble for Russia's dreaded rival. Gen. Chiang, says Tokio, is being urged on by Communist advisers.

To Moscow as well, the answer to the question is clear as day, but it is a different answer. The responsibility, says the Soviet, rests with greedy, war-hungry Japan. That country, as an act of desperation, financed Chang in his rebellion, Russia charges, in the hope of disrupting China's march toward unification and starting a civil war, which would give Japan an excuse for intervening and making fresh conquests. Gen. Chang, says Moscow, is being urged on by Japanese advisers.

Anything is possible in the world of Oriental intrigue, where plots and counterplots are the order of the day, and allegiance is often a matter of finances rather than conviction. So either theory may be valid, and possibly both, if Chang is wily enough to get bribes from both sides. However, it seemingly does not occur to either of the rival capitals that Chang might have been motivated, not by bribes, but by his desire to strike out at last against Japanese aggression. It is possible that he saw a chance to win power for himself by falling in with the people's rising war spirit. No prodding of foreign agents is necessary if the sleeping Chinese dragon is at last awaking.

EX-KING AND ARCHBISHOP.

"Don't kick a man when he is down" is a bit of good advice that the Archbishop of Canterbury failed to heed when he made his bitter attack on former King Edward and his friends. Now that Edward is reported to be contemplating a reply to the Archbishop's criticism, it might be well for him to consider the same advice. For the prelate may be aptly described as "down," beset as he is by rebukes from many quarters.

Edward made his exit in the most dignified manner possible. His moving address answered in advance the criticisms against him, which he doubtless expected. If any defense is needed, it will be forthcoming, even from those who were opposed to the former monarch. Should Edward now descend to controversy, a discordant anticlimax will be written to a gallant gesture of renunciation.

THE GREAT GOD BROWN.

Readers of the Post-Dispatch yesterday were given a view of one of the activities of a very powerful character in St. Louis known as Beverly Brown. Not that Brown has heretofore been a stranger to the news columns. His name has frequently appeared in one connection or another—anent his racing news service, by which the bookies around town, for a good round price, receive racing results; anent his difficulties with the Federal Government in connection with his liquor business. On occasion, Brown makes the news in an even more melodramatic way, as when a bomb exploded just above the office he shares with Gully Owen, in March, 1931.

Brown is not a ceremonial figure. He does not go in for cornerstone layings and things like that. He does not hold or seek public office. But yesterday the public got a close-up of him. It appears that Brown, deeply interested in Democratic politics, has supplied the bonds for 39 of the 61 persons arrested on election fraud felony charges preferred by the September term grand jury and for five of the seven similarly charged by the June term grand jury. He has signed bonds totaling $207,500. His net worth, as stated in the sworn statement of his qualifications, is only $60,000.

It is, of course, good business for a professional bondsman to sign as many bonds as possible. But, in the case of the indicted election officials, Brown is acting in a philanthropic role. Few of the election officials have paid for the service. In most cases they come under the general head of friends, and to friends this service of Brown's is free of charge.

We said Brown is a power in St. Louis. The statement is provable. The Brown-Owen liquor firm some time ago made the mistake of shipping liquor into Arkansas in violation of law and was caught in the act. It offered a plea of guilty. When the firm sought a Federal liquor dealer's license later, the request was denied by the Federal Alcohol Administration. Brown-Owen saw Kinney. Kinney saw Mayor Dickmann. Mayor Dickmann took up the question with Marvin McIntyre, Mr. Roosevelt's secretary. In three jumps, Brown-Owen got attention at the White House. Pretty fair for home-town boys.

They didn't get their license, however. Nor did one Irving Schmuckler, former Brown-Owen branch manager, who formed the Irving Liquor Distributing Co., without putting up a cent of his own money, to take over the Brown-Owen business.

Brown, as might be expected of one of his varied interests, is often seen around the Municipal Courts Building and at the offices of public officials. When Judge Padberg's grand jury (the one that decided not to investigate the river-front bond issue frauds) was chosen last week, for instance, Brown was in the courtroom. Interesting sight, watching a grand jury being chosen.

Interesting fellow—this Great God Brown.

MOVE ON THEM!

We shall let this editorial be written by Federal Judge Reeves of Kansas City. Instructing a grand jury to dig thoroughly into election frauds in that city, he said:

> When a man casts a dishonest ballot, he cocks and fires a gun at the heart of America.
>
> We can't surrender the ballot box to thugs, gangsters and plug-uglies. We can't stand that any longer.
>
> I can't over-emphasize the responsibility that rests upon you grand jurors. You have every good citizen behind you; they will cheer you on. I know you will move against these crimes against the laws of the United States of America.
>
> Gentlemen, reach for all (all the guilty ones)—even if you find them in high authority. Move on them!

Judge Reeves has sounded a battle cry for all engaged in the high task of safeguarding the ballot against corruptionists. Whether the offenders be of high or low degree—

MOVE ON THEM!

WHAT! NO NAVY?

Missouri has a new army. After prayerful consideration, Governor-elect Stark has chosen from among the unterrified Democrats of Missouri 45 of the bravest, most loyal—yes, and handsomest—men of the State to act as Colonels on his staff. They can be depended upon to hold the line from the fortress of the Racquet Club on the banks of the Mississippi to the ramparts of the Kansas City Club on the banks of the Kaw. Let the cocky legions of Iowa, of Illinois, of Arkansas and of Kansas try their mettle against our brave boys. And bring on your Kentucky Colonels, too.

We are a little bit alarmed, however, because, while the next Governor has amply provided for the protection of Missouri on land, he has utterly neglected our naval defenses. The State has a long coast line. Is this to go unmanned? Are the waters of Current River, of the Gasconade, of the Big Piney, of Deer Creek and River des Peres to be left at the mercy of enemy gunboats, destroyers and submarines? Heaven forbid! Let Mr. Stark repair this omission by appointing a flock of Admirals to form Missouri's navy.

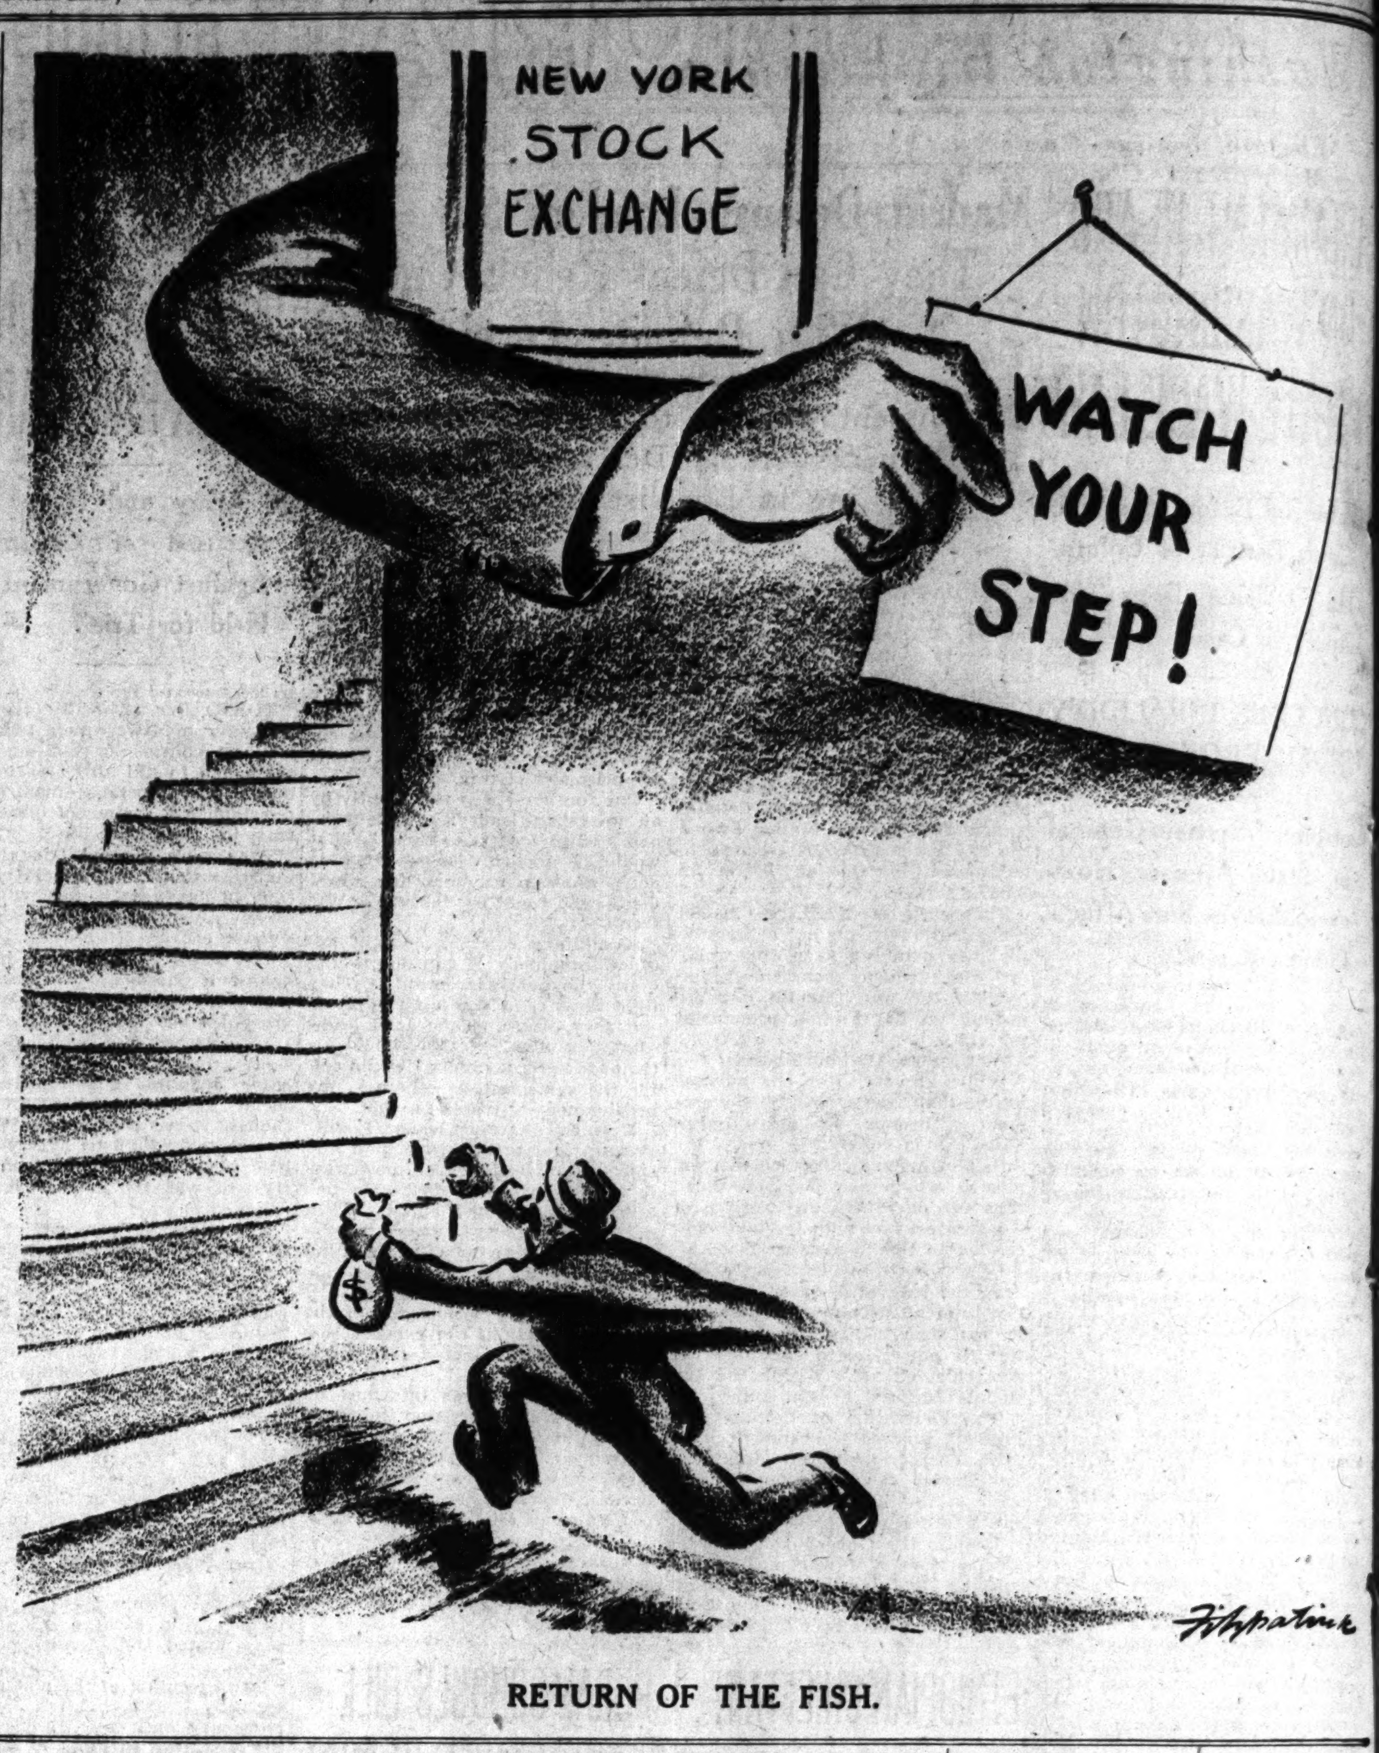
WHERE EUGENE FIELD WAS BORN.

St. Louis formally receives a priceless asset tomorrow afternoon—the restored birthplace of Eugene Field. Those whose have passed by the old brick dwelling since the renovation know what an architectural gem it is; the few who have been privileged to see the beautiful interior and its intimate furnishings are aware that 634 South Broadway is certain to become known as a place which visitors from everywhere will want to see. The story of the saving of this historic house, with its many associations, is familiar; there is no need to retell it.

The Post-Dispatch, which long ago first urged preservation as a public memorial, felicitates Jesse P. Henry, director of the restoration, Superintendent Gerling and the Board of Education, which owns the property. Thanks to them and to members of the Field family, who have presented many valuable items which they might have sold, this city now has a literary shrine which ranks in beauty and intimateness with any to be found in the United States. St. Louis neglected the memory of the poet of childhood for a third of a century, but it has now made amends. The door of his birthplace stands open to the world.



RETURN OF THE FISH.

An Appraisal of Future Warfare

Mechanized armies may not give attackers expected advantage, British military authority says, for better defense is possible by same means; industrial and economic centers and main masses of troops are open to ruinous assaults from the air; war now is so uncertain that "if calculation ruled the rulers, they would abstain."

Capt. B. H. Liddell Hart, Military Correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph, in the Atlantic Monthly.

THERE is little doubt that the new mechanized divisions which the European armies now possess will be used in the first hours of war, with the aim of penetrating the enemy's frontier and opening the way for the subsequent general advance. All the general staffs are trending toward this new picture, in which the first phase of a war is fought out by the mechanized part of their forces actually available, instead of waiting, as in 1914, until the main strength of the army has been assembled.

But there is reason to doubt whether this mechanized spearhead will produce the decisive advantage which is sought. The chances are against this, unless the enemy is not only taken unaware but is himself unmechanized. For, in the first place, obstruction is the natural antidote to the power of delivering mobile strokes which mechanization has revived. By utilizing rivers, canals and railways as barriers, by demolishing bridges, the defender may go far to nullify the new menace.

Moreover, mechanization itself enables the means of obstruction and demolition to be moved more swiftly to any threatened spot. And the defenders' mechanized troops, having less risk of being checked by hostile obstructions, may be switched to meet the danger faster than the mechanized attackers can develop it. Despite the apparent advantage that mechanization has brought to the offensive, its reinforcement of the defensive may prove greater still.

* * *

While the prospects of this initial stroke by the mechanized forces are slight, they are bright compared with those that await the main masses of the European armies. Even if these come close enough to strike, what ground is there for expecting that they will make more impression on the defense than in the last war? The main weapon that then stopped them was the machine gun; there is now a far higher proportion of machine guns, light and heavy, in all armies.

But the greater question that affects these mass armies is whether they will ever reach the battlefield. Their approach must be made by roads and railways; they will crowd these arteries which now, for several hundred miles back, lie under the menace of air attack.

To gauge what might happen, it is worth studying the process of mobilization and assembly in 1914. Despite all the care and effort devoted to its machinery, there were hitches which caused serious trouble, and threatened worse. Yet, in 1914, there was no interference from the enemy such as is certain today through the intervention of air power—from bombs on the bridges and rail junctions, as well as on the trains and marching columns themselves; probably also from mustard gas sprayed over the roads, stations, bivouacs and supply depots.

There is no need to assume that the devastation will be as overwhelming as popular imagination and air enthusiasm picture. The complexity and delicacy of the process of mobilizing and moving forward an army are such that a mere touch, or series of touches, may well suffice to cause its collapse. The larger the army, and the more its mobilization process is speeded up, the more susceptible it will be to dislocation because the greater will be the congestion of all the traffic arteries.

If the opponent should employ mustard gas, the paralysis of war is still more probable. But mustard gas is not essential to produce this stagnation. Machine guns and demolitions should suffice to stop an advancing army; air bombs acting on inherent congestion behind should suffice to prevent it remaining where it has stopped. Blocked in front, the mass army is likely to break down in the rear. If the maintenance of such armies is straining the resources of the nations in peace, in war the attempt to use them threatens national bankruptcy.

The attempt to seek victory in battle at sea has hardly more promise. There is no need to imagine that the battle fleets will be bombed to destruction. If the fleets of the last war were deterred from meeting each other by the menace of the submarine and the mine, how much more likely is such a paralyzing effect now that to these weapons are added the new dangers introduced by shore-based aircraft and torpedo-carrying speedboats—the little "sea sleds" which are fast multiplying in many navies.

* * *

As for battle in the air, here at present is a sphere where the offensive is superior to the defensive. But that offensive need not take the form of striking at the hostile air forces; it is simpler, far simpler, than it has ever been on land, to strike direct at the sources of the enemy's power without first breaking through his shielding forces.

For, coincidently and subsequently, economic pressure will be in progress in all its varied forms. With the growth of social and industrial organization, economic targets have proportionately outgrown military targets, and they have become more sensitive as the latter have become less vulnerable. The complex web of a nation's commerce and industry, its administration and supply, can be easily torn. Military wisdom now lies, not in amassing armies, but in diminishing national vulnerability.

The preparedness of the people is important. As safeguards against air attack, for example, education and understanding count at least as much as concrete measures for the provision of anti-aircraft weapons and shelters. A sturdy individualism based on a regime of reason and freedom, so long as it does not relapse into inertia, may withstand the shocks better than the emotionalism bred by totalitarianism, with its insistence on mass psychology and incessant appeal to mass sentiment.

As compared with today, it was simple to make military calculations in 1914. To launch a war then was no worse a hazard than backing the favorite—even so, the favorite has often lost. But today, it is like backing a horse that has never run, and whose breeding even is unknown.

If calculation ruled the rulers, they would surely abstain from aggression. But ambitious and warlike rulers are apt to prove the most hardened of gamblers. But they carry their own antidote so long as they concentrate on building armies for battle, and thereby burden their war organization with a weight it can no longer safely bear.

A Job That Needs Doing

From the Boston Evening Transcript.

SIGNS multiply that it was a peculiarly fortunate choice which the United States Senate made when it appointed Harry F. Byrd chairman of its special committee to study the executive agencies of the Government and to recommend ways and means for promoting their efficiency.

Senator Byrd, it now appears from an article he has written for the Manufacturers Record, is an old hand at this game. As a former Governor of Virginia, he faced the same problem in his own State. There the Government "was reorganized, simplified and modernized from roots to tassel, just before the depression. The net result was an actual reduction in taxes of substantial proportions, and an efficiency in government which brought the State through the dark days without deficits."

This is precisely the kind of treatment to which the Federal Government should be subjected. Here, too, the field is fertile for abundant economy. Even in the old days, there was much departmental inefficiency and duplication of effort. Today, as a result of the creation of a large number of agencies to deal with depression and recovery problems, the amount of wasted money must be almost impossible to measure.

If Senator Byrd and his committee, working with another board appointed by the President, can show the way to bring order out of the present chaos, they will deserve well of the people of the nation.

Yet it may as well be admitted that the task will not be easy. Any worthwhile consolidations will involve the abolition of many jobs and the dismissal of thousands of Government workers. Congress may be expected to rebel. It will not lightly give up a system which furnishes it with so many opportunities to pay political debts with places on the public payroll.

A NEEDED ELECTION INQUIRY.

From the Kansas City Times.

IN directing a Federal grand jury to inquire into the question of election frauds in Kansas City, Judge Reeves has taken unprecedented but bold and correct action. If nothing is to be done by State authorities, the Federal Court has the more reason to intervene in view of the fact that it was primarily a Federal election.

The fact that the election results in Jackson County were so overwhelmingly one-sided removes any possible political aspect from the inquiry. No disclosures of fraud could change the outcome in the case of any candidate. But it is of vital importance to the community and to the State of Missouri to discover whether there was organized fraudulent voting, and if there was, to punish the principals as well as their tools.

Crooked elections strike at the very foundations of democratic government. It is true, as Judge Reeves said, "When a man casts a dishonest ballot, he cocks and fires a gun at the heart of America."

Crime is crime, regardless of the politics of the instigators. Democrats and Republicans alike, who value their country's institutions, will applaud the efforts of Judge Reeves to get at the facts.

Electoral College Re-elected Roosevelt but Might Have Chosen Landon Under Constitution—No Word From President on Second New Deal.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT was re-elected Monday, by a vote of 523 to 8. The statement is not a gag; not a feeble attempt to be funny. It is the legal, literal truth. He was not elected until Monday, and it was legally possible for someone else to be elected that day. Under the Constitution the American people have no more right or authority to vote for President of the United States than they have to vote for the Archbishop of Canterbury. They don't, either. What they do is vote for electors, who have a legal right to elect anyone they choose who has the necessary qualifications.

The Constitution is quite clear in the matter, but in order to make doubly sure, the writer consulted a distinguished Constitutional authority, Senator William Edgar Borah. This was the question put to him:

"If a majority of the members of the Electoral College had cast their ballots for Gov. Landon Monday what would be the result?"

"The result," Borah promptly replied, "would be that Landon would now be the President-elect, and under the law there is nothing on earth that could be done to prevent him from taking office next month. The possibility of such a thing ever happening seems remote, but there is no question about the law on the subject. The authors of the Constitution intended that the Electoral College should be a free and independent body, making a free and independent choice. In fact, they were particularly proud of the idea, because it was novel and it was their own.

"George Washington was mainly responsible for it, and his purpose was to prevent the development of political parties. He regarded parties and party government as great evils, and repeatedly warned against them. The method of electing a President was the subject of much debate in the constitutional convention. If the election were left to the people, parties would inevitably appear. There were reasons for not leaving it to the State legislatures—a method advocated by some of the delegates. Finally they devised this plan allowing the people to select a body of outstanding men, who would meet and choose a President.

"Actually, the scheme never worked at all. Parties at once formed around Jefferson and Hamilton, when they were in Washington's cabinet. Adams was elected as a party man, and all succeeding elections have been on a basis of party division. Perhaps the nearest the Electoral College ever came to exercising an independent choice was at the time of Jefferson's first election. The contest was between Jefferson and Aaron Burr, and the vote in the Electoral College was a tie, thus throwing the election into the House of Representatives."

"Incidentally," Borah remarked, "it is to the eternal credit of Alexander Hamilton that his influence in the House was thrown to the support of his old enemy, Jefferson. He didn't like him, or what he stood for, but he said that, as between Jefferson and Burr, patriots could make but one choice."

An ironic aspect of the business is the fact that the Electoral College, invented to prevent parties and party government, has become one of their chief bulwarks. That is the reason for Senator Norris' long fight to abolish the college. The machinery required to get sets of electors on the ballot in all the states makes it practically impossible for an independent to run for President. George Washington wanted the college in order to forestall partisanship; now, Norris wishes to get rid of it for the same reason.

Anyhow, that is how the matter stands. If some future Electoral College goes loco, takes the bit in its teeth and elects some dope that no one ever heard of, please remember that this column pointed out the possibility.

Some Ideas About New Legislation.

IN view of the overwhelming popular vindication which the administration received at the polls last month, it might naturally be expected that the President would have very definite plans for his second term, and that he would have a program of legislation ready to submit to the Congress which convenes only three weeks hence. Perhaps he has, but if so he is keeping it to himself. Nothing of the kind has been disclosed to the men who would normally know about it.

Vice-President Garner is the person upon whom the President relies most in his relations with Congress. No man on Capitol Hill knows the ropes so well—knows better what can be put through, and how to do it. The Little Grey Fox of Uvalde is one of the slickest fixer-uppers that ever came this way. He has heard nothing of any administration program for this Congress. He does not believe there is one.

Representative Sam Rayburn, who is virtually certain to be the administration's leader in the House—and hence the man responsible for the introduction and steering of administration measures there—has heard nothing of a program. He has some very positive ideas about what should be done—especially in the ways of revising the corporation surplus tax — but whether the President shares those ideas with him, he can only guess. There is a third man, who must be nameless here, who has drafted much New Deal legislation in the past, and is often consulted by the President on legislative problems. They had a long talk just before the President went to South America, and this man has some "impressions" about what may be done during the session. He does not pretend they are anything more than "impressions."

He thinks there has got to be some kind of a new and simpler NRA relaxing the operation of the anti-trust laws, and dealing with relations between employers and employes. Asked how he expected it to get past the Supreme Court, in view of the unanimous decision by which the old NRA was thrown out, he replied simply and vaugely that he believed a law could be drafted which would meet the court's objections to the old one. He didn't say how.

He pointed out the anomalous situation now existing in regard to railway pensions, in which a lower court has held that the tax on employers, out of which the pensions were to be paid, is unconstitutional, and has enjoined collection of it, but also held that it could not enjoin the Government from paying the pensions. Therefore, unless Secretary Morgenthau can find a way of paying something out of nothing, the case would seem to require legislative treatment.

Chance to 'Crack Down' on Social Security.

THIS informant does not believe that the President intends to "crack down on business" any harder during his second administration than during his first. He does not believe that the language and the tone employed by Roosevelt in his final campaign speech at Madison Square Garden contains the clew to his future course. (It is a conclusion which will hardly be accepted by many who heard and saw the President make the speech.) The informant said he saw no disposition on Roosevelt's part to gloat over his victory, or to consider reprisals againts the interests which opposed him.

If a disposition to "punish" anyone is manifested, the obvious occasion would be in connection with the Social Security Act. The eleventh-hour pay envelope campaign angered Roosevelt far more than anything else which occurred. It took the form, as will be remembered, of pointing out to employes that, beginning in January, their wages would be subject to the social security tax. A dozen labor leaders already have declared that it would be a shining piece of poetic justice for the administration now to say to employers:

"Since you showed such deep concern during the campaign over the payroll tax to be imposed on your employes, we have decided to take the tax off of them, and give you the privilege of paying it all."

Some sentiment of that kind will appear in Congress, but how strong it will be, whether it will have any administration support, whether it will get anywhere at all, is a matter of sheer conjecture.

There is certain to be a powerful movement for strong neutrality legislation. Returning members of Congress report that nothing was more evident among their constituents during the campaign than the determination to stay out of the war which most of them seem to think is coming soon in Europe or Asia. The present resolution, under which the President is empowered to forbid the shipment of munitions and supplies to belligerant nations, expires May 1. It has been attacked in the courts as unconstitutional.

ST. LOUISAN AND SON START ON AFRICAN TRIP

Charles Mellis and Charles Jr., 15, to Visit Missions on 25,000-Mile Tour.

Charles Mellis, a builder, 615 Bermuda drive, Normany, left St. Louis yesterday with his 15-year-old son, Charles Jr., for a 25,000-mile automobile trip in Africa where he will inspect missionary stations to which he has been a contributor.

Accompanied by the Rev. Harry Heinecke, a Presbyterian Sunday school missionary of Greeley, Colo., Mellis and his son started for New York in the low-price automobile which they will use in Africa when they arrive there about Jan. 10.

The automobile will be taken on the boat with them to England, where they will be joined by an English missionary and sail for Lagos Nigeria. From there they will drive south, following the Atlantic coast line, through French equatorial Africa, Belgian Congo, Portuguese West Africa and finally to the Union of South Africa.

The automobile has an open floor at the rear of the passenger seats which will be used for storage and for sleeping quarters at times during the journey. The gasoline capacity is 50 gallons. Daily stages of travel in Africa will vary between 75 and 200 miles, depending on the distance between points and the difficulties of travel.

Mellis is a member of the Congregational Church but he is interested in the foreign missions of other denominations and will visit them. Plans for the trip had been in the making for several years.

The planned itinerary will take them from Capetown up the eastern rim of Africa and would bring them to Alexandria, Egypt next summer to meet Mrs. Mellis, who will go abroad with another automobile. If the European scene is peaceful then the party will drvie through the Holy Land, Turkey, the Balkan countries, Switzerland, France and England before they return home.

Mellis expects to be gone about 11 months. He and his family are members of the Hope Congregational Church, 1646 Semple avenue.

RECTOR'S AID TO BE ORDAINED

Bishop to Officiate at Ceremony Sunday for the Rev. F. W. Kates.

The Rev. Frederick Ward Kates, assistant rector of the Protestant Episcopal Church of St. Michael and St. George, Wydown boulevard and Ellenwood avenue, will be ordained Sunday at the 11 o'clock service at the church.

Bishop William Scarlett will officiate, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Karl Morgan Block, rector of the church, and the Rev. Jerome Kates, rector of St. Stephen's Church, Rochester, N. Y., an uncle. The Rev. Mr. Kates has been assistant rector since last July. He was graduated from Amherst College and Harvard University, and completed his studies at Virginia Theological Seminary last June.

JAMES CRAWFORD FUNERAL

Service Tomorrow for Retired Building Contractor.

Funeral services for James Crawford, a building contractor here until his retirement 15 years ago, who died yesterday of hardening of the arteries at St. Luke's Hospital, will be held tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. at the Stuart Mortuary, 1225 Union boulevard, with burial in Calvary Cemetery.

A native of Ayreshire, Scotland, Mr. Crawford, who was 80 years old, came to this country in 1877, settling in St. Louis seven years later. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Jane Crawford, and a daughter, Miss Anne Crawford, secretary to Judge William Dee Becker of the St. Louis Court of Appeals for the last 20 years.

OLIVER E. SAYLOR FUNERAL

Ex-St. Louisan Who Died in New York Buried in Bellefontaine.

Funeral services for Oliver E. Saylor, a former St. Louisan, who died in New York City Dec. 5, were held today in Bellefontaine Cemetery, with burial there. He was the son of Benjamin Saylor, one of the founders of the Ludlow-Saylor Wire Co., 634 South Newstead avenue.

Surviving are two brothers, Dr. B. F. Saylor of Redding Cal., and R. Morgan Saylor, of New York City, and a sister, Mrs. Charlotte Roth of Los Angeles, Cal.

PROGRAM IN HONOR OF PASTOR

Father Thomas R. Woods Ordained 25 Years Ago.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the ordination of the Rev. Thomas R. Woods, pastor of St. Agnes' Catholic Church, 1933 Sidney street, will be celebrated next Sunday with mass at 11 a. m. and a parish program in the evening.

Father Woods was ordained at Kenrick Seminary and served as an army chaplain during the World War. He was pastor of a church at Sikeston, Mo., prior to his appointment to St. Agnes' Church last July.

WILL OF LOUIS KOHN UPHELD

Two Nephews Filed Suit, Adjustment Out of Court Reported.

The will of Louis Kohn, retired clothing merchant, who died a year ago, was formally upheld yesterday by Circuit Judge J. Wesley McAfee.

Two nephews had filed suit to set aside the will which disposed of property valued at $68,000, naming Mrs. Samuel K. Loebner, 3509 Sidney street, a niece, as principal legatee. An adjustment of the litigation was said to have been made out of court and the plaintiffs withdrew their protest.

Wins Yale Honor Society Cup.

Arnold S. Mengel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert F. Mengel, 5638 Kingsbury avenue, yesterday was awarded the cup of the Aurelian Honor Society of Yale University, which is presented annually to a senior at the St. Louis Country Day School most outstanding in "sterling character, high scholarship and forceful leadership."

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

THE home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Baur, 15 Ridgemoor drive, will be the scene today of the debut reception of their daughter, Miss Adele Matilda. Guests have been invited to call between 4 and 6 o'clock. The debutante, home for the holidays from the Knox School, Cooperstown, N. Y., is the first of four young women to be presented to society during the midwinter vacation. Miss Baur will receive with her mother and a classmate, Miss Betty Wing of Marmaroneck, N. Y., who is visiting her.

They will stand before the fireplace in the living room, which will be adorned with two large urns of American Beauty roses and one low bowl of bouvardia and partly covered by huckleberry vines and palms. Miss Baur will wear the gown of silver brocaded lame she wore as a maid of honor at the Veiled Prophet Ball in October. The off-the-shouder neckline is held in place in back by narrow straps and the fitted bodice is trimmed with a row of tiny buttons. The skirt flares from the hips into a train. She will carry American Beauty roses. Miss Wing's gown is coronation blue chiffon with an accordion pleated skirt. She will wear white orchids. Mrs. Baur will wear black velvet trimmed in old gold, and her flowers also will be orchids.

At the other end of the long living room will be a large Christmas tree tinseled in silver. A marquee, built from the sunroom, will have a border of etchings of Christmas trees along its walls. More of the American beauty roses, white chrysanthemums, and pompons, will be used throughout the rooms of the lower floor.

The centerpiece on the reception table will be white bouvardia and snap dragons, and the room will be illuminated by white candles in silver candelabra. The following debutantes will serve: Miss Frances Catlin, Miss Florence Fleishel, Miss Marjorie McCarthy, Miss Effie Virginia Zeibig, Miss Betty Hulburd, Miss Mary Louise Nolker, Miss Grizelda Polk, Miss Claire Angert, Miss Elaine Bonnet Meyer, Miss Virgina Fischel, Miss Susan Thompson, Miss Miquette Magnus, Miss Mimi Wilson, Miss Ruth Donnell, Miss Nancy Bascom, Miss Betsy Mahaffey, Miss Carroll Wright Taussig, Miss Anita Knight and Miss Mary Alice Collins.

Mrs. Baur's friends who will assist are Mrs. John F. Queeny, Mrs. Harry Koerber, Mrs. Fred A. Hermann, Mrs. Harry Prufrock, Mrs. Jack Fielder, Mrs. Fred Hume, Mrs. Arden J. Mummert and Mrs. Henry Pope of Chicago. Their husbands have been asked to drop in for supper following the reception.

Many family reunions are being planned for next week. Mrs. Richard C. Rippin, the former Miss Grace Sager, has arrived from Memphis with her eight-week-old daughter, Jean Elizabeth, to spend the hoildays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Le Roy Sager, 7241 Greenway drive. Mr. Rippin will be here for Christmas week, and they will be entertained informally by friends.

Mrs. E. J. Frauenheim of Pittsburgh is expected in a day or two to visit her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Schlafly, 4474 Westminster place, and their family.

Miss Louise Antoinette Krause, a junior at the University of California, will arrive today to be with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Krause, 17 Clermont lane, whose son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Paul Lau of Detroit, are expected next week. Mrs. Lau was Miss Ruth Krause.

Mr. and Mrs. John Randolph Bland Disbrow of Detroit will arrive Christmas eve to be with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Carroll Connett, for the first time since their marriage Nov. 14. Mrs. Disbrow was Miss Mary Jessie Connett.

Mr. and Mrs. Connett's youngest daughter, Miss Augusta, who is spending the winter abroad, will be with her aunt, Miss Helen Schlafly, at Kitzbuehel in the Austrian Tyrol for Christmas. They will also be joined by Miss Eleanor Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Scott Carter, and by Miss Betty Berkeley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Berkeley, who sailed last week.

Following the holidays, Miss Schlafly will place her niece in school at Bellevue, Saint-Symphorien, Tours, France.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Disbrow of Memphis, Tenn., will be holiday guests of Mr. Disbrow's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Louis S. Dennig, 23 Brentmoor Park.

Mrs. Roy C. Kates, with her daughter, Miss Mary Elizabeth Kates of Rochester, N. Y., will arrive tomorrow to be the guests of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Karl Morgan Block, 6340 Ellenwood avenue. Mrs. Kates and her daughter will attend the ordination Sunday of her son, Frederick Ward Kates, assistant rector of St. Michael and St. George Church. They will remain until after Christmas. Mr. Kates' uncle, the Rev. Jerome Kates, rector of St. Stephen's Church in Rochester, will also arrive tomorrow to attend the ordination and will be here over the week-end.

Mrs. Irving H. Boemer of the Warson road entertained 18 of the season's debutantes at luncheon today in the Crystal Terrace room of the Park Plaza in honor of Miss Barbara McCourtney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Spencer McCourtney, 5156 Westminster place.

The following debutantes were guests: Miss Marjorie McCarthy, Miss Susan Thompson, Miss Mary Alice Collins, Miss Margaret Ann Corley, Miss Ruth Donnell, Miss Virginia Fischel, Miss Florence Fleishel, Miss Sally Gruner, Miss Betty Hulburd, Miss Ahden Knight, Miss Elaine Meyer, Miss Jane Clyde Miller, Miss Marjorie Morriss, Miss Emma Lucy Stuever, Miss Carroll Wright Taussig, Miss Harriet Edwards and Miss Virginia Brown.

Mrs. Boemer entertained Mrs. McCourtney and four of her friends at a smaller table.

Two other parties to be given for Miss McCourtney this month include a luncheon at St. Albans Farm Sunday at 12:30 o'clock for 60 of the debutantes and their escorts to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Deibel, 7128 Washington boulevard. On Dec. 29, Miss McCourtney's aunt, Mrs. Robert F. Deibel, will give a dinner dance at her home on the Conway road in her honor.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Egan, 30 Brentmoor park, and their debutante daughter, Miss Elisabeth, returned yesterday from New York. Miss Patricia and Miss Alice Egan, students at Vassar College, will return this week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Philip Hilts, 14 Hortense place, left Sunday for Greenwich, Conn., to spend the holidays with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Rumsey Hilts, and to see their baby granddaughter, Harriet, for the first time. They are expected home Jan. 4.

Miss Mary O'Fallon, who spends much of her time at her home near Berryville, Va., is with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. O'Fallon, 4543 Pershing avenue, for the winter.

Mrs. Frederic B. Menner, 625 South Skinker boulevard, left Saturday for New York where she will be a guest at the St. Regis Hotel for a week.

Mrs. Fanny Woodward Mabley of Webster Groves, and Mrs. Alice Orr Clark, 316 Edgewood drive, have left for St. Petersburg, Fla., where they will be guests at the Sunset Hotel. They are making the trip by automobile.

Mrs. Georgette A. Study, 4530 McPherson avenue, will leave the end of May for France where she will be indefinitely with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Auguste Avelin at Montmorency.

Invitations have been received from Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Farrell and their daughter, Miss Mary Jane, 7171 Waterman avenue and Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Piou 7301 Maryland avenue and their daughter Miss Jane Piou to a dinner dance at the Missouri Athletic Association Saturday, Jan. 2. The party is in honor of Miss Farrell and Miss Piou's classmates at Mary Institute.

Mr. and Mrs. Auguste Chouteau Jr., whose marriage last December was announced recently, moved Tuesday from the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benoist Carton, 4484 Westminster place, where they have been living, to 4927 Laclede avenue. Mrs. Chouteau was Miss Elizabeth Carton.

Benoist Carton Jr., a senior at Westminster College, Fulton, Mo., is expected home Saturday to spend Christmas with his family.

Mr. and Mrs. William Gladstone Heath, 582 Garden avenue, Webster Groves, announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Harriett Lois Heath, and Richard Stuart Shultz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Schultz Jr., 662 Fairview Bonpart avenue, Webster Groves.

News was told at a dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. Heath last night, when guests found cards attached to small Christmas tree favors, bearing the names of Miss Heath and Mr. Shultz. A large silver Christmas tree decorated with red glass ornaments, stood in the center of the table, while three tall slim white tapers branched out on each side of the tree.

Guests were: Miss Jean Warbancke, Miss Dolly Ann Yost, Miss June Vierheller, Mrs. Robert Gisburne, Miss Janet Vogt, Miss Florence Lentwiler and Miss Marie Louise Weingartner of Belleville, Ill., a cousin of the prospective bride.

The wedding will take place Jan. 14 at the Emanuel Episcopal Church of Webster Groves. Miss Heath attended Drury College at Springfield, Mo., where she was pledged to Kappa Delta sorority. Mr. Shultz is a graduate of Washington University and a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity.

Miss Mimi Henning of New York, will spend Christmas with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Henning, 7009 Kingsbury place. While here she will be entertained Dec. 23 at a cocktail party in her honor given by Miss Georgia Ann Willmore, daughter of Mrs. Henrietta M. Willmore, 7228 Creveling drive.

Miss Marjorie Penney daughter of Mrs. Garner W. Penney 5530 Delmar boulevard will give a breakfast party at the Warfield Tea Room Sunday morning for Miss Barbara Deas, a student at Gunston Hall, Washington, D. C. Miss Deas is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rutledge Deas, who have come recently from Shreveport, La., to make their home in Webster Groves. Miss Penney who was graduated from Mary Institute last June is attending Washington University.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES LEE JOHNSON of Huntleigh Village and a party of friends recently returned from a quail-hunting trip at the country home of Mr. Johnson's mother, Mrs. Oscar Johnson, at Holly Springs, Miss. The group included Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Levering Whittemore Jr., Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hayward and Capt. and Mrs. Richard D'Oyly Hughes.

Yesterday's invitations included cards for one wedding and several holiday cocktail parties. Mr. and Mrs. Norman Bruce Pitcairn, 6333 Wydown boulevard, have sent invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Ruth Leet Pitcairn, and Thomas Franklin James Jr., Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 6, at 5:30 o'clock at the Second Presbyterian Church. Reception cards for the St. Louis Country Club afterward were inclosed. The bridegroom-elect is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Frank James, 6425 Wydown boulevard.

Mr. and Mrs. Stratford Lee Morton have mailed invitations to a cocktail party at their home, 6 Brentmoor, Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock. At the same time Mr. and Mrs. A. E. White, 325 Westgate avenue, will give their annual holiday party.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll E. Gunnin, 205 Peeke avenue, Kirkwood, have been invited to call between 4 and 7 o'clock Saturday, Dec. 26, for cocktails. Mrs. Gunnin was Miss Margery Skinner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse S. Skinner of Webster Groves.

Dr. and Mrs. Earl M. Conner of Hampton Park will hold their annual open house Christmas afternoon. Their friends have been invited informally to call late in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ley Freund have invited guests to their home, Shirley drive, Sunday afternoon from 5 to 7 o'clock for cocktails.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlton Messick celebrated their thirtieth wedding anniversary last Saturday with a large reception at their home, Maryland avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ferd Oberwinder of Hampton Park, and their son, John, will spend Christmas on a Caribbean cruise. They will sail from New York on the Saturnia Wednesday and expect to return to St. Louis about Jan. 10.

ST. LOUIS ARTISTS OPEN OWN SHOP TO DISPOSE OF WORKS

Paintings, Water Color, Etchings, and Metal Objects Placed on Sale.

Twenty-eight St. Louis artists have opened a co-operative gallery in a store room at 1122 Locust street for a Christmas sale of their wares, dividing the costs and sharing the duties of tending shop.

Paintings, in water color and oil, predominate in the gallery, but lithographs, etchings, batiks, small objects of sculpture, and articles of silver, copper, leather and cloth are included.

Participating artists include Helen Louise Beccard, Alexandra Korsakoff-Galston, Rudolph Tandler, Gustav Goetsch, Florence Veersteeg, Oscar Thalinger and Gladys Skelly. Walter Hoop, who formerly had an art gallery in St. Louis, has been active in managing the shop.

Each artist contributed $2 for rent and other expenses, and the co-operative will retain a small commission from each sale. When the venture is liquidated whatever remains of the accumulated commissions will be returned to the artist proportionately to the total amount of his sales. If none of the artist's work is sold, it is expected that his original payment will be returned to him.

MRS. KATE CLEMENTS FUNERAL

Services Held for Widow of Former Laclede-Christy Officer.

Funeral services for Mrs. Kate E. Clements, who died Tuesday at her home, 2707 Dalton avenue, after a short illness, were held today at Holy Innocents' Church, 5317 Reber place, with burial in Calvary Cemetery.

Mrs. Clements, who was 84 years old, was the widow of John B. Clements, former vice-president of the Laclede-Christy Clay Products Co. Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Edna C. Ryan of Louisville, Ky., and a sister, Mrs. Cordelia Gausman of St. Louis.

HAMILTON ADMITS MANY ERRORS IN G. O. P. CAMPAIGN

Hamilton added that he would have nothing to say on the policies of the party, for its attempted come-back drive, until the committee had met again. Fish told interviewers: "I'm a Republican and I'm going along with him."

"I have consulted Gov. Landon and he advised me my position is sound. He thought the chairman who succeeds me should be free to go ahead and build up a new organization."

Defended by Curtis.

Hamilton was defended by Arthur Curtis of Missouri and assailed by Fish, who has demanded a "liberalized" leadership.

Curtis told the group: "I don't see any reason why Mr. Hamilton should resign, any more than the chairmen of the various states should resign. I don't believe any mistakes by the national committee caused our defeat. I move his resignation be refused."

Then Fish, who is not a member but is attending with the proxy of an Alaska member, E. A. Rasmuson, denounced both the party's policies and Hamilton's leadership.

"If the party does not liberalize, and reorganize, you die," the New York Congressman declared. "If the word goes out today that it learned no lesson from the last campaign, the party will perish.

Assails Social Security Stand.

"No one denies Mr. Hamilton's fine personality, but he led the fight against the Social Security Act which alienated millions of wage earners. He went to Boston and made a speech which drove millions out. He has shown that his associates comprise the Old Guard."

Mrs. Ruth Baker Pratt of New York interrupted.

"We were not opposed to social security," she asserted. "We were only opposed to the Social Security Act, because we believed—and we still do—that it's unsound."

"You came here with your minds closed," Fish said. "Hamilton says the party didn't have enough time to organize for the campaign. Well, he was the committeeman from Kansas long before he was national chairman, and he had plenty of time to organize in that state. Still we lost it by 66,000 votes."

Fish closed with a quotation from Shakespeare.

"The fight is on 'and damned be him who first cries, hold, enough!'"

Representative Everett Dirksen of Pekin, Ill., assailed the Republican leaders for their attitude on social problems and asserted they needed "a damn good lecture" on learning how to find out what the people want.

Dirksen said he voted for the Guffey Act, the so-called "little NRA" for coal industry, because he "thought it was a good thing."

Hamilton Defended by Others.

Six pro-Hamilton leaders defended the chairman, and quarreled with Fish over the Republican stand on social security.

Hamilton spoke only briefly in turning the gavel over to Ralph Williams of Oregon, veteran vice-chairman.

"It would be possible," Hamilton said, "to defer a choice of a chairman, and set up a Steering Committee for 90 days or so." In discussing Gov. Landon's opinions, Hamilton said, "The Governor believes that the mistakes of the last campaign should be aired fully."

Harvey Jewett, South Dakota committeeman, suggested the party be given "a liberal touch."

Frank Burns of Washington proposed a change in personnel of the party's Executive Committee. The same members have held posts so long, he declared, it gave the impression of a "closed corporation."

No Proxy Transfers.

On a motion by Col. R. B. Creager of Texas, the committee voted to accept only proxies that were "signed and witnessed." It also voted down a proposal to permit the transfer of proxies Fish precipitated the ruling with a request to transfer one of three proxies to an unidentified person.

C. B. Goodspeed, treasurer, said the party emerged from the 1936 presidential campaign with a deficit of $901,501.61. He told the committee $5,689,944.90 was spent in the unsuccessful effort to elect Landon.

Gov. Landon sent a telegram to the National Committee members today saying: "The splendid spirit which has been shown in defeat by those who supported the Republican ticket in the last general election should serve as an inspiration to the members of the National Committee in their deliberations. Republicans throughout the nation will look to the committee and the party's elected representatives everywhere for intelligent leadership in formulating the plans for the future. Will you extend my personal regards to the individual members of the committee?"

paid from university appropriations, was attached to Wilkie's statement.

Frank's Answer.

Frank told the regents Wilkie's charges dealt with "types of criticism that can be heard on the campus of every major university in the country."

He said Wilkie's criticism of the president's office expenditures hinted of something of a personal or family nature.

"My family and I did not request to live in the residence directed by the board," he said. "I believe we would be better off economically and more satisfied personally if we could live in a house or apartment comparable to the one we had before we came to Wisconsin."

COMMITTEE HEARS IDEAS FOR FARM TENANCY REFORM

Wallace Suggests Land Speculation Be Curbed and Working Agreements Be Improved.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17. — Several reforms aimed at farm tenancy evils were proposed before President Roosevelt's Tenancy Committee yesterday.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, chairman of the committee of 40, suggested that land speculation be curbed and landlord-tenant agreements be improved.

W. L. Blackstone of Wynne, Ark., who said he had been a sharecropper most of his life, suggested that the Federal Government encourage unionization of tenants, croppers and farm labor. Blackstone, the only tenant farmer on the commission, is the father of 10 children. He said he preached on Sundays.

Blackstone said he advocated written contracts between tenants and landlords; arbitration of disputes; abolition of commissaries; lower interest rates and loans for tenants through Federal agencies.

Two Negro educators, F. D. Patterson of Tuskegee Institute, Alabama, and Charles S. Johnson of Fiske University, Nashville, Tenn., discussed tenancy problems as related to their race.

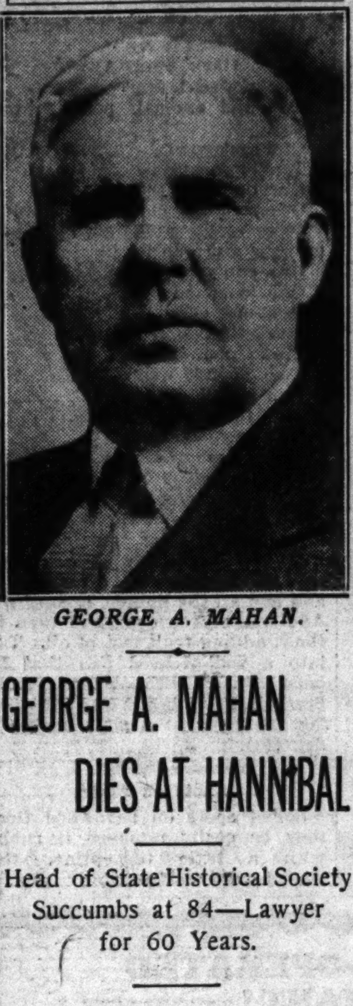
HEAD OF HISTORICAL SOCIETY DIES



GEORGE A. MAHAN.

GEORGE A. MAHAN DIES AT HANNIBAL

Head of State Historical Society Succumbs at 84—Lawyer for 60 Years.

By the Associated Press.

HANNIBAL, Mo., Dec. 17. — George A. Mahan, 84 years old, president of the State Historical Society of Missouri, died suddenly at his home here yesterday.

Only a few days ago, Mr. Mahan had made an out-of-town trip and he had been able to be about the house yesterday morning.

Funeral services conducted by Dr. C. J. Armstrong of First Christian Church, will be held from the home tomorrow afternoon. Burial will be in Mount Olive Cemetery here.

A prominent Missouri lawyer for more than 60 years, he was known for his efforts to perpetuate the memory of Samuel L. Clemens (Mark Twain) years ago, he bought and gave to the City of Hannibal the home in which Clemens spent his boyhood here.

Later he conceived the idea of a statue of Tom and Huck, Twain's immortal juvenile characters, and sponsored efforts that led to its erection.

Mr. Mahan had not been active in his law practice recently, although he went frequently to his office. A member of his family said heart disease was the probable cause of death.

He was born on a farm in Marion County, a few miles from Hannibal, Aug. 6, 1851. He attended Bethel College, Washington and Lee University and Indiana University, from which he received his degree in law in 1872. Admitted to the bar in January, 1873, he had practiced in Hannibal continuously since.

He served as City Counselor, Prosecuting Attorney of Marion County and Representative in 1886 in the State Legislature. He served two years as president of the Hannibal Chamber of Commerce and had been president of the Historical Society for 10 years.

On May 24, 1883, he was married to Miss Ida Duiany, who died in 1930. A son, Dulany Mahan, associated with his father in the practice of law, and three grandchildren survive.

3772 DROPPED FROM WPA PAYROLL IN EAST SIDE DISTRICT

15,321 Still Employed by Federal Agency in 10 Illinois Counties.

The number of persons on WPA payrolls in the East St. Louis district, which includes 10 Illinois counties, has been reduced from 19,093 to 15,321, a decrease of 3772 during the last month, Fred G. Austin, district administrator, said yesterday. The decrease includes 62 administrative employes.

The reduction chiefly results from abandonment of a drouth relief program, but also takes in persons discharged for incompetence, those who have obtained employment in private industry, and others removed from the rolls because some member of the family had adequate private income, Austin said. He had not figured the reduction in the amount of wages, he said.

PUBLIC MEETINGS AND ENTERTAINMENTS

Scott Leavitt, commander-in-chief of the United Spanish War Veterans, will meet with St. Louis members of the organization Saturday at 8 p. m. at Musicians' Hall, 3535 West Pine boulevard, as part of an official visit to be paid St. Louis on that day.

Wyman School Playground Mothers' Circle will give two short plays at the McKinley High School Thursday night at 8 o'clock for the benefit of the Patrons' Alliance pilgrimage fund, which is used for under-privileged children of public schools.

The Washington University Law School Alumni Association will hold a Christmas party at 6:30 o'clock tonight in the law school library on the campus. Dean J. A. McClain Jr. of the school and Edward W. Bourne, New York attorney, will speak.

POLICE BOARD TO CONSIDER BAIL REQUIREMENT CHANGE

Bonds Signed by Personal Property Taxpayers Proposed in Major Traffic Cases.

President William L. Igoe of the Board of Police Commissioners told a Post-Dispatch reporter today that he would present to the board at its meeting tomorrow the question of whether persons accused of major traffic offenses should be permitted to furnish bonds signed by personal property taxpayers, instead of bonds signed by real estate owners, as required at present.

The police practice has been to require a person arrested on a charge of speeding, driving through a red light or passing a school stop sign to go to a police station and furnish bond signed by an owner of real estate. "Tickets" or summonses are issued to persons charged with traffic offenses considered less serious.

As a practical matter a motorist arrested on any of the three more serious charges and taken to a police station to give bond has generally, as a matter of convenience, had to resort to a professional bondsman. Under the suggested plan, the motorist might simply call on any friend known to be a taxpayer.

One pound dates.
Two teaspoons nutmeg.
One teaspoon mace.
One teaspoon cloves.
Two teaspoons cinnamon.
Three teaspoons baking powder.

Reserve some of the flour for the fruit and sift the remainder with baking soda, baking powder and spices. Cream butter and sugar and add all the liquids, mixing well. Add well-beaten eggs and then the flour, adding fruit last of all. Turn into a well-greased pan that has been lined with waxed paper. Steam for two hours and then bake for one hour in a slow oven (300 degrees).

Spots on Floor.

Soiled spots on hardwood floors may be easily removed if rubbed with a little turpentine, then waxed with self-polishing wax.

RECIPES FOR NEXT WEEK

Creamed Chipped Beef.

Two tablespoons butter
One-fourth pound dried beef
Two tablespoons flour
One cup boiling water
One cup irradiated evaporated milk.

Melt butter in a frying pan. Pull beef apart, removing any stringy portions, and frizzle in the hot butter until edges curl. Sprinkle flour over beef. Stir with a fork to blend well. Add boiling water. Boil until sauce begins to thicken, then add milk and finish cooking. Serve at once on thin hot toast, or on mashed potatoes. Yield: Six servings.

Mince Meat Fudge Squares.

Cream one-half cup butter, add one cup sugar gradually and cream together thoroughly. Add two eggs, one at a time, beating until fluffy after addition of each. Add one-half cup mince meat, one-half cup nut meats, one teaspoon vanilla and one and one-half ounces bitter chocolate (melted over hot water). Sift three-fourths cup pastry flour (sifted once before measuring) with one-fourth teaspoon salt and fold into mince meat mixture. Pour into a shallow greased pan (8x12 inches) the bottom of which is lined with waxed paper, and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) for 30 to 35 minutes. Turn out on waxed paper. Cut while hot into small squares like fudge and sprinkle with powdered sugar.

Baked Steak.

Two pounds sirloin steak, one and one-half inches thick
Salt
Pepper
Two cups sliced onions
One lemon, sliced
One-half cup fat
Two tablespoons prepared mustard
One cup chili sauce
One tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
One teaspoon chili powder
One cup tomato juice.

Sprinkle steak with salt and pepper. Top with onion and lemon slices. Cream together fat and mustard. Add sauces and chili powder; pour over onions. Cook in hot oven (450 degrees) 20 minutes. Add tomato juice. Reduce to 350 degrees Fahrenheit. Cook one hour. Serves six.

Lemon Pudding.

Two tablespoons cornstarch
One-half cup sugar
Two eggs
One tall can evaporated milk
One-fourth teaspoon salt
One cup boiling water
One-third cup lemon juice
Two teaspoons lemon rind.

Mix cornstarch, sugar and salt. Add boiling water. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Add milk slowly. Set over boiling water, cover and cook 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Beat egg whites stiff. Beat egg yolks, add lemon juice slowly, beating constantly. Pour cornstarch mixture slowly into egg yolks. Return to double boiler, cook two minutes longer, then pour slowly into egg whites. Add lemon rind. Serve warm or cold. Yield: Six to eight servings.

Escallop Sauerkraut.

Two tablespoons butter
Two tablespoons flour
Two cups milk
One-half teaspoon salt
One-eighth teaspoon paprika
Two cups sauerkraut
One cup grated cheese
One-half cup buttered crumbs.

Make a white sauce by melting butter, adding flour and then milk. Allow to boil and then add seasoning. Spread a layer of half of the sauerkraut on the bottom of a buttered baking dish; cover it with half the white sauce, then add a layer of half the grated cheese. Make a second layer of sauerkraut, sauce and cheese; cover the top with a layer of buttered crumbs and place in the oven. When the sauce bubbles through the crumbs it is done. Serve hot in the baking dish.

STEWS ARE SPLENDID COLD WEATHER DISHES

Stews, it is said, are best when served to the accompaniment of howling winds and wintry storms, but whether or not that is true, certainly the converse is. There is something friendly and homely about a well-made stew which dispels the outside cold and creates a feeling of utmost satisfaction, regardless of the weather. On this score, at least, wintertime is "stew time."

While all stews are cooked by the same method, there are ways to add variety so they may make frequent appearances at the table without risk of monotony. The meat may be dredged with flour and browned in hot lard before any water is added, thus making a brown stew; or the water may be added to unbrowned cubes of meat for a white stew. A variety of seasonings and vegetables may be used to make one stew different from another. The stew may be cooked on top of the stove, or made into a meat pie and cooked in the oven.

Lamb Stew With Cream.

Two pounds lamb shoulder or breast.
Two tablespoons flour.
Two tablespoons lard.
Two small onions, sliced.
Two cups tomato pulp or soup.
Two tablespoons chopped parsley.
One cup thick sour cream.
Paprika.
Salt and pepper.

Have lamb shoulder or breast boned and cut into 1 to 2 inch cubes. Dredge these in flour and brown, together with the onions, in hot lard. Season with salt and pepper and paprika. Add the tomato pulp or soup and let cook slowly until done, about two hours. Add water only if necessary during cooking. Just before serving, add the sour cream and blend it well with the sauce.

Banana Delight.

Add one teaspoon powdered sugar, one-fourth teaspoon vanilla and one tablespoon orange juice to one-half pint cream. Whip until stiff. Mix lightly with this one cup marshmallows cut in quarters, two cups bananas, sliced; one-fourth cup chopped nut meats. Top with a slice of banana.

MEAT DRIPPINGS MAKE EXCELLENT SEASONING

Saving the meat drippings is a habit with thrifty housewives, and a wise one, too, for meat drippings can be used to add the distinctive flavor to otherwise bland and uninteresting foods. Most vegetables are improved by the addition of meat drippings as seasoning. And what would gravy be without that delicious meat flavor?

The meat drippings usually consist of fat, moisture and flavoring, although this depends to a great extent on the kind of meat from which they come. Ham and bacon drippings, because of their characteristic flavor, frequently are used for flavoring vegetables, and hot breads, such as muffins and corn bread. It is said that meats cooked by braising, such as a pot-roast or Swiss steak, make the best gravies and sauces, as each time moisture is added and cooked away the drippings become that much browner and the gravy that much more delicious. A roast, cooked as it should be, at a low temperature, will produce drippings of a light color, but the brown color and caramel flavor which everyone likes in gravy may be obtained by allowing flour to brown in the drippings before any liquid is added.

Largest Peanut Crop On Record This Year

More Than One Billion Pounds Available to Users of This High Protein Food.

The peanut-man will have plenty of "goobers" for his customers this winter. The oil mills that crush peanuts will be well supplied. Peanut butter manufacturers, candy makers, and salted peanut distributors will have plenty of raw material with which to work.

The biggest crop of peanuts on record was harvested this year. According to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, 1,311,560,000 pounds of peanuts have been produced. Over half of this huge crops was raised in Alabama, Georgia, and Florida—736 million pounds. Other peanut farmers in Virginia, the Carolinas, and three or four other Southern states raised the rest.

Three main kinds of peanuts are grown—Virginia, Spanish, and Runner. A good share of the Virginia Jumbos are salted or roasted in the shell. Formerly peanut butter consisted almost solely of mixtures of Virginia and Spanish type peanuts, but recently a good many Runner type peanuts have been used for butter. The Runner type is plentiful this season.

Has Many Uses.

Two hundred million pounds of peanuts may go directly to the oil mills. There's an extra heavy demand for peanut oil for the manufacture of compounds used for baking and frying, and for table margarine. With feed grains scarcer because of the past season's drouth, the hogs going to the 1937 market are not as well-fattened as usual, and so there is less lard available just now. The demand is also partly due to the light supply of cottonseed oil. Housewives will doubtless be buying more of the solidified or hydrogenated cooking fats made from vegetable oils, including peanut oil.

A small part of the peanut oil will be refined and sold as salad oil, or manufactured into ready-to-use salad dressings. Institutions are said to have placed rather large orders for peanut oil, because of its good flavor and the fact that when used in cooking it does not scorch and break down chemically so quickly as some other fats. This makes it excellent for deep-fat frying. The Bureau of Home Economics found in the course of a series of experiments on potato chips fried in different fats, that the judges rated the chips cooked in peanut oil highest for "general desirability." They scored the chips on color, aroma, crispness and flavor.

New factories in a great many peanut-growing localities gave evidence of the continuing popularity of peanut butter. A large part of the 1937 crop will be marketed in this form. Peanut butter, peanut candies, and salted peanuts, in about this order, are the most important outlets for the peanut crop, in addition to what is crushed for peanut oil. However, we shall eat some of our peanuts indirectly, as peanut-fed pork, ham, or bacon. A great many peanuts are always used as feed for hogs. The peanuts are not harvested for the hogs; the animals "hog-off" the nuts in the ground for themselves.

Rich in Fats.

A word of warning from the diet experts to the nibblers of salted peanuts at the dinner table, and the boys who like fresh roasted peanuts "by the peck." And for the children who love peanut brittle and other peanut candies. Peanuts are a highly concentrated food. They are one-third to one-half fat, according to variety, one-fourth protein, and about one-fourth carbohydrates and minerals. If it were not for the high proportion of fat we might depend on them to a greater extent as a source of protein, for peanut protein is of excellent quality. But twice as much fat as protein in a food makes it very rich. So it's best to eat peanuts in relatively small amounts at a time, and to mix them with other foods that have less fat.

Peanuts are a good source of vitamin B and an excellent source of vitamin G. As to minerals, they are rich in phosphorus, but poor in calcium, and only a fair source of iron. Although they are called "nuts" and included in some of the food definitions as nuts, they are really legumes, members of the pea family. The fruit or pod matures in the soil instead of on the vines.

While it is usually more convenient to buy peanut butter as sold in glass jars or tins, a housewife who has a food grinder can make her own peanut butter when she has peanuts on hand. She can suit the faimly as to the texture of the butter, whether smooth or somewhat granulated. For butter, use the roasted shelled nuts with the red skins removed. Grind them, using the finest knife on the food grinder. It may be necessary to put the butter twice through the grinder, adding salt to taste before the second grinding.

The sandwich fillings made by combining peanut butter with other materials are a matter of the housewife's invention applied to what she has on hand. Peanut butter with chopped dried fruits; with cream cheese; with hardcooked eggs; with sliced mild onion; with grated raw carrots; with tomato catsup—these are some possibilities in the sandwich line.

Add to Biscuits.

Peanut butter is good in place of part of the shortening in biscuits and cup cakes, and in sauces for vegetables. Peanut butter soup, made like any creamed vegetable soup, is delicious and quickly prepared. Some prefer canned tomatoes as the liquid rather than milk.

A good peanut loaf for dinner is made by combining equal parts of peanuts, chopped carrots, bread crumbs and canned tomatoes, binding the mixture with one or two eggs, and seasoning with melted butter, salt and pepper. This will bake in a moderate oven in 30 minutes.

Chopped or whole peanuts can be creamed and served on toast for lunch or dinner. They are an addition to almost any salad, and to many of the scalloped baked vegetables — for instance, scalloped onions with peanuts. They are popular in muffins, cookies, cakes, and even mixed with waffle batter.

One way and another, most of us will be taking advantage of the billion-pound crop of peanuts this winter to enrich and vary the usual menus.

CHEESE RELISH FILLING

One-half cup cream cheese.
One-fourth cup stuffed olives.
Two tablespoons ripe olives.
Two tablespoons chili sauce.
One-fourth teaspoon minced onion.
One-fourth teaspoon minced parsley.

Mix ingredients with fork and use as filling for buttered graham bread sandwiches. Makes 18 sandwiches.

THE VERSATILE CRANBERRY MAKES HOLIDAY SALAD

The versatile cranberry serves in many capacities during the holiday season. Here is a salad for any holiday meal.

Cranberry Marshmallow Salad.

One quart cranberries.
One cup water.
One cup sugar.
One pack-ette (one-fourth pound) marshmallows (cut in halves.)
Two tablespoons lemon juice.
One-half cup celery (cut fine.)
One-fourth cup walnut meats (broken.)

Wash and pick over cranberries. Add water and cook until berries burst. Remove from flame and with a wooden spoon press through a sieve. To the cranberry puree add the sugar; then cook for two minutes. Remove from flame and add the marshmallows, folding over and over until marshmallows are partially melted. Set aside to cool; then add lemon juice, chopped celery and nut meats. Pour into individual molds, and place in refrigerator. Chill until firm. Unmold on crisp lettuce, and serve with mayonnaise. Serves seven or eight.

THIS PIE COMBINES TWO HOLIDAY TRADITIONS

Combining two traditions into one is a great time-saver for many hostesses during the holidays. Here is a recipe that combines both the colorful cranberry and the well-known mince meat.

Cranberry Mince Meat Pie.

One package dry mince meat.
One and one-half cups water.
One and one-half cups cooked, sweetened cranberries.
Pie crust.

Break mince meat into pieces. Add water. Place over heat and stir until all lumps are thoroughly broken up. Bring to brisk boil; continue boiling for three minutes. Allow to cool. Combine prepared mince meat and cooked, sweetened cranberries. Place in nine-inch pie plate lined with pastry. Place half-inch strips of pastry over top to form lattice work. Bake 35 minutes in a hot over (400 degrees).

PUMPKIN COOKIES

One cup sugar.
One-half cup shortening.
Two eggs.
One cup sieved, cooked pumpkin.
One and one-fourth cups flour.
Two teaspoons baking powder.
One teaspoon cinnamon.
One-fourth teaspoon ginger.
One-fourth teaspoon nutmeg.
One-half teaspoon salt.
Three-fourths cup raisins.
One-half cup chopped nut meats.
One-half teaspoon vanilla.

Cream the shortening, add the sugar, and cream until fluffy. Add the beaten eggs, the pumpkin, and the flour which has been sifted with the baking powder, spices, and salt. Combine with this the raisins, nut meats, and vanilla, and drop by teaspoonfuls on a greased baking sheet. Bake at 350 degrees for 15 minutes.

CUSTOM OF GIVING FOOD AT CHRISTMAS DATES TO THE EARLIEST TIMES

The custom of giving food as Christmas gifts is not a new one. In fact it dates back to earliest times and was bound up with much feasting.

Today we are a bit more restrained about eating and we choose our gifts of food with great care, making an effort to pamper the tastes of the recipient. Jellies in small jars lend color to the Christmas gift basket; cheese ensembles for the connoisseur and baked beans in those small earthen pots for the head of the family.

Among the more substantial gifts are game in tins for the unsuccessful, or stay-at-home hunter; jellied galantines decked with truffles; ham or choice bacon in Christmas wrappings; tins of small sausages for the cocktail hour.

Christmas fruit cakes too may be had or those imported cookies, biscuits, the English call them. Candied fruits add a touch of elegance and fresh fruits a touch of color. Raisins, dates and those small baskets of figs add much to the gift.

Vegetables range from the substantial tiny peas and string beans in cans to the more sophisticated artichokes or hearts of palm which give distinction to any salad. Jams and jellies include those imported ones with foreign names and distinctive tastes. A gift of food, whether you have it selected by the dealer or make up the selection yourself, should be a most interesting and welcome one.

BURNT SUGAR FUDGE

Two cups sugar.
One-half cup milk.
One-half teaspoon butter.
Two-thirds cup chopped walnuts.
One teaspoon vanilla.

Heat one-half cup of sugar over a slow fire, stirring constantly until it just melts. Add the milk gradually, then stir in the remaining sugar and butter. Raise the heat slightly and cook to the soft ball stage (234 degrees F.), stirring frequently. Place the sauce pan in a pan of cold water and cool without stirring until room temperature. Beat until thick and dull on the surface. Stir in nuts and vanilla and turn into buttered pan.

HOME MADE GIFTS AID HOLIDAY CHEER

Fruit Cake, Puddings, Jams and Conserves Lend a Pleasing Touch

It is surprising how many attractive holiday delicacies are made by housewives these days to give away as gifts at Christmas time. Perhaps one reason for the popularity of this type of gift is that there is something very sincere and personal about home-made presents from the kitchen.

This sort of Christmas giving is also alluring to many because it doesn't require days of wearisome shopping. When wrapped in attractive packages, such home-made foods as jellies, jams, preserves, fruit cakes, plum puddings, cookies, mincemeat and candied fruits make splendid Christmas remembrances.

For the friend who's planning an "at home" on Christmas day, why not send over a loaf of that nut bread you're famed for making? It will be even better with two-thirds of a cup of crushed pineapple, well drained, added to the mixture, with the pineapple syrup used as a part of the liquid. Maybe a little jar or two of a flavorsome sandwich filling which you can make with little expenditure of time or money. Small cheese or mayonnaise jars are ideal for this and may be decorated with a gay stencil design, which means they have a future use ahead of them.

Ship to your best friend a white fruit cake with its multi-color beauty of candied apricots, cherries, pineapple, dates and figs, gay with posies of almonds and cherries and rings of glace pineapple atop.

Imagine the joy friends will get from a colorful pottery dish filled with salted nuts, sugared dates stuffed with nuts or fondant, home-made fudge and divinity, and glace pineapple bits done in a syrup flavored with mints and tinted creams.

Someone you know probably has not tasted home-made mincemeat for years. What a welcome gift, therefore, a jar of this, or even a mincemeat pie, will be.

It is easy to make good candied fruits. Why not a tin or box of these to a bridge-loving friend? Candied citrus peel, cranberries, apricots, pears and pineapple will make a nice assortment and a most welcome gift.

Here are two recipes you will want to add to your file. They will make gifts of good taste and your family can always enjoy their lingering flavors at any season of the year:

Fruit Conserve.

Two cups canned crushed pineapple (drained).
Two cups liquid (use juice from pineapple, add water to make two cups).
Two cups granulated sugar.
One pound cranberries (4 cups).
One-half cup seedless raisins.
Two oranges—pulp and juice—grated rind of one orange.
One-half cup blanched almonds or chopped walnuts.

Combine sugar and liquid, cook over low heat until sugar is dissolved. Add the cranberries, bring to a boil and cook slowly for five minutes. Add pineapple, oranges, raisins. Cook for about seven minutes, or until thick. Add the nuts and seal in sterilized glasses.

This conserve is grand with fowl, ham or cold meats. Also good with cream cheese as a happy ending to many a meal.

Prune Pineapple Catsup.

Four and three-fourths cups of puree made from cooked prunes (seven cups uncooked prunes).
One cup liquid in which prunes were cooked.
One cup of crushed pineapple with its syrup.
Two cups water.
One cup cider vinegar.
One and one-half cups brown sugar, packed in cup.
One cup white sugar.
Two and one-half teaspoons salt.
One-half teaspoon black pepper.
One tablespoon cinnamon.
One teaspoon each of mace, allspice, ginger, cloves, dry mustard.
Two tablespoons dark molasses.
One-eighth teaspoon tabasco sauce.

Combine ingredients in order mentioned. Cook very slowly to prevent sticking and scorching, until of desired consistency, about 50 to 60 minutes. Seal in glass jars or bottles. Makes about two quarts.

White Fruit Cake.

One cup butter.
Two cups sugar.
One cup milk.
One teaspoon vanilla.
One-half teaspoon almond extract.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
One cup chopped white raisins.
One cup chopped almonds.
One-half cup chopped candied orange peel.
One-half cup chopped candied pineapple.
One-half cup chopped citron.
Six egg whites, beaten.
One teaspoon cream of tartar.
Four cups flour.

Cream butter, sugar. Add milk, beat two minutes. Add rest of ingredients, mixing lightly, pour into loaf pans lined with waxed papers. Bake one and one-half hours in slow oven.

Herb Vinegar.

Basil vinegar is made by steeping the leaves in vinegar. For two weeks the vinegar is heated each day and poured over the leaves. The infusion is strained and more basil added until the desired strength is obtained.

FEW MENUS COMPLETE WITHOUT POTATOES

To the majority of men no menu is complete without potatoes and plenty of them. Even the most calorie-minded will enjoy these scalloped potatoes.

Scalloped Potatoes.

Six medium potatoes.
One small onion.
One tablespoon flour.
One tablespoon butter.
Salt and pepper.
One tall can evaporated milk.
One and one-half cups water.

Slice peeled potatoes and onion thin. Blend flour, butter and seasonings. Add diluted evaporated milk gradually and cook until smooth and thickened. Arrange potatoes, onions and white sauce in layers in buttered baking dish, ending with sauce. Dot with butter. Bake in a moderate oven until potatoes are tender (about one and one-half hours). Amount serves six.

LEBKUCHEN

Two and one-fourth cups flour.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One-half teaspoon soda.
One-half teaspoon cinnamon.
One-half teaspoon cloves.
One-half teaspoon allspice.
One tablespoon cocoa.
One-fourth cup fat.
One-half cup brown sugar.
One egg.
One-half cup molasses.
Three-fourths cup chopped nuts.
One-half cup sliced candied citron.
One-half cup sliced candied orange peel.
One-half cup sliced lemon peel.
One-half cup cold coffee.

Sift the flour, salt, soda, spices and cocoa together. Cream the fat; add the sugar gradually; add the unbeaten egg and molasses; mix well. Stir in the nuts and fruits. Stir in the dry ingredients alternately with the coffee. Spread the mixture in a well-greased shallow pan making a layer about one-half inch thick. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until firm to the touch or 20 to 30 minutes. On removal from the oven, the cake may be spread with a thin layer of icing made by stirring one and one-half to two tablespoons lemon juice into one cup of confectioner's sugar. Cut the sheet into two-inch squares when cool. Store in a tightly covered tin box or stone crock for at least one week before serving. The squares will keep for months.

Lemon Tarts.

Two lemons, two cups sugar, two eggs, one cup sponge-cake crumbs, pastry. Mix the juice and grated rind of the lemons, sugar, eggs and cake crumbs. Beat until smooth. Put into patty tins lined with pastry and bake in a hot oven (325 degrees) about 15 minutes, until crust is light brown.

Your Grocer Has Only A Limited Supply of CUSHING'S GOLDEN RUSSET Apple CIDER
The pure juice of ripe apples—Cushing's Golden Russet Apple Cider will not keep fresh indefinitely. The season is short—order from your grocer today.

Butterscotch Pie.

Five tablespoons flour, one cup light brown sugar, three tablespoons butter, one and one-half cups milk, two egg yolks, well beaten; one teaspoon vanilla, one baked nine-inch pie shell, four tablespoons sugar, pinch of salt, two egg whites, stiffly beaten. Mix flour and brown sugar in top of double boiler. Blend butter with this mixture. Add milk, cook over hot water until thick and smooth, stirring frequently. Add egg yolks gradually. Remove from fire and cool. Add vanilla. Pour into pie shell. Beat sugar and salt into egg whites and cover pie. Bake in a slow oven, 300 degrees, 12 minutes, or until a light brown.

HOT CARAWAY WAFERS

One cup hot boiled potatoes to be riced while warm.
One-half cup creamed butter.
One and one-eighth cups flour.
One teaspoon salt.
One tablespoon caraway seed.
One egg slightly beaten up.

Work first four ingredients lightly with a fork till dough is smooth. Chill for half hour. Then roll dough one-eighth inch thick, put in pan, brush top with egg mixed with a little milk, and sprinkle over with salt and caraway seeds. Cut with a hot, sharp knife into narrow strips one-inch wide. Place in oven at about 350 degrees Fahrenheit, and increase gradually to 400 degrees Fahrenheit. Bake 15 minutes, or long enough to show crisp and light brown.

Apple Lime Fluff.

One package lime gelatin, one pint warm water, one cup thick apple sauce. Dissolve the gelatin in the warm water. Chill until cool and sirupy. Place in a bowl of cracked ice or ice water and whip with a rotary egg beater until thick and fluffy like whipped cream. Fold in the apple sauce. Turn into a mold. Chill until firm. Serve with custard sauce or plain.

MAPLE FUDGE FROSTING

One pint maple syrup.
One-half cup light brown sugar.
One-half cup granulated sugar.
One teaspoon white syrup.
One pinch salt.
One-half cup warm milk.
One-fourth cup butter.
Two teaspoons vanilla.

Mix all ingredients, except butter, vanilla and cream. Put over a low fire and stir until sugar is dissolved. Cook to 235 degrees. Take from fire and butter and vanilla. Cool to almost room temperature. Beat to creamy fudge consistency. If too thick to spread, add heavy cream, drop by drop. For a smooth, glossy frosting keep the fudge warm in a double-boiler while spreading it on. Dot with pecan halves.

MINTED PRUNE SALAD

Eighteen large or 24 medium sized minted or spiced prunes.
Two large or three medium sized apples.
Mayonnaise.
American cheese.
Roquefort cheese.
Lettuce.

Pit prunes, leaving as whole as possible. Peel apples, core, quarter and cut in long, thin slices. Dip prunes in mayonnaise, then into American cheese which has been forced through a coarse sieve. Dip apple slices in mayonnaise, then into Roquefort cheese which has been forced through a coarse sieve. Arrange on lettuce-garnished salad plates alternately with prunes.

Serves six.

CARAMEL BLANC MANGE

Three tablespoons cornstarch.
One-quarter teaspoon salt.
Eight tablespoons sugar.
Three cups bottled milk.
One-half teaspoon vanilla extract.
One-half cup chopped dates.

Melt six tablespoons of the sugar in a skillet and stir until it is a golden brown syrup. Scald two and one-half cups of the milk in top of double boiler. Add the syrup in a thin stream to the scalded milk and stir constantly until syrup is dissolved. Mix cornstarch with salt, the remaining two tablespoons sugar and remaining one-half cup cold milk. Add this to the hot mixture. Stir constantly over boiling water until mixture thickens. Then continue cooking, stirring occasionally, for 25 minutes. Cool, add vanilla and dates. Chill and serve. Yield: Six servings.

The famous southern Special-Blend
SWIFT'S Jewel SHORTENING
For delicious holiday pies and cakes Jewel is ideal—this famous Special-Blend actually makes more tender baked foods and creams faster than the costliest types of plain all-vegetable shortening.
A FINER SHORTENING ...IN MONEY-SAVING CARTONS!
OLD DOMINION MOCK MINCE PIE (illustrated above) MRS. L. H. CHAPMAN, NORFOLK, VA.
PASTRY: Blend ⅓ c. Jewel Special-Blend Shortening into 1⅓ c. flour sifted with 1 tsp. salt and ⅓ tsp. baking powder. Add ¼ to ⅓ c. cold water and mix to a stiff dough. Roll to ¼ inch thickness on a floured board and line pie pan. Bake in a hot oven, 450° F., until delicately browned—about 12 min. Flaky-crisp, extra tender, Jewel makes the finest pastry you ever saw. The reason: because in Jewel vegetable fat is given unusual shortening qualities through Swift's special blending of it with other bland cooking fats. Jewel makes all baked foods more tender; creams faster, too.
FILLING: Mix together 1 c. raisins, 1 c. sugar, 1 c. bread crumbs, 1 tsp. allspice, ¼ c. lemon juice, ⅓ c. orange juice, 2 beaten egg yolks and 2 tbsps. butter. Cook in the top of the double boiler until thick. Pour into baked pie shell and top with meringue made by beating 2 egg whites until stiff, then adding 4 tbsps. sugar and beating again. Brown in a slow oven, 325° F.

MORE HOME MADE GIFTS FOR GIVING

Cookies, Cakes or Pies Add Flavor to Christmas Holidays.

The friendly spirit which prompts us to give gifts at the Christmas season sometimes gets submerged in the worry and uncertainty of "what to give." It's particularly difficult to think of just the right gift for the family next door, Aunt Mary's household, grandmother's house or other friends or relatives who cannot be remembered individually.

An attractive gift of holiday food is the perfect answer to this "what to give" question. Individual pumpkin pies in their little tin plates, a plum pudding or a fruit cake wrapped in cellophane, a box of assorted Christmas cookies or candies are only a few suggestions for these holiday offerings.

After the cookies or cake are baked let them cool thoroughly before wrapping. Clear cellophane, or bright red with huge green paper bows make the gayest of all wrappings. Bits of holly or mistletoe tied onto the bow add their bit of decoration.

Individual pies may be set into a flat pasteboard box—then wrapped in gay papers.

Mince Meat Quick Fruit Cake.

One-third cup butter.
One-third cup lard.
One and one-third cups brown sugar (packed).
Four eggs.
One-half cup orange juice.
Grated rind of one-half orange.
Three cups flour.
One teaspoon soda.
Two teaspoons baking powder.
One cup nuts (chopped).
Two packages (9 oz.) mince meat.
One cup candied cherries and one-half cup chopped citron may be added if desired.

Break up mince meat and steam in top of double boiler for 30 minutes. Cream butter, add sugar and beaten eggs. Add orange juice and flour sifted with soda and baking powder. Add mince meat, chopped nuts, orange rind and other chopped fruit. Pour into two one-pound loaf pans lined with wax paper. Bake at 300 degrees F. for two hours.

Pecan Cocoanut Rolls.

One-half cup butter.
One-fourth cup powdered sugar
One cup flour
One teaspoon vanilla
One-half cup chopped pecans
One-half cup cocoanut.

Cream fat, add sugar and vanilla. Work in flour, nuts and cocoanut. Take small teaspoons of dough in the hand and roll in finger size. Bake on unoiled cookie sheet for 10-12 minutes at 375 degrees Fahrenheit. Roll in powdered sugar if desired.

Twinkling Stars.

One-half cup butter
Three-fourths cup sugar
One egg
One and three-fourths cups sifted flour
One teaspoon baking powder
One-fourth teaspoon salt
One-half teaspoon vanilla.

Cream fat, add sugar and egg. When fluffy, add dry ingredients sifted together. Add vanilla. Chill and roll out. Cut in star shapes, sprinkle with colored confectioners sugar and bake 10-12 minutes at 375 degrees.

Pumpkin Tarts.

For crust:
Two cups flour
One teaspoon salt
One-half cup lard
Six tablespoons ice water.
For filling:
One and one-half cups mashed pumpkin
One and one-half cups milk
Two eggs
Two-thirds cup brown sugar
Three-fourths teaspoon cinnamon
One-half teaspoon ginger
Three-fourths teaspoon salt.

Mix spices, salt and sugar. Add beaten eggs and milk (for filling). For crust: Sift flour and salt, blend in lard with two knives or pastry blender, add ice water gradually. Divide into parts, roll out for individual pie pans. Line pans, crimp edges and fill with pumpkin mixture. Bake at 450 degrees Fahrenheit for 10 minutes, then at 350 degrees Fahrenheit until crust is brown and filling is set.

ANNUAL CHRISTMAS PARTY

To Be Given on Saturday by Manufacturers' Representatives.

The annual Christmas party of the St. Louis Association of Manufacturers' Representatives will be held on Saturday at 7 p. m. at Hotel Jefferson. A. C. Baumhauer, president of the association, stated that from all indications the party and dinner would be the largest in the history of the organization. The St. Louis Association of Manufacturers' Representatives is composed of the sales executives of manufacturers in the food industry and grocery jobbers. Arrangements for the party and dinner are in charge of Gerald J. Gay.

Mushroom Sauce.

Two tablespoons butter.
Two tablespoons flour.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One-eighth teaspoon pepper.
Two cups hot mushroom liquid.
Two cans mushrooms.
One teaspoon chopped parsley.

Brown the butter, add the flour, and when brown add two cups of hot mushroom liquid and gradually the seasoning. Add to this quartered mushrooms drained and rinsed. Cook for 10 minutes and serve.

GINGERBREAD BOYS ARE IN THE BEST ENGLISH TRADITION

GINGERBREAD boys are like good little girls, made of "sugar and spice and everything nice." These are in the best English tradition.

Gingerbread Boys.

Two-thirds cup fat.
One and one-half cups sugar.
One-half cup molasses.
Two eggs.
One half cup milk.
One teaspoon vanilla.
Two teaspoons cinnamon.
One teaspoon cloves.
One teaspoon ginger.
One teaspoon nutmeg.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
Four cups flour.
One teaspoon soda.
One teaspoon baking powder.

Cream fat, sugar, add molasses, eggs, milk. Add rest of ingredients and chill dough. Roll out dough or break off small pieces. Place cookies 2 inches apart on greased baking sheet and bake 10 minutes in moderate oven.

For gingerbread boys, roll out dough and cut out "boys" by tracing around paper pattern.

FISH AND CHEESE CASSEROLE

Two cups diced cooked potatoes.
One cup medium white sauce.
One and one-half cups grated American cheese.
Salt and pepper.
Two cups flaked fish.
One-half cup butter breadcrumbs.

Place potatoes in buttered casserole. Add grated cheese and seasoning to hot white sauce and stir until cheese is melted. Pour half of sauce over potatoes, add flaked fish, cover with remaining sauce, and top with buttered crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 20 minutes.

CALAVO TOMATO SALAD

Two avocados, diced.
Two hard-cooked eggs, chopped.
Six stuffed olives, sliced.
Three tomatoes, diced.
One teaspoonful minced onion.
French dressing.
Few grains cayenne.
Salt and pepper.
Lettuce.

Lightly toss together the avocados, eggs, olives, tomatoes and onion with French dressing to moisten well. Add seasonings to taste, and serve on lettuce.

Hot Milk Cake.

Heat one-half cup milk with two tablespoons butter to scalding point. Add one cup sugar and stir until thoroughly dissolved. Sift one cup pastry flour (sifted once before measuring) with one teaspoon baking powder and one-quarter teaspoon salt. Beat four egg whites until frothy, then add one-half teaspoon cream of tartar and one teaspoon pure cider vinegar, and continue beating until whites stand up in a point. Add flour mixture to the milk and sugar, and beat thoroughly. Fold in egg whites and one-quarter teaspoon each vanilla and almond extract. Pour into a well-greased and floured shallow, oblong pan (10x15 inches), or two smaller pans. Batter should be about one-third inch deep. Bake in a slow oven (about 325 degrees F.) for 20 to 25 minutes. Cool. If large pan is used, cut cake into two thin layers. Cover the first with a layer of sliced bananas, and one of whipped cream or thick custard. Top with second layer of cake and spread with currant jelly.

BAKED STUFFED HADDOCK

One haddock, three to four pounds.

Three-quarters cup chopped green pepper.

Three-quarters cup chopped onion.

One tablespoon butter.

Three-quarters teaspoon salt.

Pepper.

Three-quarters cup canned tomatoes.

One and a half cups cracker crumbs.

Three slices bacon.

Cook the green pepper and onion in the butter for several minutes. Add the seasonings, tomatoes, and cracker crumbs and heat thoroughly. Meanwhile, rub the cleaned whole fish with salt, inside and out, and fill the cavity with the stuffing. Carefully sew the edges of the opening, lay the stuffed fish in a shallow baking pan on top of the bacon slices, and put into a moderate oven. After 10 minutes, baste the fish with melted butter and continue baking for a total of 50 minutes, repeating the basting once during the period.

VEAL MOUSSE

Two cups cooked veal.

One-fourth small onion.

One-third cup cucumber.

Two tablespoons celery.

One-half teaspoon gelatin.

One tablespoon cold water.

Three-fourths tablespoon butter.

One tablespoon flour.

One-fourth teaspoon salt.

Few grains pepper.

One-half cup boiling meat broth.

One cup milk.

Combine cooked meat that has been put through food chopper with onion with finely diced celery and cucumber. Make white sauce of butter, flour, salt and pepper, broth and one-half cup milk. Soak gelatine in cold water. Add to hot white sauce. Stir until dissolved, then add meat. When mixture begins to set, fold in the remaining one-half cup milk, which has been chilled and whipped stiff. Turn into mold or bread pan lined with waxed paper. Chill. Serves six.

GINGER CAKES

One-third cup shortening.

One cup sugar.

One egg.

One teaspoon ginger.

One teaspoon cloves.

One teaspoon cinnamon.

One-fourth teaspoon nutmeg.

One-eighth teaspoon salt.

One-half cup molasses.

Two-thirds cup boiling water.

Two and one-third cups flour.

One teaspoon baking powder.

One teaspoon soda.

One-half cup chopped candied ginger.

Cream shortening, sugar and egg. Add spices, salt, molasses and water. Beat two minutes, add flour, baking powder and soda. Beat well. Half fill small paper baking cups. Arrange one and one-half inches apart on shallow baking pan or baking sheet. Bake 10 minutes in moderate oven. Inspect frequently and turn pan to allow even baking. Cool cakes. With sharp knife make tiny slits in tops and insert bits candied ginger, cover cakes with white frosting.

CHICKEN SALAD

One and one-half cups diced, cooked chicken.

One cup diced celery.

Two hard-boiled eggs, diced.

Two tablespoons chopped pimientos.

One-quarter teaspoon salt.

One tablespoon lemon juice.

One-half cup whipped cream.

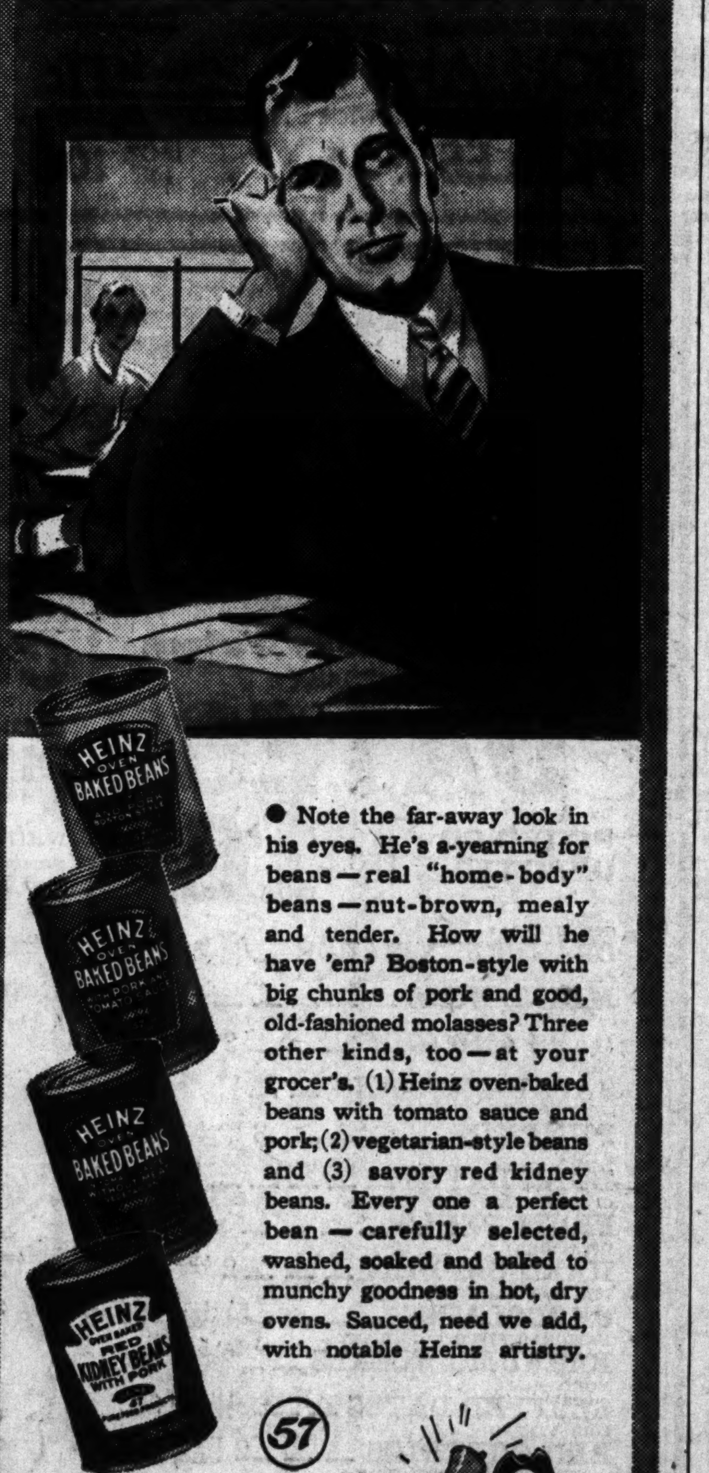
Two-thirds cup stiff mayonnaise.

Mix cream with mayonnaise. Add half of it to rest of ingredients, combined. Chill, serve in cups of lettuce and top with remaining mayonnaise mixture. Sprinkle with paprika.

Poached Peaches.

Poached clove peaches are delicious with meats, especially baked ham or ham steak. To make these place halved canned peaches in a shallow pan with their cavity side down. Into each half peach stick three cloves and sprinkle with brown sugar. Dot with butter. Add a little to the pan to keep them from burning and bake at 400 degrees F. for about a half-hour.

Beans
folks yearn for



● Note the far-away look in his eyes. He's a-yearning for beans—real "home-body" beans—nut-brown, mealy and tender. How will he have 'em? Boston-style with big chunks of pork and good, old-fashioned molasses? Three other kinds, too—at your grocer's. (1) Heinz oven-baked beans with tomato sauce and pork; (2) vegetarian-style beans and (3) savory red kidney beans. Every one a perfect bean—carefully selected, washed, soaked and baked to munchy goodness in hot, dry ovens. Sauced, need we add, with notable Heinz artistry.

To Clean Varnish.

The varnish on some furniture is so hard and smooth the finger-marks and soiled places may be removed with a cloth wrung out of lukewarm suds made with mild soap and the finish restored by rubbing with a cloth, on which a few drops of furniture polish have been sprinkled. In many cases this is a good method when cleaning the tops of dining tables.

WRAPPINGS MAKE CHRISTMAS SWEETS

Confections and Marmalades Respond to Colored Paper and Decorations.

Gifts which are created by the giver are always appreciated—and are more individual than the "store bought" gift. Marmalades and candies (new recipes on pages 2 and 3) are first choice with many women who wish to make their own Christmas remembrances, and when dressed up in gay wrappings, are doubly welcome.

Cellophane outranks all other wrapping materials in strength and effectiveness, but unusual and smart effects may be obtained with art, Chinese and tissue paper. A spool of green covered wire such as is used in paper flower work is indispensable. Scissors, paste, stickers and tags are other necessary "tools."

Tricks in Tying.

A bow of ribbon is made by making double loops and fastening them securely with another twist of the wire.

Cellophane sippers, cellophane-covered candies, Christmas tree ornaments, small pine cones and similar novelties add to appearance and are also held in place by wire.

Seed pods or colorful berries of the locality in which one lives are especially attractive as a decorative motif. Bittersweet and bay berries of the Eastern States; holly, pepper berries, cotoneaster, toyon berries, eucalyptus buds and orange blossoms of the West, and coral vine of the South are among the many used for this purpose. Cover all with clear cellophane for protection.

Orange Marmalade.

There are dozens of recipes for orange marmalade but this recipe insures a clear jelly in which the tender fruit pieces are suspended, and a product not cloying sweet.

Slice four medium unpeeled oranges and two unpeeled lemons very thin. Measure fruit. Add three times as much water. Boil 45 minutes. Replace liquid boiled away with strained orange juice or water. (Juice gives a deeper flavor and color.) Add three-fourths cup sugar to one cup fruit. For best results cook in two-cup lots, boiling vigorously until syrup gives jelly test of thick, reluctant drops from side of spoon (12 to 15 minutes). For pleasant tartness, now add two tablespoons lemon juice. Boil again to jelly test—about two minutes. Pour into sterilized glasses. Cover with paraffin when cold.

Here is a gift particularly acceptable to English or Canadian friends.

Lemon Curd (Old English).

Six eggs, well beaten.
Two cups sugar.
One-half cup lemon juice.
One-fourth cup butter.

Cook over hot water until thick. Pour into sterilized glasses. Use for filling for tarts or cakes or as a spread for toast and hot biscuits. Makes one pint.

Candied Orange and Grapefruit Peel.

Remove peel in quarters, or form a cup by cutting the top from an orange or grapefruit and removing the meat and membrane. Cover with water to which one teaspoon salt has been added for each grapefruit. Boil 30 minutes. Drain. Cover with fresh, hot water. Omit the salt, and repeat boiling process one or more times until peel is tender. Drain. Make a syrup of two cups sugar, one cup water and one-fourth cup white corn syrup. If grapefruit peel is cold, add to the cold syrup and heat slowly. If peel is hot, bring syrup to boil, add the peel and cook slowly. Boil very gently until syrup is nearly absorbed and peel is clear, or until it reaches 230 degrees Fahrenheit. Drain. Roll in sugar.

Orange Fruit Confection.

Boil quickly about 10 minutes or until syrupy and clear:

One cup orange pulp and juice.
One-half lemon, pulp and juice.
Three-fourths cup sugar.

Put through the food chopper:

One-half cup candied orange peel.
One-half cup dried apricots.
One-half cup figs, dates or raisins.
One-half cup nuts.

Mix thoroughly, and add enough of the cooked orange jelly mixture to form into balls or squares about an inch in diameter. Roll balls or squares in powdeerd sugar, in coconut, in chopped nuts, or dip in chocolate.

Uncooked Fudge.

One-half cup butter.
Four cups powdered sugar.
Four squares unsweetened chocolate.
Three-fourths cup orange juice (strained).
Four teaspoons grated orange peel.

Sift powdered sugar to free it of all lumps. Cream butter, orange peel, and one cup of sugar. Add melted chocolate. Add orange juice alternately with remaining sugar, beating thoroughly until of fudge consistency. Shape into creams or chill in refrigerator and cut into squares. Keeps well. Makes a delicious icing (one-half of recipe for one cake) by using less sugar.

Ham Omelet.

Beat four eggs very light, the whites to a stiff froth, the yolks to a thick batter. Add to the yolks four tablespoons milk, pepper and salt and one-half cup cooked chopped ham. Add the whites last. Put piece of butter half the size of an egg in frying pan; be careful not to scorch; when it is sizzling turn in the egg and cook over a low flame until done. Fold over and serve.

OVEN MEALS BOON FOR BUSY HOUSEWIFE

Play Definite Part as Time Savers and Are Palatable Short Cuts.

In our modern day of constant haste, oven meals play a definite part as time savers. Women who have been taking advantage for years of the possibilities offered by oven meals often find themselves using the same oven meal over and over for lack of ideas as to variations. Heretofore the meat dish has been usually, swiss steak, baked pork chops or some casserole meat dish—all of which were cooked by moist heat cookery at a low temperature for a long time. No one prepared an oven meal using a roast as the main dish for the temperatures used in roasting were too high to allow the homemaker to leave the meal without continued watching.

Now, however, the homemaker has a host of menus from which she may choose her oven dinners for experiements show that meat roasted at a low temperature, such as is used for oven meals, produces a more tender, juicy and palatable roast than meat roasted at a higher temperature. Just imagine the wealth of possibilities for meat dishes to be used in oven meals that such discovery allows!

Vegetables With Pork Roast.

For instance if you want to prepare an oven meal at 350 degrees, choose a pork roast, place it in an uncovered roasting pan, fat side uppermost, and put it in the oven along with the rest of the meal, which may be apple sauce, scalloped potatoes, steamed carrots. Nor does it need any attention until the meal is done. No water is added to the roast for such low temperature will not cause the drippings to burn, but will turn the roast to a delicious brown by the time the dinner is completed. Don't worry about basting the roast for, with the fat side up, the roast will baste itself.

What a triumph it is to be able to welcome your guests in a cool collected manner knowing that all there is to do in the kitchen is to make the gravy and serve the dinner.

It might be well to try one of these menus for a family dinner first to see that all the details meet with your approval, then serve it to your friends and see if they don't acclaim you the perfect hostess.

Custard Pie

Cushion Style Shoulder of Lamb.

Have the bones removed from a shoulder of lamb and the roast sewed, leaving one side open for putting in the dressing. Wipe with a damp cloth, rub inside and out with salt, pepper and garlic if desired, and pack lightly with sausage dressing.

Sausage Dressing.

One-quarter pound bulk sausage.
Two tablespoons grated onion.
Two tablespoons chopped parsley.
One cup bread crumbs.
Salt and pepper.
Stock or water.

Fry the sausage with the onion and parsley, stirring constantly until the meat is cooked enough so it separates into particles. Add the crumbs and seasonings and enough liquid to make a moist dressing. While hot, pack into the lamb shoulder. Sew or skewer the opening. Place on a rack in an open pan and set in a slow oven (300 degrees F.). Cook until done, allowing about 35 minutes to the pound of meat.

Roast Frenched Loin of Pork.

Have the rib ends of the pork loin frenched at the market; that is, have the meat removed from the ends of the rib bones. Season the loin with salt and pepper and place it in an open roasting pan with the unprotected rib ends down. Insert a roast-meat thermometer into the center of the fleshiest part of meat, taking care that the bulb does not rest on either fat or bone. Place the roast in a medium oven, (300-350 degrees F.) and roast until done, without covering and without adding any water. When the roast-meat thermometer registers 185 degrees F., the meat will be done. Allow about 30 minutes per pound for roasting. Remove the loin to a hot platter and decorate the rib ends with paper frills. Make a gravy from part of the drippings and season it with sage.

LADY CAKE

One-third cup vegetable shortening.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One teaspoon vanilla.
One cup sugar.
One egg, unbeaten.
Two cups sifted flour.
Two and one-half teaspoons baking powder.
Three-fourths cup milk.

Combine shortening, salt, and vanilla. Add sugar gradually and cream until light and fluffy. Add the unbeaten egg and beat thoroughly. Sift flour and baking powder together three times; then add small amounts of flour to creamed mixture alternately with milk, beating after each addition until smooth. Pour batter into two eight inch greased layer pans. Bake at 375 degrees F. from 20 to 25 minutes. Spread chocolate frosting between layers and on top and sides of cake.

CHOCOLATE UPSIDE DOWN CAKE

One cup sifted pastry flour.
One and one-half teaspoons baking powder.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
One-half cup milk.
One-half cup brown sugar.
Three tablespoons butter, melted.
One, one-ounce square unsweetened chocolate.
One-half teaspoon vanilla.
One and one-half tablespoons butter.
One-fourth cup brown sugar.
Eight cooked apricots.

First sift together three times the flour, baking powder and the salt. Add the milk, one-half cup sugar, and three tablespoons melted butter. Stir in the vanilla and the chocolate, which has been melted. Stir to blend thoroughly. Now have ready eight greased cup cake pans or custard cups. In the bottom of each place one-half teaspoon melted butter, one teaspoon brown sugar and one cooked apricot. Pour in the cake batter, dividing it between the pans, but filling each pan only about half full. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for half an hour, or until done. To serve these individual upside downers loosen them from around the pan edges with a spatula and turn out with the apricot side uppermost. Top with a fluff of whipped cream and serve hot or cold.

HORSERADISH DRESSING

One-half cupful vinegar.
One teaspoonful salt.
One-fourth teaspoonful paprika.
One teaspoonful onion juice.
Three tablespoonfuls freshly grated horseradish.
One-half teaspoonful tabasco sauce.
Dash of cayenne.
One cupful salad oil.

Combine ingredients, blend thoroughly and chill. Shake before serving.

NEUTRALITY PACT UP NEXT AT BUENOS AIRES

Committee Unanimously Approves Proposal to Co-ordinate Treaties.

By the Associated Press.

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 17. — The proposed neutrality convention co-ordinating existing American peace treaties was ready today to be submitted to the plenary session of the Inter-American Conference.

The proposal, jointly sponsored by the 21 nations represented at the conference, was unanimously approved by the Neutrality Committee yesterday, paving the way for its last step before being sent to the Legislatures of each republic for ratification.

Its purpose is to set up consultative machinery among the American republics to correlate existing peace treaties.

The conference, its agenda reduced by approval of nine other measures in plenary session yesterday, turned to the trade and commercial interests of the Americas.

Economic Resolutions.

Approved in the Economic Committee, these resolutions were listed for expected adoption at the next full session:

1. A recommendation that American nations abstain from increasing their customs barriers, begin reduction of tariffs and ask the rest of the world to co-operate in efforts to improve international trade.

2. A recommendation that all American nations ratify the agreements of the Pan American commercial conference at Buenos Aires last year where it was voted to establish boards of commerce, foster bilateral agreements against smuggling, regulate international air traffic and create a special Pan American tourist passport as a stimulus to travel.

Speech by Sumner Welles.

Delegates on the committee applauded Sumner Welles, United States Assistant Secretary of State in charge of Latin American Affairs, when he repeated before them the principle of good neighborliness and declared all American states were equals.

Speaking in Spanish, he told the committee that the American nations were setting an example for the world without following a narrow isolationist policy.

"The delegation of the United States," he said, "feels deeply honored with the opportunity of presenting jointly with all other delegations the project for the co-ordination of existing peace projects (the neutrality proposal.)

"Once more all of us together have taken a great step forward. Once more we have taken this step unanimously."

He added: "What we are doing here is an effort that certainly will succeed. We are safeguarding our Continent without narrow isolation. What we are doing is for the entire world. The world needs this example that we are agreeing to here."

League Scheme Sidetracked.

Proposals for creation of an American League of Nations were sidetracked by a committee today after Argentina and Brazil raised strong opposition.

When a subcommittee recommended to the Committee on Peace Organization that it act favorably on Dominican and Colombian outlines of the league project, the subcommittee chairman, Max Henriquez Urena of the Dominican Republic, proposed that five jurists be named to study the plans and prepare a report for the regular Pan-American Conference at Lima, Peru, in 1938.

Argentine and Brazilian representatives immediately objected, insisting it was unwise to consider the league plan at present, and the committee adjourned without acting on the subcommittee's proposal.

The Arms Limitation Committee, meanwhile, approved a modified Chilean resolution urging general or bilateral arms limitation agreements. Paraguay made a reservation to the effect it could not limit its armaments below a level fixed as a maximum by existing agreements.

GAIL PATRICK, ACTRESS WED TO RESTAURANT MAN

She and Robert Howard Cobb of Hollywood Married at Tijuana at 1 A. M.

By the Associated Press.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 17. — Gail Patrick, movie actress, and Robert Howard Cobb, Hollywood restaurant man were married at Tijuana, Mexican border resort, at 1 a. m., today.

The bridal party, including Miss Patrick's secretary, Jean Edwards, and Charles Seymour, left Hollywood last night by automobile.

A native of Birmingham, Ala., Miss Patrick met Cobb, who is 37 years old, shortly after she came to Hollywood in 1933 as winner of a film "Panther Woman" contest. She is 24. Cobb is manager of a chain of restaurants in Hollywood and Beverly Hills.

$750,000 LOSS IN PIER FIRE

Four Firemen Injured at San Francisco; Inquiry Begun.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 17.—Invetsigators sought today the cause of a fire which nearly destroyed Pier 46, the State terminal shipping shed, at a loss estimated by fire officials at $750,000.

Three fire boats, a dozen engines and several water towers, manned by firemen from 16 stations, controlled the blaze after a two-hour fight last night. No ships were moored at the pier. Four firemen were injured.

NEW ZEPHYR CUTS HOUR OFF ST. LOUIS-KANSAS CITY TIME

Streamlined Train Makes Inaugural Run; Averages Mile a Minute.

Approximately one hour was clipped from the fastest train service between St. Louis and Kansas City when the Ozark State Zephyr, Alton-Burlington's new streamlined, Diesel-powered train made its inaugural run yesterday. The train left St. Louis at 7:17 a. m. and arrived in Kansas City at 12:01 p. m., cutting two hours from the average previous time. A delegation of 125 members of the Chamber of Commerce, headed by Mayor Dickmann and Governor-elect Stark, made the trip with officers of the two railroads.

On the run westward the Zephyr averaged a mile a minute and at times attained 94 miles an hour. The 115 miles between St. Louis and Mexico where Stark boarded the train, was made in 99 minutes.

Speakers at the luncheon in Kansas City were Dickmann, Stark, Ralph Budd, president of the Burlington Railroad; Mayor Bryce Smith of Kansas City, H. B. Voorhees, president of the Alton Railroad, and Chamber of Commerce officers.

The Ozark State Zephyr is the first streamlined, all-steel, Diesel-powered train between St. Louis and Kansas City. Budd estimated the fuel cost of each run at $6.50.

FLIGHT OF WRIGHT BROTHERS 33 YEARS AGO COMMEMORATED

Tribute Paid to Aviation Pioneers at Dayton Cemetery and Home.

By the Associated Press.

DAYTON, O., Dec. 17. — Leaders in military and civil aviation, including members of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, today honored the Wright brothers, co-inventors of the airplane, on the thirty-third anniversayr of the first filght by Orville Wright at Kitty Hawk, N. C., Dec. 17, 1903.

City officials, officers from Wright Field and others went to Woodland Cemetery, where Brigadier-General A. W. Robins, chief of the material division of the Army Air Corps, laid a wreath on the grave of Wilbur Wright, who died in 1912. This program was carried out at 10:30 a. m., the time of the first successful plane flight. Military planes and a 21-passenger airlines flew over the cemetery.

The delegation proceeded to the home of Orville Wright, where a message from President Roosevelt was presented. The group then went to Wright Field.

BOYS ADMIT TWO BURGLARIES

Jennings Youths Arrested With Coins From Private Collection.

Two youths, residing in suburban Jennings, arrested yesterday on a tip that they were in possession of old, foreign coins similar to those in a collection stolen Dec. 5 from the home of Charles Milz, 6131 Lucille avenue, admitted that burglary and another in which they obtained $4.30 from a St. Louis County tavern, police reported.

They had given away some of the coins and were trying to sell others. Police said the youths broke in Omar's Tavern, Lillian avenue and Jennings road, the night before the Milz burglary and took money from the cash register.

Canned Food for Show Admission.

Canned food will be acceptew for admission to a special film show to be given at 10 a. m. Saturday in the Missouri Theater, Grand boulevard near Washington. The food will be distributed by the Salvation Army at Christmas, through the army's relief department, at 3620 Finney avenue. The show program includes a Western, "Trail Behind," a comedy and two cartoons. Adults and children bringing canned food will be admitted. The theater will open at 9:30, and the foyer will be open at 9:10 if the weather is unpleasant. Those not attending the show, but wishing to give food, may telephone to JEfferson 8590, and their gifts will be collected.

KLAN THREAT TO 'TAKE OVER THE SITUATION' IN MIAMI

Letter to City Commission Mentions Gambling and Policing of Negro Districts.

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 17.—Miami's City Commission received a letter yesterday purporting to come from the Ku Klux Klan, saying the klan would "take over the situation ourselves" unless gambling were curbed and the Negro district better policed.

The letter cited "the disorganization and disruption of Police Department personnel, as evidenced by petty crime waves, the extraordinary amount of gambling during the past tourist season and the probability of a continuation of gambling during the present tourist season."

Written on stationery with a Klan letterhead, the letter bore the typewritten signature, "Dade County, Chapter No. 26; Knights of the Ku Klux Klan," with the initial "L" in ink. The commission took no action pending investigation of the charges.

Also mentioned in the letter was "the general breakdown of the Police Department of the City of Miami, with the consequent loss of control over the Negro situation, as is evidenced by the recent as well as past attempts on the part of Negroes to molest white women in their homes, on the streets and elsewhere; and to the physical attacks on white persons who find it necessary to visit colored town.

THOMAS ARCHER GOODMAN, FORMER ST. LOUISAN, DIES

One of 14 Masons in World Holding Grand Cross of the Court of Honor.

Thomas Archer Goodman, former St. Louisan, one of 14 Masons in the world holding the Grand Cross of the Court of Honor, died last night following an operation at a hospital in Ironton, Mo. He was 66 years old.

Mr. Goodman, a resident of St. Louis most of his life, was for many years an organizer of Delphian societies, and was agent for publishers which supplied these groups with books dealing with art, literature and music. In the past he maintained a summer residence at Ironton, and in recent years made his home there.

Mr. Goodman was awarded the Grand Cross by the Supreme Council of the Scottish Rite Masons in 1933, for his work in building up the membership of the Scottish Rite order in the St. Louis district. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Catherine Goodman, and a brother, Paul Z. Goodman. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Pickets at Detroit Plant.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Dec. 17.—Pickets appeared at the plant of National Auto Fibres, Inc., here today in what Stanley Novak, organizer for the United Automobile Workers of America, announced was a strike. C. E. Carpenter, plant manager, said that, although production was curtailed, it had not been halted. The company manufactures mats, cushions and upholstery. Novak said the strike was called after discharge of 10 members of the Union Committee in the shop. Carpenter declared no employes had been dismissed.

differences between men and women, a difference which he observed had been noted long before th Supreme Court was created.

"But they don't differ in their contract rights, do they?" Justice Sutherland observed with a smile. The attorney admitted that their contract rights were the same.

In closing his argument, Toner recalled that the statute had been on the books for 23 years and had been attacked only three times. This, he said, indicated that it had been generally accepted by the employers of the State.

Argument Against Law.

In a restrained but forceful presentation of the facts of the pending case and the decisions of the Supreme Court rejecting the District of Columbia and the New York minimum wage statutes, Skeel argued that the Washington law was as broad as the District law, which was enacted by Congress, and lacked the standards set up by the New York statute which was invalidated in the recent 5-to-4 Tipaldo decision. He declared that the court's decision in the Nebbia case, which upheld the right of New York State to fix the retail price of milk, was not controlling in the present suit because the New York milk statute set up rigid standards to guide the price-fixing commission.

Questioned by Justices.

He stressed this distinction apparently for the benefit of Justice Roberts, who wrote the majority opinion in the Nebbia case, and also with the majority which invalidated the minimum wage statute. Justice Roberts leaned forward in his chair as Skeel dwelt on this point.

"Are there no standards of reasonable value of services in the Washington statute?" Justice McReynolds asked, after Skeel had read parts of Chief Justice Hughes' dissent in the Tipaldo case. "None whatever," the attorney replied.

"Were there no exceptions for incompetents?" Justice McReynolds continued. Skeel said that there were such exceptions and, at the request of Justice Brandeis, erad that ortion of the law. He contended, however, that even this section of the statute excluded all elements of fair value for services in fixing wages.

Justice Sutherland asked if this section of the law was not identical with the comparable section of the invalidated District of Columbia law. "I think it is almost identical with the district statute," the lawyer replied.

Police Power of States.

Skeel argued that the police power of states could not be used to invade the private rights guaranteed by the Federal Constitution.

"Mere statement of the legislative branch or interpretation by a state Supreme Court that a state has unlimited authority under its police powers cannot serve as a reason for violating the constitutional guarantees," Skeel declared. "A state could not say that, under its police powers, a person could be imprisoned without trial. The right to a trial is protected by the Constitution."

After Toner had concluded his arguments, Skeel used a few minutes for rebuttal. He denied that the case had been improperly brought because it was on a collateral issue, and told the court that the issues could not be more directly presented by another kind of suit. He refused to admit that the hotel business was affected with sufficient public interest to permit a state to fix rates for rooms, the prices of food and the wages of employes. Whatever hotel regulations had been sustained by the courts, he said, were for the protection of th health of the guest and safety of the community.

RYE STRENGTH AIDS WHEAT AND CORN PRICES

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—All deliveries of rye reached new seven-year peak prices late today, and helped to put considerable backbone into values of wheat and other grains.

December rye at Winnipeg jumped 5 cents a bushel, the limit for any 24-hour period. Winnipeg wheat quotations recorded fresh tops for the season. Decided enlargement of commercial demand for rye was reported, and this coupled with limited stocks and the end of lake navigation served as a stimulus for specuative buying.

Rye in Chicago closed 1¼@3 cents above yesterday's finish, Dec. $1.15½, May $1.11¾, wheat ⅞ off to 1⅛ up, Dec. $1.35¼@⅜, May $1.30⅜@½, corn ¼@¾ advanced, Dec. $1.08¼@⅜, May new $1.04⅝@¾, oats unchanged to ¾ off, and provisions unchanged to 15c down.

Moderate advances of wheat prices early today followed opening downturns of 1½ cents a bushel that accompanied reports of snow falls in domestic winter crop territory.

July wheat, representing the 1937 crop, led the decline of prices. Contributing to the temporary trend toward lower price levels was the fact that although the official report estimating Argentina's wheat production this season as 250,000,000 bushels furnished no surprise, the report indicated the largest output since 1933-34. Advices were also current pointing to larger exports of wheat from Argentina this week and to increased shipments from the Black Sea.

Higher closing quotations at Liverpool, 2 cents up in some cases, helped to reverse market sentiment here. The rallies also were associated with advances in corn. Other centers were reported paying higher prices for corn in central territory than were offered from Chicago, talk was heard also that holders of December corn contracts here included large distillery interests who wanted delivery of the grain.

Rye and oats displayed an independent tendency to advance. Trade gossip emphasized the prospect of actual shortage of rye before another crop is harvested.

Provisions averaged a little higher.

At noon wheat was 1⅛c higher to 1c lower; corn ½@¾c higher and rye 2⅞ to 4c up.

Wheat futures purchases yesterday totaled 40,087,00 bushels; corn, 7,603,000. Open interest in wheat was 94,293,000 bushels, and in corn, 50,584,000.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Dec. 17.—Wheat and corn futures were unquoted today.

Winnipeg wheat opened unchanged to ¼c higher and early was ⅝@¾c lower. The close was -¼@2⅜c higher.

Liverpool wheat opened ⅛@⅜d higher and in a subsequent cable was unchanged to ¾d higher. The close was ¼@¾d higher.

In the cash grain market today wheat was 1½c higher; corn and oats unchanged.

Sales made on the floor of the exchange were as follows:

SPECIALTIES AND STEELS UP; OTHERS HESITATE

Contradictory Trends Attributed Partly to Year-end Influences Having to Do With Investment Switching and Tax Selling.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17. — Steels, after early hesitancy, joined a wide assortment of stock market specialties in an upward push today that landed the favorites fractions to 2 or more points higher.

Resistance to recovery was exhibited by many of the leaders, however, and substantial losers were plentiful at the close. Transfers were around 2,000,000 shares.

The ticker tape dragged indifferently much of the day, but later buying flurries helped to expand the volume considerably.

Contradictory trends were attributed by brokerage quarters partly to year-end influences having to do with investment switching and tax selling.

Indications the steel mills will enter the year with a burst of activity was stimulating to these stocks. Wall street also displayed a little more market confidence when a stock exchange seat changed hands at $115,000, up $10,000 from the last previous transfer. The latest sale was $26,000 above the year's low established Dec. 1.

Shares in the forward tilt included U. S. Steel common and preferred, Bethlehem, Ludlum, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Crucible, A. M. Byers, Pittsburgh Screw & Bolt, American Chain, General Outdoor Advertising, Symington-Gould; U. S. Rubber, Electric Power & Light, Standard Gas, Westinghouse Airbrake, American Locomotive, Pullman, Worthington Pump, Pressed Steel Car, Blaw-Knox and Park & Tilford.

In a fractional area were Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, North American, American Water Works, Consolidate Oil, Standard Oil of N. J., N. Y. Central, Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific, General Electric and Goodyear.

Last-minute offerings were sufficient to reduce gains in most instances. Among the late losers were International Harvester, Hiram Walker, Chesapeake & Ohio, Houston Oil, Boeing and Western Union.

Sterling and the French franc were unchanged at mid-afternoon at $4.91½ and 4.67½ cents, respectively. The guilder was up .14 of a cent at 54.66 cents.

Cotton suffered a set-back, yielding 20 cents to 85 cents a bale.

Some Lower Issues.

On the losing side for as much as two or more were Briggs Manufacturing, Oliver Farm, Zenith Radio, Chrysler, Commercial Credit, General Motors, Westinghouse, St. Joseph Lead, Dome Mines, Anaconda, Kennecott, Douglas Aircraft, May Department Stores, Seaboard Oil, American Smelting and Gimbel.

Most commodities, led by rye, rubber and zinc, zoomed to new post-depression peaks. Rye at Chicago was up 1¼ to 3 cents a bushel, wheat was ⅞ off to up 1⅛, and corn was ahead ¼ to ¾.

Bonds were uneven. Guilders developed strength against the dollar, but other European currencies did virtually nothing.

News of the Day.

Renewed interest in rail equipments apparently was based on expectations of further sizable orders for locomotives and cars from the principal carriers.

The recent ability of Union Pacific to stand out in the rail division was explained in part by the statement of President Carl Gray that November operating revenues were 15 per cent ahead of the corresponding month last year.

Carrier issues generally reflected conflicting opinions on whether the Interstate Commerce Commission will grant the plea of the roads for an extension of emergency freight rates which expire at the end of this month.

Consolidated Edison was unexcited by the action of the New York Public Service Commission in ordering a rate slash which may save New York City consumers in the neighborhood of $7,000,000 a year. In some quarters the opinion was expressed that contingencies involved in the reduction favored the company.

Midweek Reviews.

Labor problems received attention in the financial sector as trade observers estimated some 75,000 workers are out in 11 major strikes now under way.

It was believed, however, the largest of these, the West Coast shipping walk-out, is headed for settlement and hopes were expressed other controversies will be adjusted soon.

As a result of a pickup in automobile traffic for Eastern roads, transportation circles were predicting last week's freight car loadings, to be officially announced tomorrow, were down much less than seasonally.

A cheerful sign was seen in Dun & Bradstreet's figures on bank clearings for the week ended Dec. 16. The total was placed at 15.7 per cent above the aggregate in the same 1935 week.

'Change Seat Up $10,000.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—The price of New York Stock Exchange seats showed a bullish trend today with the transfer of a membership at $115,000, up $10,000 from the previous sale.

At this level membership values show a recovery of $26,000 from the year's low, recorded on Dec. 1. The high for the year was $174,000, in February.

Financial Barometer.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—"Other" loans of Federal Reserve member banks in leading cities moved up in the latest week to another recovery peak. Although the rising tempo of industrial activity played a major part in the upswing, financial quarters pointed out advances on commodities have increased noticeably in recent weeks.

Loans to business reported by the Federal Reserve Board, compared as follows:

Week ended Dec. 9	$4,100,000,000
Previous week	4,068,000,000
Same period last year	3,404,00,000

FOREIGN MARKETS AT A GLANCE

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Dec. 17.—Rubber shares, which continued active and strong, owing to the strength in that commodity, led prices to higher levels in the Stock Exchange after early steadiness. Trading, however, was on a smaller scale. Industrials tended upward with motor, cable, and tobacco shares in fair demand. Trans-Atlantic issues and German bonds eased, while Argentine rails continued their advance. Giltedged securities held firm and oil shares steady. The mining group turned irregular.

PARIS, Dec. 17.—Although rentes recorded gains of 40 to 50 points, prices were generally irregular in the Bourse today. International and industrial issues weakened, and Bank of France shares lost 50 francs.

LIVERPOOL, Dec. 17.—Wheat futures resumed their upward drive today and closed ¼d to 1⅜d higher. Wednesday's late rally in North American markets and the good United Kingdom milling demand were the principal factors in the advance.

London selling and further liquidation which resulted from uncertainties surrounding the release of American loan cotton and fears of a strike in Lancashire uncovered stop loss orders and sent cotton futures downward today. Prices closed 4 to 6 points lower.

ZINC PRICE ADVANCED TO 5.45C EAST ST. LOUIS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—A leading producer today set the price of zinc for immediate and first quarter delivery at 5.45 cents a pound, East St. Louis, an increase of .10 of a cent and a new high since January, 1930.

The price increase became general later as other producers lifted quotations. Metal for delivery in the second quarter was offered at 5.55 cents a pound, an increase of .10 of a cent.

ADDITIONAL ORDERS OF RAILROAD EQUIPMENT

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Recent predictions in trade circles the steel industry would continue operations at a brisk pace were given weight today by additional orders for railroad equipment.

Norfolk & Western Railway placed orders for 40,000 tons of rails of which 30,000 tons will be made by Carnegie-Illinois Steel Co., and 10,000 by Bethlehem Steel. The road also awarded a contract for 1000 steel hopper coal cars of 55 tons capacity to Bethlehem Steel Co., Johnstown, Pa.

The following plans for purchases of freight cars were disclosed by "Iron Age": The Pennsylvania Railroad will buy 2500 freight cars. The Erie is in the market for 750 box cars, 500 automobile cars and 250 gondola cars.

The Illinois Central will buy 1000 box cars, 500 coal cars and 500 hopper cars. The Missouri-Kansas-Texas is in the market for 500 gondola cars, 500 stock cars and 150 automobile cars. The Burlington refrigerator express is inquiring for 300 cars. The Denver & Rio Grande Western will buy 100 ballast cars.

The Chicago & Northwestern, in addition to 500 automobile cars previously announced, will purchase 150 ballast cars. The Nickel Plate is planning to buy 1400 freight cars.

BANK CLEARINGS PASS $7,000,000,000 MARK

St. Louis Shows 13.8 Per Cent Gain Over Corresponding Week Last Year.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—For the third time this year, bank clearings rose above the $7,000,000,000 mark in the latest week. With these exceptions, such a high point has not been reached since October, 1931.

The total for 22 leading cities for the week ended Dec. 16, as reported to Dun & Bradstreet, was $7,235,888,000, against $6,256,049,000 last year, an increase of 15.7 per cent. This contrasted with a gain of 17.1 per cent in the week preceding.

At New York City, the total reached $4,754,951,000, the highest since the week ended March 18, of this year. This was a gain of 20.4 per cent over $3,859,996,000 a week earlier and a rise of 16.4 per cent from $4,086,085,000 a year ago. Outside centers aggregated $2,480,937,000, which was 14.3 per cent above the $2,169,964,000 in 1935.

Only one city failed to register an increase over last year's figures. This was Omaha, where the drop was 5.5 per cent. The largest percentages of gain were reported for Pittsburgh, Baltimore, Richmond, New Orleans and Chicago.

Clearings rose $1,227,692,000 over the total in the week preceding. Between the two comparative weeks in 1935, there was an increase of $1,124,317,000.

Figures at leading cities, together with percentage gains and losses compared with those of 1953, follow, also daily average bank clearings for October, November and December to date:

COTTON MARKET CLOSES 4 TO 17 POINTS LOWER

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Cotton broke for net losses of 14 to 39 points today under heavy general liquidation which uncovered stop orders and found demand limited.

Washington ticker reports indicating loan cotton would be released shortly after the holidays, although apparently unofficial, influenced sentiment. The technical position was also weak and prices eased rapidly, carrying all positions from March forward below the 12-cent level. March declined from 12.31 to 11.99 and May from 12.16 to 11.80.

At these levels trade buying, covering and some commission house demand appeared causing prices to recover about 4 to 20 points from the lows. In mid-afternoon March was selling at 12.12c with January opened 12.25, March 12.28, May 12.15, July 12.05, Oct. 11.64.

Trading was moderately active. In addition to realizing and liquidation there was some hedge selling. Fresh demand was held off owing to reports of quieter conditions in the spot cotton and cotton goods markets. Liverpool was a buyer of distant positions but sold nearbys.

The trade took cotton on price reactions and there was some demand credited to Japanese sources. The undertone was heavier, however, and March eased from 12.28 to 12.24 with prices generally showing net losses of 3 to 8 points at the end of the first half hour.

Liverpool reported liquidation owing to fears of a strike in Lancashire and prevailing uncertainties over release of loan cotton in the United States.

Prices eased further late in the morning under additional liquidation while buying was limited to trade account on a scale down. Selling was scattered and trading rather quiet. March sold off to 12.23 and prices generally at mid-day showed net losses of 4 to 10 points.

1936 BURLEY TOBACCO SUPPLY INCREASES 93,641,000 POUNDS

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The 1936 supply of burley tobacco, the Department of Agriculture said in a special crop report today, is 897,861,000 pounds, representing the largest decrease from the previous year since 1927.

The current year's supply represents a decrease of 93,641,000 pounds. In 1927 the supply dropped 127,945,000 pounds and prices advanced 12.8 cents a pound.

Cigarette consumption, as indicated by tax-paid withdrawals, reached the record high of 128,368,000,000 for the first 10 months of 1936, prompting the Department's forecast of "considerably higher" burley prices compared with last year. Reports from the Lexington, Ky., market with averages exceeding $40 a hundred indicated even higher trends than were apparent earlier in the season.

The supply of flue cured tobacco, in spite a short crop, was only 1 per cent below last year, the report said, but indications pointed to a seasonal average of about 2 cents a pound above last year's 20 cents. Nov. 1 estimates placed the flue-cured supply at 1,559,634,000 pounds.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—A sharp rise in the Netherlands guilder against the dollar in Foreign Exchange dealings at the noon hour today accompanied a continuation of yesterday's advance in the pound sterling.

The Holland unit was up .13 of a cent at 54.65, the highest rate quoted since Oct. 1, a few days after its departure from the gold standard. The pound, meanwhile, was ⅛ of a cent higher. French and Swiss francs were unchanged, the French at 4.67½ cents and the Swiss at 22.99 cents.

Argentine "free rate" pesos were quoted at 30.50 cents, off .10 of a cent.

The dollar lost ⅜ of a cent to sterling, where it closed at 4.91½ to the pound. In Paris it finished at the equivalent of 4.675 cents to the franc, unchanged from the overnight New York rate.

Sterling and the French franc were unchanged at midafternoon at 4.91⅝ and 4.67½ cents, respectively. The guilder was up .14 of a cent at 54.66.

U. S. GOVERNMENT BONDS ARE HEAVY

Sharp Declines in Speculative Corporate Ratings—Foreign List Mixed.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Influenced by heaviness in United States Governments and sharp declines in speculative corporate ratings, the bond market moved downward in late trading today.

The Federals finished 2-32ds to 11-32ds lower, with Treasury 3¾s and 1⅞s showing the widest losses.

American Type Founders convertible 5s closed at 171, off 3; Alleghany Corporation stamped 5s at 66¾, off 1½; Rock Island 4s at 38¾, off ⅞; Walworth 4s at 84½, off 1; Youngstown Sheet & Tube 3½s at 130¾, off ¾.

Loans of New Haven, Southern Railway, St. Paul and American Waterworks showed moderate gains. The foreign list was mixed.

SECURITY OFFERINGS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—An offering of $25,000,000 of Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Co. refunding 3¼ per cent mortgage bonds, due 1936, was made today by a banking group headed by Morgan Stanley & Co., at 105 per cent of par value.

Bond authorities said the yield on the bonds to their maturity in approximately 30 years was just a shade under 3 per cent, making the issue oneof the lowest-yield corporate obligations to be offered in recent Wall Street history.

Public offering is being made today of a new issue of $2,500,000 Mengel Co. first mortgage 4½ per cent convertible sinking fund bonds, due 1947. The bonds are being brought out at 100 and accrued interest by James C. Willson & Co., New York, and Metropolitan St. Louis Co., part of proceeds will be used to redeem, March 1, 1937, all outstanding first mortgage 7 per cent serial bonds and the remainder is for working capital.

New York Sugar.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Raw sugar was quiet and unchanged early today at 3.77 for spots and 3.80 for 1937 quota sugars with no sales reported.

Futures opened 1 point higher and held generally steady on further covering and trade buying which was supplied through scattered liquidation from commission houses. The volume of business was small and most operators were inclined to hold aloof pending developments in the outside market.

January held around 2.86 while July, after selling at 2.89, reacted to 2.88 with the general market at mid-day holding about unchanged to 1 point higher.

Refined continued to move in fair volume on old contracts and prices were unchanged at 4.80 for fine granulated.

Futures, No. 3 closed steady, unchanged to 2 higher. Sales 3900 tons. Jan. 2.86b; March 2.83b; May 2.87b; July 2.89b; Sept. 2.90b.

M'KITTRICK RESTS HIS CASE IN ALGOA PRISON HEARING

Counsel for Superintendent Again Refuses Attorney-General's Request to Put Him on the Stand.

REPLIES HE WILL BE CALLED LATER

Recess Is Taken Until Tomorrow Morning in Inquiry on Alleged Irregularities.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 17. — Submission of testimony by Attorney-General McKittrick to the State Penal Board concerning alleged irregularities in the management of the State intermediate reformatory at Algoa, by Superintendent Guy W. McLain, was completed shortly before noon today and the Attorney-General rested his case as to that phase of the State penal institution investigation.

Counsel for McLain asked for an adjournment until Monday to permit them to study the transcript of the hearings, which began last Dec. 7, and to prepare their defense. The Penal Board overruled this request, but ordered a recess until tomorrow morning.

McKittrick again asked that McLain take the stand as a witness. McLain's counsel again objected, stating they would call on McLain to testify later. Earlier in the hearings a demand by McKittrick that McLain testify at that time was overruled, after his counsel said he would not testify until definite charges had been filed against him and the Attorney-General had presented his evidence.

Calls for Statement.

State Representative J. R. Baker of Fulton, of counsel for McLain, called on the Penal Board before the recess for a statement as to whether it had informed McLain, when he was appointed superintendent of the reformatory on Aug. 1, 1933, that he was entitled to full maintenance, including subsistence. McLain resides at the reformatory, seven miles east of Jefferson City.

McKittrick objected, declaring such a statement would not be binding on the ground there was no provision in the penal institution laws for such an allowance. He recalled that a witness had testified the Penal Board records showed no formal order authorizing full maintenance for McLain.

Director Stephen B. Hunter, chairman of the board, said the board would make no statement at this time, but might later, if it saw fit.

McKittrick said that as soon as the case was completed as to the reformatory management, he would take up alleged improper withdrawals of subsistence supplies by State Police Commissioner George D. Bryant, a member of the Penal Board, from the penitentiary and reformatory commissaries, for his own use.

Attorney-General's Ruling.

The Attorney-General, when he started the inquiry, ruled that Penal Board members and penal employes were not entitled to subsistence withdrawals from the penal institutions. He said at that time he would make demand on Bryant for repayment to the State of "several hundred dollars" for such supplies said to have been requisitioned by him.

Bryant has said the subsistence requisitioned by him was under an allowance of $30 a month sanctioned by the board. He never has been notified officially that he is under inquiry in the present investigation, although his name has cropped up at intervals in testimony about handling of reformatory supplies.

Three reformatory employes testified yesterday that they had issued subsistence supplies on several occasions this year to convict trustees from the penitentiary who were assigned to Bryant as chauffeur and cook at his residence. The employes said they had been instructed by Superintendent McLarin to issue anything requisitioned for Bryant. William Achor, a bookkeeper, said he had been told by McLarin to charge such items to the reformatory kitchen.

Commissary Head Testifies.

C. J. Schindler, in charge of the reformatory commissary, said the withdrawals listed as for Bryant totaled $75 since December, 1935. He said Bryant himself had never called for any supplies or ordered them, and Schindler said he did not know whether Bryant actually received them.

The present proceeding, initiated by the board at the request of McKittrick, is the first of the kind to be held. When the hearings are completed the evidence will be taken under advisement by the board, Director Stephen B. Hunter, the board chairman, said today. The board then will determine what action it will take and what recommendations it will make to the Governor.

DENIES WASHING COAL WILL CUT DOWN SMOKE

Illinois Geological Survey Man Writes to East Side Mine Operators.

Washing low-grade soft coal, as required by the anti-smoke ordinance pending in the St. Louis Board of Aldermen, will not decrease the amount of smoke it produces, Dr. Gilbert H. Kady, head of the coal division of the Illinois Geological Survey, stated in a letter read last night at a meeting of the St. Clair-Madison Counties Coal Operators' Association at Belleville.

"No amount of washing could remove the ash and sulphur," Dr. Kady said, referring to the section of the proposed ordinance, sponsored by Mayor Dickmann, which provides that no coal containing more than 12 per cent ash or more than 2 per cent sulphur may be sold in St. Louis without first being treated.

Clarence G. Stiehl, president of the association, said compliance with the ordinace would require investments necessitating an increase of the retail price of Belleville district coal amounting to about $2 a ton, or approximately 50 per cent.

Only Perry and Franklin County coal could meet requirements, he said, adding that these fields could not produce a sufficient tonnage to meet St. Louis requirements.

The meeting was attended by James W. Bristow, executive vice-president of the Illinois Reciprocal Trade Association and St. Louis coal dealers who opposed the ordinance.

Bristow pointed out that the section requiring washing coal was not included in proposals of Osborn C. Monett, consulting engineer on smoke problems, whose survey of St. Louis was the basis of the ordinance.

Members of the association said they would enlist the support of county and town officials, unions and civic organizations in St. Clair and Madison counties in opposing the ordinance.

BURGLAR MAKING FOURTH RAID ON STORE TRAPPED BY ALARM

Negro Touches Off Electric Device Proprietor Had Rigged Up to Awaken Him.

A Negro burglar who three times had robbed the drug store of Sidney Weissman at 4105 Easton avenue, was trapped early today in the store when he roused the proprietor, asleep upstairs, by touching off an electric alarm Weissman had contrived.

Police summoned by the druggist found the intruder crouching on a balcony. He said he was John Davis, 20 years old, 4220 Cote Brilliante avenue, and in a statement was said to have admitted obtaining about $16 and merchandise in the previous burglaries.

Weissman determined a few days ago that entrance had been gained by the burglar from the basement through a hole cut in the floor of a closet at the rear of the store.

He attached his contrivance to th closet door so that when it w opened a buzzer would sound in h home above the drug store. Wh Davis opened the door, the alar worked.

The prisoner denied participati in a burglary of the establishme Nov. 8, in which $216 was take from the cash register.

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU—By BOB BURNS

SOMETIMES, I think there might be somethin' to family background, after all. Every family seems to have its own characteristics. That's one reason why you should sorta walk in a straight line. You may git discouraged at times and think maybe you're not getting rewarded for it, but you must always remember that you're buildin' up the old family record that might help somebody out in future generations. Maybe your reward lies in the fact that in later years when they look up your family tree, they won't find that you was a rotten limb. I had a cousin down home, one time, who was arrested on circumstantial evidence fer stealin' a plow. He would've been sentenced sure if the judge hadn't looked up my cousin's family record. The judge found that there was no case on record where any of our family had ever stolen anything to work with.

The Outstanding Baby.
More About Edward.
2000 Pints of Cream.

By Arthur Brisbane
(Copyright, 1936.)

MRS. CARRIE CHAPMAN CATT, abandoning her practice of choosing the "10 outstanding women of the year," is wise; the thing can't be done.

The outstanding woman of each year is the woman who has produced the year's best baby, and she has to wait about 50 years to find which baby was best, sometimes longer.

This is no belittling of woman's work. The outstanding artist of the year is the painter of the greatest picture in that year. Man puts his brains and his power into his work, woman puts hers into her baby. Some day that will be realized and the Lincoln statue will show Nancy Hanks in bronze, with little Abraham sitting on her lap.

Englishmen who had manufactured plates, cups, etc., with portraits of the former King Edward, to be sold at his coronation, expected a total loss. Now all are sold and they have orders for more; the plates have become curiosities. Buyers of china for American department stores might order some, as curiosities.

The wife of the new American Ambassador to Russia takes to Moscow 2000 pints of cream, frozen far below zero, and 25 electric refrigerators. That equipment will supply more ice cream than some Russians have seen in a long time, and it is a sign of progress. The United States Government is experimenting with the idea of freezing milk at low temperatures, first suggested by Clarence Birdseye. Foods, milk included, are frozen so rapidly that the cells do not break down and there is no loss of food value.

A farmer in the Catskill Mountains, New York, may be able to sell his surplus milk at a fair price on the equator, as fresh as when it left the cow.

Seven learned scientists will spend nine months studying big apes in the jungles of Siam, Borneo and Sumatra. These scientists, from Harvard, Johns Hopkins and Barnard College, will watch the apes as they were never watched before, and tell us what discoveries they make about our alleged "cousins."

Some wise chimpanzee might say to them: "Now please go back, study some of your gangsters and leaders of wars and tell us what you discovered there."

Christmas trees appear again in Russia, where they thought religion had been buried forever. They call them New Year's trees. Religion has a habit of NOT remaining buried. You cannot change human beings by law, not even with the help of Karl Marx—they grow in a certain way, as do Christmas trees and other products of nature. You change them temporarily, but they return to the original form.

In Mexico, workers for an American firm in the State of Sinaloa, not satisfied with their employers, emphasize that fact by shutting off light, water and other public services, in the town of Los Mochis, in which they and other workmen live.

The strikers hope to "paralyze all activity in one-half of the State."

This might be called "biting off your nose to spite your face"; there should be a better plan.

The Government has spent $422,000 well to manufacture 10,000 "talking-book machines" for blind people. Many of the blind cannot read books printed in raised letters to be read by touch. These book machines actually read the books out loud, and 75,000 blind persons will listen.

The suggestion of an all-American court to decide quarrels between different republics on these two continents is postponed until 1938. The United States, if wise, will never act as judge or appoint judges in quarrels between other American republics. No matter how they might decide, this country would be accused of self-interest or injustice, making one enemy in every case.

You may be sure that the lady who appeared before King Solomon and did not get the baby hated Solomon for his wisdom.

Orange Cream Candy Roll

Two cups sugar.
One-fourth cup cream.
One-half cup milk.
One-fourth cup orange juice.
Two teaspoons grated orange rind.
One-eighth teaspoon salt.
One-half teaspoon lemon extract.

Boil gently the sugar, cream, milk, juice, rind and salt, stirring frequently. When soft ball forms when small portion is tested in cold water, remove the pan from fire and let stand 15 minutes. Add extract and beat until creamy and thick. Shape into two-inch roll on waxed paper. Chill until firm and serve cut in thin slices or squares.

For a variety and quite a delicacy, pour the creamy thickened candy, after beating, onto waxed paper, patting down until candy is one-half inch thick. Melt one-half pound sweet chocolate candy bar in double boiler and pour over top of orange candy. Chill, cut into squares.

VETERAN Comedian a FILM "FIND"

Victor Moore, Long On Stage, Was Passed Up 24 Years Ago

By H. H. Niemeyer

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 16.

PRETTY frequently you read about the discoveries the studios are making. Girls found in very little Little theatres; boys dug up in college dramatic societies and all that sort of thing. But every now and then the film makers suddenly discover someone already known to theater audiences the world over. Maybe it's an actor they gave a chance in the old silent days and let slip away with half a trial.

Take, for instance, the case of Victor Moore. Victor will be 61 month after next although he doesn't look a day over 45. Right now he is being hailed as Hollywood's greatest comedy discovery yet Hollywood looked him over, years ago, and passed him up.

Back in the old days of the Columbia Theater in St. Louis, Victor Moore and his wife, the late Emma Littlefield, presented one of the high spots of the vaudeville season when they made their annual appearance in a sketch called "Change Your Act or Back to the Woods." They didn't change their own act, either, for some 25 years, but season after season in St. Louis they were always the topliners on the bill.

I saw Victor Moore on the RKO lot the other day. RKO has teamed him up with Helen Broderick, another successful vaudevillian the movies overlooked until lately, as a picture comedy team. He had just scored a big hit in Warners in the new Gold Digger's show and had returned to RKO, his home lot, where he had already worked in "Swing Time." He thinks he will do well in films this time although his earlier debut, 24 years ago, while providing plenty of work was no great success artistically.

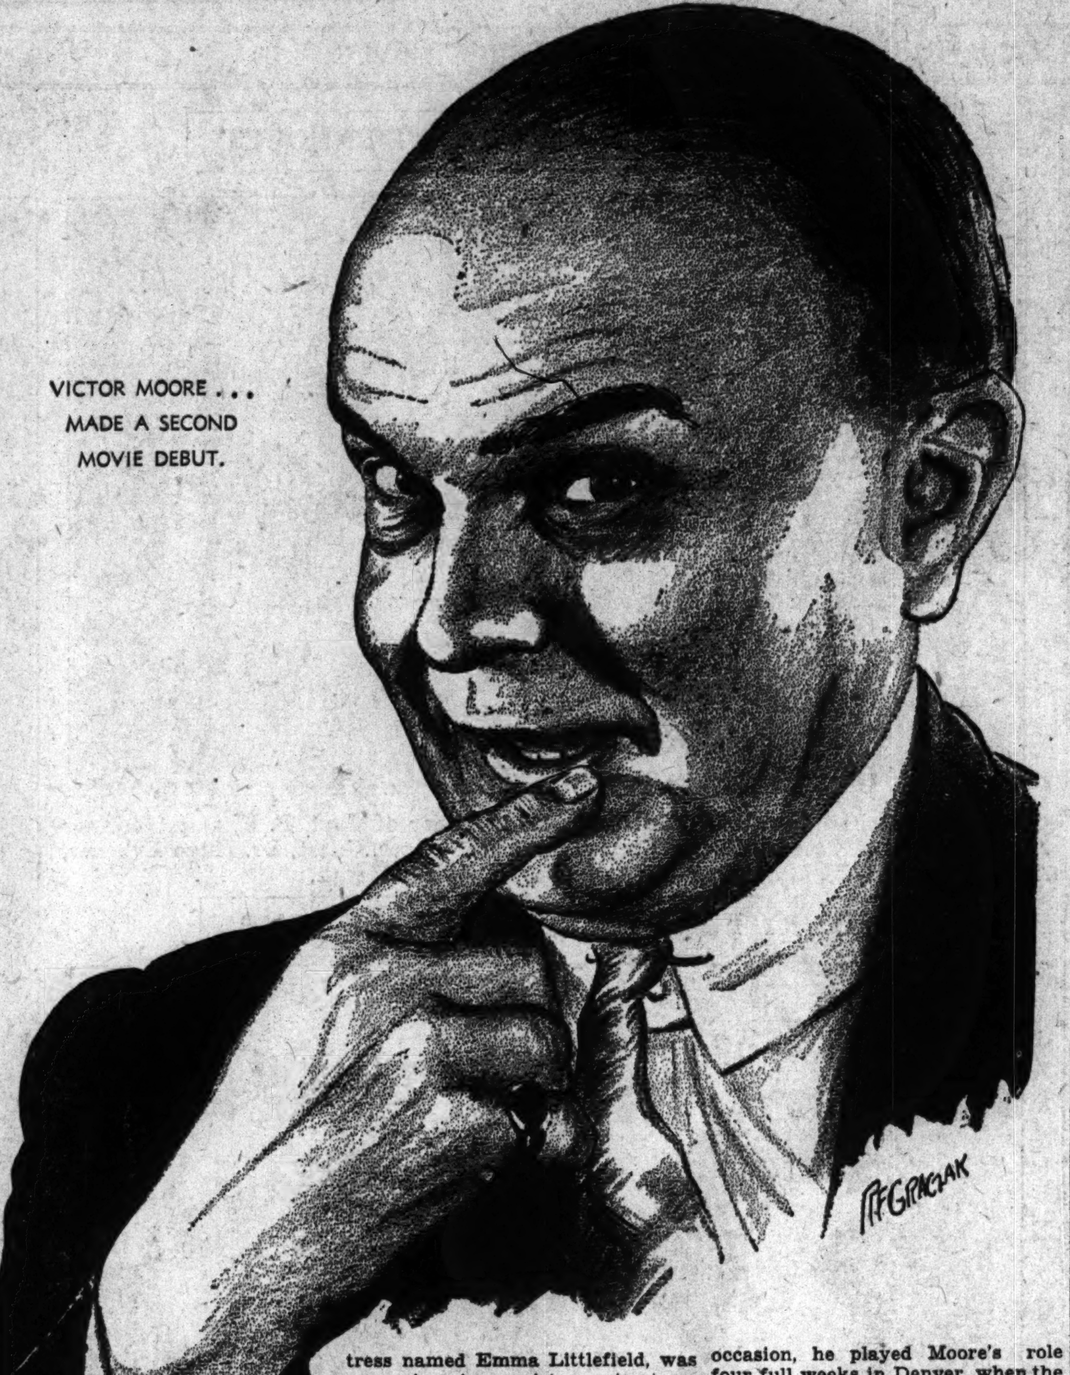
Victor Moore broke into the theater by way of a small grocery store his father owned in Hammonton, N. J., where Vic was born. When he was old enough he helped out in the shop selling butter and eggs and such things. "To be perfectly honest," he told us in the RKO Cafe, "most of the helping I did was to myself. I'd take dimes out of the cash drawer and go to a show. You could get a gallery seat for a dime. Prices were 10, 20 and 30 then. Balcony was 20 and the orchestra was the top price. I always sat in the gallery."

He doesn't remember when he didn't want to become an actor. There was a more or less thriving amateur theater in Hammonton. The leading spirit was the town's dentist, who had dabbled in theatricals in his college days in Philadelphia. He bought his ham and his eggs and things at the Moore grocery and naturally the two became friends. The greater artist invited the youth to join his company, without pay, and Victor played small roles in a lot of productions without making any hit that he could not have lived down successfully.

* * *

ABOUT the time he was 16 his father moved to Boston and opened a small restaurant and Victor got a chance a year later to go on the stage professionally as a super in "Babes in the Wood" at the old Boston Theater. It wasn't much of a start, but he considered he was an actor and got a job in a fly-by-night "rep" show outfit which toured New England—and couldn't pay salaries. Strangely enough the future comedian was usually cast for "heavies," largely because his wardrobe consisted of a "Prince Albert" coat, a loan from his father. Stage villians just had to wear Prince Alberts in those day.

Next Victor landed with a company in which he played juvenile parts. He was paid $10 a week.



VICTOR MOORE . . . MADE A SECOND MOVIE DEBUT.

But in Stockton, Cal., the company stranded and it took a long time for young Moore to work his way back to Peoria, Ill., where he signed up with a stock company and remained for six months. Made and saved enough money to take him to New York where, with $250, he embarked upon a managerial career. With his own company he played to two weeks of the hottest weather and the coldest business imaginable, and was broke again. That was his only experience as a producer. He has stuck to acting ever since.

And then came vaudeville or, rather, as it was then called, the varieties. Eddie McWade, husband of the actress, who had been Moore's leading lady, wrote a skit called "Change Your Act," for Johnny Hyams and Lelia McIntyre. They tried it out and didn't like it.

Moore revamped and re-wrote it, adding material. He called it "Change Your Act, or Back to the Woods." Intermittently for the next 25 years he played that act in the leading vaudeville theaters throughtout the country.

In 1903, Moore was playing Brighton Beach. A charming actress named Emma Littlefield, was appearing in a sister act at a Coney Island theater. She did three shows. Moore did two. After his second show, Moore would hurry to Coney to see Miss Littlefield do her last show. Then they would go to see the Johnstown Flood panorama, and as he puts it, "hold hands."

They were married when Moore took his act to Boston, and Miss Littlefield became his vaudeville partner. Miss Littlefield died in 1933.

* * *

IN "Change Your Act, or Back to the Woods" as a supporting performed, Moore always used a stage hand at the theater he played. On one of his early engagements, at Wilmington, Del., the stage hand he chanced to use was one Maurice Elliott, a red-haired young fellow with acting ambitions. After the show, Elliott informed Moore he was going to stay with the act permanently. Moore said "no," and promptly forgot about the matter until Elliott showed up in Washington, D. C., his next stop, ready to go on and do his turn. He had, he explained to the comedy star, inherited $2000, and he was going to act if he had to pay his own salary.

Moore kept him with the act and paid him a salary. It was the beginning of a 30-year association which still endures. Elliott has been fellow actor, understudy, companion and general handy man for the comedy star ever since. On one occasion, he played Moore's role four full weeks in Denver, when the latter was sick. During the filming of "Swing Time," just a few months ago Elliott served as Moore's stand in.

George M. Cohan had worked on the same bill with Victor Moore many times in vaudeville, and he wrote the part of Kid Burns especially for Victor in "Forty-five Minutes From Broadway." It was a big hit and other musical plays followed, but between them Moore and Littlefield always turned to vaudeville again with "Change Your Act." One of these tours brought him out to Los Angeles, where he had an attack of appendicitis. When he recovered the comedian called on Jesse Lasky — another former vaudevillian—and asked for a good easy-going part in the films. Lasky put him in a piece called "Snobs." In the very first scene he was hit on the head with a blackjack, dragged about 20 feet and thrown into the back of an automobile. He took it and his appendix, or whatever was left if it, didn't give him any trouble. But he needed a rest.

Then he went back to vaudeville again, opening in St. Louis and working on to New York, where he found a wire from Lasky offering him a part in four new films. In the last one, "The Clown," Lasky suggested co-featuring a young man for whom he wanted to do something. Moore was agreeable and the youngster went into the cast. His name happened to be Thomas Meighan.

The four films over with Victor returned to New York, where he made 41 one-reelers for a concern known as "Klever Komedies." Then he worked in "The Man Who Came Back," in which Tom Meighan was the star. After that he went back to the stage again, musical shows and "Change Your Act." In "Funny Face" he played with Fred and Adele Astaire. It was with Fred Astaire that Victor returned to the screen—this time to stay, he says—in "Swing Time."

Moore's most recent stage hits were as Vice-President Alexander Throttlebottom in "Of Thee I Sing," and "Let 'Em Eat Cake." He still gets fan mail addressed to Mr. Throttlebottom.

He likes it in Hollywood and means to say. Has a big home in Beverly Hills, where he lives with his son and daughter, who are attending school here. He has an adopted son, Victor Moore Jr., who lives in the East.

For recreation Moore likes to go out in the desert and shoot jack rabbits. "I used to shoot them there 20 years ago, and I want to go on record as saying the California climate agrees with jack rabbits," he told us. There used to be thousands of them in one particular spot. New there are millions."

An Incorrect Slam Contract Badly Handled

Caution After Recklessness That Has an Example in an Anecdote.

By Ely Culbertson

THE cautious manner with which many players attack a contract very incautiously reached reminds me of a story that probably is very old, but which certainly is appropriate.

Ely Culbertson

An Englishman was about to be hanged. In fact, he was standing on the hastily erected platform while the hangman fiddled with the ropes. An official asked him if he had a last remark to make. The Englishman teetered back and forth from heel to toe and answered vehemently: "Yes, by Jove, I have! I don't think this blooming platform is safe!"

North, dealer.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	Pass	2 spades	Pass
3 spades	Pass	6 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

Oviously South was solely to blame for reaching a contract that was, to say the least, highly questionable. Although North and South were not using asking bids, there still was no reason for the abrupt jump from three to six spades. South had stretched his fiirst response slightly, since he did not have the three and one-half honor tricks necessary for a forcing takeout, and that being the case, he should have applied the brakes later instead of going ahead full tilt. But his slam bid was not as bad as his subsequent play!

* * *

WEST opened the club king. Declarer won and ran off all six of his trumps, in the naive hope that the defenders would unguard their diamond honors or that he would get a lucky break in the suit and drop the Q-J blend. Neither of these miracles happened and he managed to go down two tricks, a rather ignominous defeat considering the opportunity he had passed up.

The correct play at this incorrect slam contract should have been slimplicity itself. After a club opening South should have seen that to go about establishing the diamond suit by conceding a trick would not work, because the opponents would continue with clubs once they took the lead. Since South had two losing clubs and one losing diamonds of which to dispose, the heart finesse in itself could not take care of nearly enough of these losers, but it could and would have a different and vitally important function.

Regardless of the fact that South had a singleton heart, he should have finessed against the king at the second trick. When the queen held, the ace should be played and a diamond discarded; then the ace and king of diamonds should be cashed and the third round ruffed with a high trump. Three rounds of spades ending in the dummy then would draw the adverse trumps, and dummy's two long diamonds would take care of declarer's two losing clubs. Thus, this proper play actually would have returned an overtrick on the slam contract.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: Partner opened the bidding with one spade. Next hand passed. Should I show the club suit with this holding?

♠1064 ♥96 ♦74 ♣QJ8642

Answer: No. You should pass.

Problems of Social Usage For Weddings

Gifts to Bride and Groom—Correct Dress for Men at An Evening Ceremony.

By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post:

MY husband and I are invited to a Saturday night supper in honor of a visiting bride and groom. We know the groom's family but were not invited to the wedding in the East and did not send them a wedding present. Do you think that after this party we should send something or would you perhaps suggest that we take something to the party?

Emily Post

Answer: Unless a local custom is involved about which I have not heard, it certainly will not be expected that you take or send anything to the bride and groom.

Dear Mrs. Post: After our marriage we are going West for several months but do not expect that my husband will have to stay on after that time. His next place will be permanent but we are not sure where it will be as yet. Under the circumstances, what should I do about enclosing at home cards with my announcements?

Answer: I wouldn't enclose at home cards. Those who want to write you can write to your own home address and by and by, when you are settled permanently, send out your visiting card with your address on it.

Dear Mrs. Post: I'm in a predicament and am finding it very hard to decide the best way out of it. I have a father, stepfather, grandfather and a brother, all of whom have been very good to me always and of whom I am equally fond. Whom shall I choose to walk with me up the aisle at my wedding?

Answer: Your father, of course. If you choose any one but him you would announce to every one that you care very little for him.

Dear Mrs. Post: It is the custom here in the deep South to give evening weddings. In our community many of these take place at home. In the case I am specifically referring to the bride wants to make the wedding at home as formal as possible, and the groom insists that because the wedding will take place at home the men should be allowed to wear "tucks" instead of "tails." Will you give us your opinion?

Answer: Correctly, the men should wear "tails"—absolutely. Tuxedos are proper in small communities where few of the men have formal evening clothes. It is true that a house wedding may seem to have less solemnity because we know it is not taking place on consecrated ground, but apart from this consciousness of the fact a house wedding can be just as ceremonious and beautiful as a church wedding.

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

By Martha Carr

My dear Mrs. Carr:

KINDLY advise me in regard to the following: I have a son, age 17, who graduated from high school in June and obtained a positoin in July. His earnings during holidays, rush and overtime are fair. I have given consent that he may keep his earnings for overtime and for his expenses. His overtime money he is banking, saving to purchase clothes and shoes, etc., which he needs very much.

The boy's father has been unemployed four years and during all this time my son and the rest of the family have worn clothes furnished through kindness, by sincere and kind friends and relatives. Now his dad says that son must give up all money that he earns and he (his dad) will get him what he needs. But when son did give his check to his father, it was taken to the tavern and very little was left.

Now, due to this, my son and I have agreed that he cash his check at the bank, deposit overtime money and bring home the rest to me to be used for his expense, board, etc., and necessities. His dad's attitude toward him is wrecking the boy's nerves and I feel he cannot do justice to his work in these circumstances. I will say for the boy that he has not been to a show, even, in all the years his dad has been unemployed, he does not smoke and has no pleasures or pals. An occasional football game at Public School Stadium is the only expense for pleasure.

This morning his father demanded money from son to pay a tavern bill. If he does not do this, his dad threatens that he must leave home and not come back. Surely you will kindly advise me in your column in the very near future. DISTRESSED MOTHER.

* * *

From what you say, you have an unusual boy and, in your place, I should use every fiber of my being to protect him from discouragement and unfairness, even if I had to leave with him. If your husband is an able-bodied man, there is little excuse for his idleness of four years duration, even in present conditions. And you should tell your husband, whether he takes it well or not, that he will destroy his boy's courage and ambitions when that is gone; the boy may leave of his own accord and you would be in a much more serious condition than at present. And he may turn to dissipation or worse.

Protect your boy and encourage him and face the storm together; when the man finds that bull-dozing and threats and dissipation leave you both calm (to all appearances) and determined, he may learn his lesson.

If the boy has an older friend (perhaps his employer or some other man in whom he can confide and ask advice) it might help him to stick to what he thinks is right, regardless of his father's threats.

My dear Mrs. Carr:

I HAVE a two-year-old police dog, female, which I would like to give away, if I can find a good home for her. She is very gentle and a good watchdog; but I have to give her away as I cannot keep her in a flat; she requires a yard. Would be grateful to you if you would find her a good home as I'm so fond of her. —MRS. V. L.

Those who may want the dog and write or telephone their inquiries must give good references, before their offers will be passed on to this correspondent.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM A girl 13 years old and would like to know if there is some kind of medicine which would take out blackheads and pimples; please try to help me. M. E.

Internal medicine will do very little for pimples and blackheads. Scrupulous cleanliness is the best remedy. Before going to bed, wash your face thoroughly with warm water and a good pure soap, rinse it over and over in warm water, then give it a dash of cold water. If the skin appears oily in the morning, wash it again and be sure not to forget the cold dash, to keep the wind and cold from chapping the skin.

And now, most important warning of all, is to keep your fingers away from your face during the day. Most boys and girls who have these troubles are continually feeling and fingering these places, and thus reinfect the skin. If your face needs touching, use a clean tissue or handkerchief or towel to remove a smear or spot. Leave off powder, and certainly you should not use rouge.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

THERE is a young salesman who comes into our office quite often. He is very nice, and I have learned to care a great deal for him. Although our conversation is not always strictly business, he has never asked me for a date. He is the type, however, who would hesitate to ask a girl for a date under the circumstances, for fear she would think him too forward.

How could I make him understand that I care and would like to go out with him?
STENOGGIE.

You ought to be able to show by your manner that you would enjoy his friendship and companionship. If you know his standing and something of his background, you could say to him that you would be very glad to have him come, some time, to your home for the evening. If you have any kind of Christmas party or invited game of cards, you might ask him to be one of the players.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM a reader of your column, faithfully, and have come to you for advice. I have a white evening gown made of heavy lace. Will that be appropriate for New Year's Eve? TOODLES.

Your lace gown will look very well, especially if you add a touch suggestive of the winter season, such as: A corsage of dark velvet flowers and a velvet ribbon belt to match; or, if you prefer, have a little silk mess jacket or bolero of the velvet or one of silk having metal threads.

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

The Winter Clothing of School Child

Simplicity and Bodily Comfort Are Deciding Factors in Childrens' Welfare.

By Angelo Patri

THE cold season is upon us and it is time to get out the winter underwear. If mother is one who believes wool is the only wear for winter there is weeping and wailing and hard words in the air.

"I can't wear it. It itches me. I'm not cold. What do you want to make me wear it for anyway?"

Angelo Patri

There are some skins that can't and won't abide wool. It is better to use some other kind of fabric rather than irritate the child's skin. The warmth wool provides loses the comfort that a happy skin bestows, and nothing is gained by it. A combination of silk and wool, or sturdy cotton, will answer the purpose for "school children. The wool dress, sweater and overcoat will make up for the loss of the woolen underwear. For those children who can wear it comfortably wool is the thing.

While we are talking about it, stockings are another bone of contention. I, for one, believe that children's legs ought to be covered well above the knee in cold weather. During the summer socks, bare feet and bare legs are just right, but when the north wind blows, when the snow lies deep and the trees groan under the weight of the bitter frost, then legs, ankles and feet ought to be warmly and comfortably clad.

Woolen stockings have the same itchy quality to some skins as the woolen underwear, of course. For children with such skins a mixture of some sort is better than the pure wool. In very cold weather such children can comfortably wear a thin silk or cotton stocking—cotton preferred for school wear—and a knitted wool over stocking. Comfortable feet are a great help to good health. Bodily comfort is often the deciding factor in school success. No child can do justice to a lesson while he itches and burns all over, or while his feet burn and swell or chill and burn with the agony of chilblains.

* * *

SWEATERS that are worn to school ought to have their owners' names sewed into them with no uncertain stitches. Red sweaters soon look alike as they hang or fall in the lockers, drop in the playground, lie forgotten on the wall of the playfield. Few of them are wilfully mistaken. "It looks like mine. Mine is red. Well, if it isn't the other fellow can do the hollering. I can't find mine where I left it."

The odd button, the tear in the elbow, the spot on the front, the dealer's name, the color fail in the last test. A sweater that has been worn in action at school knows no buttons, no labels, no darns—nothing but the owner's name sturdily stitched in place. And, in addition, the name ought to be embroidered on the linen tape.

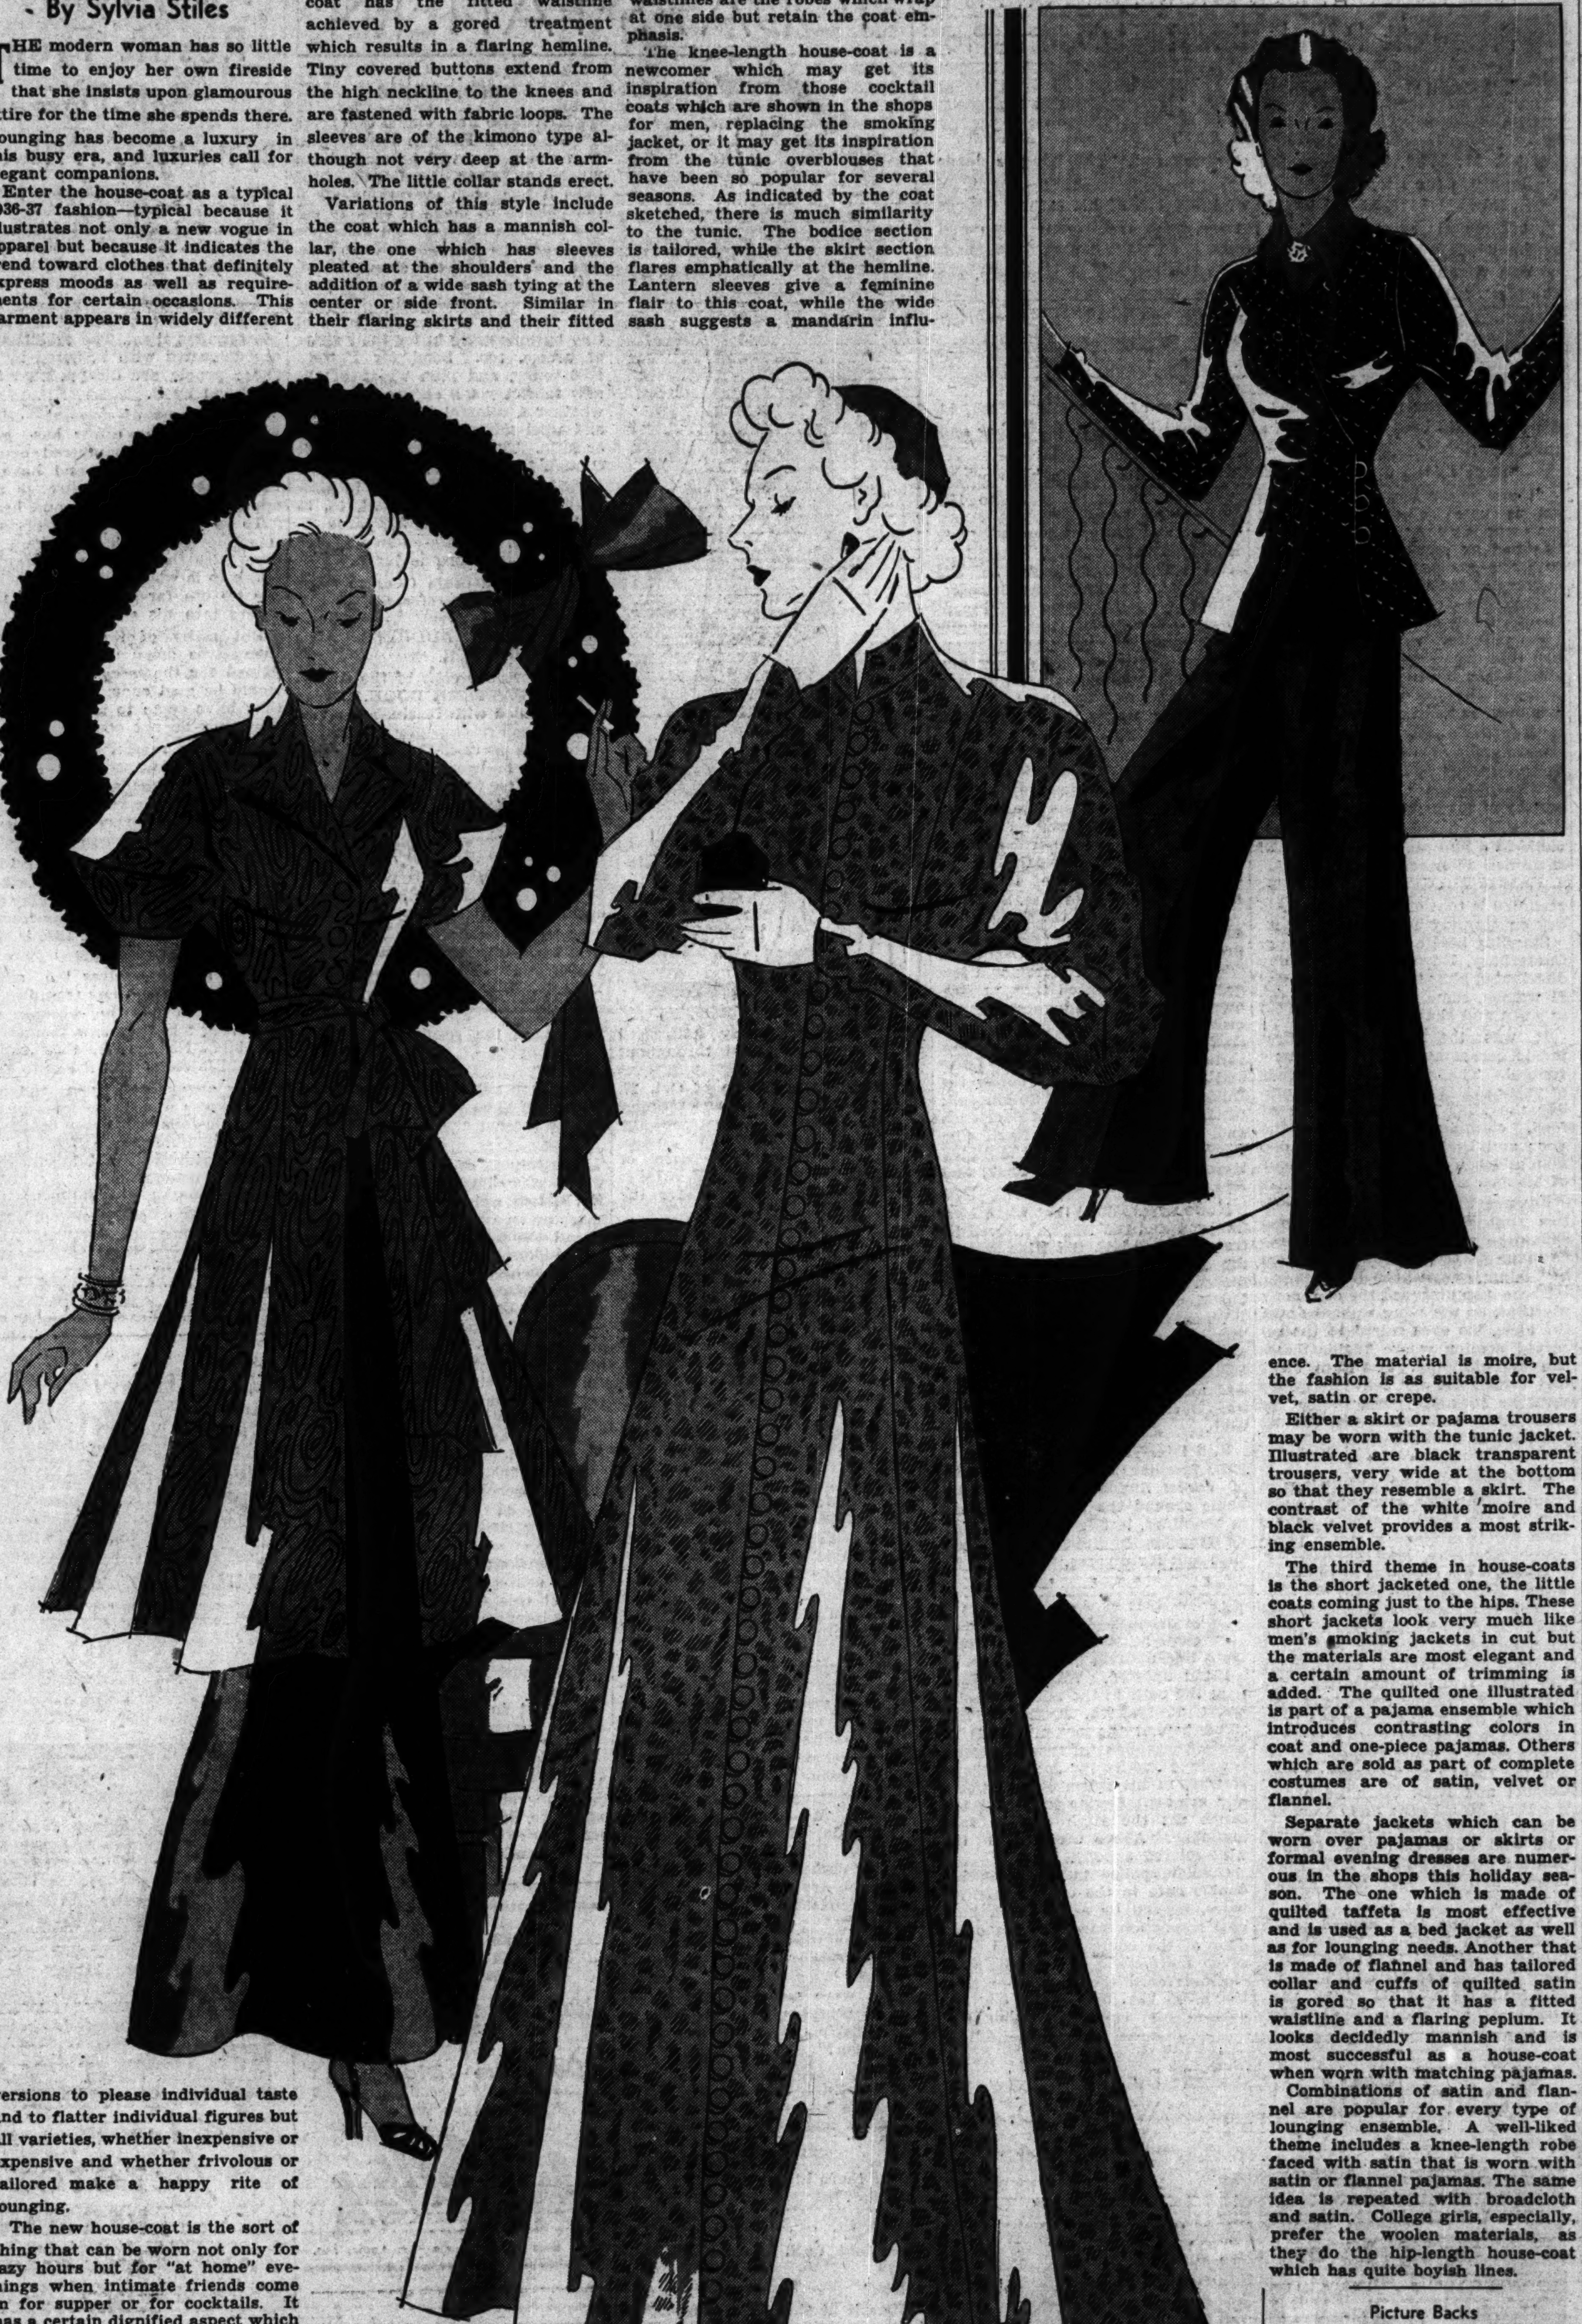
Indelible ink stays a while, pencil vanishes completely about the end of the first week, ordinary ink lasts a few days longer. Nothing that fades out will serve in the day of battle. The name that is stitched and then sewed firmly into place, usually holds out to the end of the term. Even that will bear occasional examination and repair.

The lighter in weight, the simpler in style, the better in quality winter underwear is, the happier the school child. And his idea can well be extended to stockings, sweaters and caps.

HOUSE COATS FOR LEISURE MOMENTS

Varied Styles Fit Moods, and Are Suitable for "At Home" Evenings With Friends

By Sylvia Stiles



THE modern woman has so little time to enjoy her own fireside that she insists upon glamourous attire for the time she spends there. Lounging has become a luxury in this busy era, and luxuries call for elegant companions.

Enter the house-coat as a typical 1936-37 fashion—typical because it illustrates not only a new vogue in apparel but because it indicates the trend toward clothes that definitely express moods as well as requirements for certain occasions. This garment appears in widely different versions to please individual taste and to flatter individual figures but all varieties, whether inexpensive or expensive and whether frivolous or tailored make a happy rite of lounging.

The new house-coat is the sort of thing that can be worn not only for lazy hours but for "at home" evenings when intimate friends come in for supper or for cocktails. It has a certain dignified aspect which frills and handsome fabrics cannot overshadow. The fitted waistline, the flaring skirt of directoire inspiration and the picturesqueness of big sleeves all stamp it as foreign to the negligee which belongs in the boudoir and never should venture to the living room fireside.

JUDGING by the interest in these coats at the Christmas season, husabnds are giving them their endorsement. Perhaps they feel that a wife who gets a luxurious brocade or a shimming velvet garment to don on evenings at home, will plan her crowded schedule so that she has more opportunity to wear it.

Three dominant examples of the house-coat mode have been illustrated to show what a wide range of types are available in the St. Louis shops. The full-length coat is the one which has received most general acceptance and is displayed in so many different materials and styles. A handsome upholstery brocade was used for this particular garment but there are similar coats of moire, metallic fabrics, velvet, satin, flannel and broadcloth. The coat has the fitted waistline achieved by a gored treatment which results in a flaring hemline. Tiny covered buttons extend from the high neckline to the knees and are fastened with fabric loops. The sleeves are of the kimono type although not very deep at the armholes. The little collar stands erect.

Variations of this style include the coat which has a mannish collar, the one which has sleeves pleated at the shoulders and the addition of a wide sash tying at the center or side front. Similar in their flaring skirts and their fitted waistlines are the robes which wrap at one side but retain the coat emphasis.

The knee-length house-coat is a newcomer which may get its inspiration from those cocktail coats which are shown in the shops for men, replacing the smoking jacket, or it may get its inspiration from the tunic overblouses that have been so popular for several seasons. As indicated by the coat sketched, there is much similarity to the tunic. The bodice section is tailored, while the skirt section flares emphatically at the hemline. Lantern sleeves give a feminine flair to this coat, while the wide sash suggests a mandarin influence. The material is moire, but the fashion is as suitable for velvet, satin or crepe.

Either a skirt or pajama trousers may be worn with the tunic jacket. Illustrated are black transparent trousers, very wide at the bottom so that they resemble a skirt. The contrast of the white moire and black velvet provides a most striking ensemble.

The third theme in house-coats is the short jacketed one, the little coats coming just to the hips. These short jackets look very much like men's smoking jackets in cut but the materials are most elegant and a certain amount of trimming is added. The quilted one illustrated is part of a pajama ensemble which introduces contrasting colors in coat and one-piece pajamas. Others which are sold as part of complete costumes are of satin, velvet or flannel.

Separate jackets which can be worn over pajamas or skirts or formal evening dresses are numerous in the shops this holiday season. The one which is made of quilted taffeta is most effective and is used as a bed jacket as well as for lounging needs. Another that is made of flannel and has tailored collar and cuffs of quilted satin is gored so that it has a fitted waistline and a flaring peplum. It looks decidedly mannish and is most successful as a house-coat when worn with matching pajamas.

Combinations of satin and flannel are popular for every type of lounging ensemble. A well-liked theme includes a knee-length robe faced with satin that is worn with satin or flannel pajamas. The same idea is repeated with broadcloth and satin. College girls, especially, prefer the woolen materials, as they do the hip-length house-coat which has quite boyish lines.

Major Events In History of Tuberculosis

Disease Has Decreased Greatly Since 1825—Known 25,000 Years Ago.

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

TUBERCULOSIS is a very old disease. Tuberculosis of the spine has been found in the skeletons of Egyptian mummies; one the Priest Amen, dating from the XXI Dynasty, 1090 B. C. Probably the oldest case of tuberculosis on earth was found in the spine of a Neolithic skeleton discovered near Heidelberg, Germany, approximately 25,000 years old.

Dr. Clendening

Hippocrates, the father of medicine, has many descriptions of tuberculosis in various parts of the body (400 B. C.). How prevalent it was then, we do not know. But we do know that ever since it became a reportable disease and boards of health have kept statistical records, it has been on the decline.

It is probable that the incidence of tuberculosis did not change until about the year 1825, and since then it has been sharply going down. In 1900, from which time our records are complete, there were 200 deaths per 100,000 population. About 1921 Dr. Louis L. Dublin published a paper in which he predicted that by 1930 the mortality would be close to 50 per 100,000. As a matter of fact, this was a very accurate guess, because it is approximately 54 per 100,000 nowadays.

This decline in so widespread a disease was not brought about by the discovery of any single methed of treatment or any single important method of prevention. Our ability to control a disease depends on full knowledge; in tuberculosis this knowledge has been completed bit by bit.

* * *

AFTER the original description by Hippocrates, no real advance in the study of tuberculosis was made for over 2000 years. In England a compendium by Richard Morton called "Phthisiologia," published in 1708, summarized the knowledge of his day. His treatment was simple and sensible, but he had no means of examining the patient's chest, no knowledge that the disease was spread by a germ.

Since then the major events in the history of tuberculosis have been as follows:

1761: The introduction of percussion in diseases of the chest by Auenbrugger.

1816: Bayle worked out the natural history of the disease. He showed, for instance, that hemorrhages from the lungs are the result and not the cause of tuberculosis, as was previously believed.

1819: Laennec invented the stethoscope to listen to the lungs. This enables physicans to tell whch patents have the dsease early.

In 1870 Villemin preached the doctrine of the contagiousness of tuberculosis. He told his students at the Val de Grace Hospital that "the phthisical soldier is to his messmate what the glandered horse is to its yokefellow."

1840: George Bodington recommended putting consumptives outdoors in the open air. This horrified contemporary opinion: before that consumptives were kept in an airtight room.

1859: The first successful sanatorium, that of Brehmer, was established. In 1882, the first American sanatorium was established at Saranac Lake, by Edward L. Trudeau. These men believed that tuberculosis could be cured. It was the first hopeful note.

1882: Koch found the germ which is the cause of tuberculosis.

1895: Roentgen discovered the X-ray.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a 3-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instruction for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Paper Selection For Home Interior

By Elizabeth Boykin

"THE paper hangers who came to estimate on the job of repapering our house really should have worn silk hats and come with their chauffeus and Rolls Royces," said our neighbor beyond the back fence. "At least their prices sounded that way to us in our present state of depleted finances. The upshot of it was that if there was any repapering to be done, we'd be doing it ourselves. It's a hard job, too, if anybody happens to ask you. But not impossible for the amateur who is reasonably careful. Anyway we think ours turned out pretty swell. I did the paste putting on and Nick did the paper putting up."

We agree about the results. Maybe an expert could spot the unprofessional touches, but nobody else would. Their living room they did in a sort of ashes of roses colored paper with an all over pattern that recedes pleasantly—the color is the main impression you get. With it they have plain turquoise draperies—quite a brilliant incisive shade—a light beige textured rug, slip covers of a large scale floral on a yellow ground, a tea set of turquoise pottery and quite a lot of brass.

Their bedroom they papered in yellow with a little white dot in the design. And hung blue and white checked tissue gingham curtains at the windows, made a bedspread and dressing table skirt to match and added some braided rugs with lots of blue in them. One upholstered chair they slip covered in plain blue and another in plain yellow. The furniture was maple and the woodwork white.

. . . Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for Miss Boykin's bulletin, "How to Make a Slip Cover That Won't Wrinkle or Bag." Now that slip covers are the fashion for year-around use, you'll want to have a copy of this bulletin—it's five pages long. Miss Boykin has another bulletin you might find useful—"How to Hang Wall Paper."

YOUR GIRL FRIDAY.

HER NAME WAS WALLIS WARFIELD -:- By EDWINA WILSON

The Friendship Between the Former King and Mrs. Simpson Grows, and She Is a Frequent Royal Guest—Divorce Proceedings.

CHAPTER TEN.

JAN. 21, 1936, in London the cry rang out, "The King is dead; long live the King!"

Edward VIII, at the instant of the death of his father, George V, became his successor. A day later, with traditional pomp and ceremony, Edward VIII was proclaimed King. Londoners, bare-headed and tremulous with emotion, heard the fanfare of trumpets, the thunder of saluting guns, and then the reading of the official proclamation. Bands played the national anthem and voices rose in chorus:

"Send him victorious, happy and glorious
Long to reign over us.
God save the King"——

At once the new King took over duties of state. In March, in his first radio broadcast he paid an eloquent tribute to his father and then said:

"It now falls upon me to succeed him and carry on his work.

"I am better known to most of you as the Prince of Wales—as the man who, during the war and since, has had an opportunity of getting to know people in nearly every country of the world, under all conditions and circumstances. And although I now speak to you as King, I am still that same man who has had that experience and whose constant effort it will be to continue to promote the well-being of my fellow men.

"May the future bring peace and understanding throughout the world and prosperity and happiness to the British Empire, and may we be worthy of the heritage that is ours."

It was a statement to give his subjects a glimpse of the nature of their new monarch.

Another picture which should be recorded is that of Westminster Abbey on Maundy Thursday, April 9.

Standing beside the Archbishop of Canterbury, Edward VIII that day distributed alms to 71 aged men and 71 women, some on crutches, many in worn and shabby clothes.

It was the former King's first public ceremony since his father's funeral. The tradition, hundreds of years old, is that Maundy Thursday the King shall make gifts of food, clothing and money to the poor and that there shall be one man and one woman for every year of his age.

Edward VIII, however, had specified that 71 men and 71 women should be present to receive gifts—as many as there would have been had King George been living.

Those who attended the ceremony say that, as the King walked down the aisle, his eyes raised to the reserved section where Wallis Simpson was standing. His gaze, clear and direct, did not leave her face until he took his place beside the Archbishop and began distributing the bags of money.

* * *

The Court Circular, which gives to readers of English newspapers a picture of events in the royal household each day, contained a single paragraph Thursday, May 28, 1936.

Beneath the facsimile of the royal arms this paragraph read:

"The King gave a Dinner Party at St. James's Palace this evening to which the following had the honor of being invited: Commander the Lord Louis Mountbatten; the Right Hon. Stanley Baldwin, M. P., and Mrs. Baldwin; Colonel the Lord Wigram and Lady Wigram; the Right Hon. A. Duff Cooper, M. P., and the Lady Diana Cooper; Lieut. Colonel and Hon. Piers Legh and the Hon. Mrs. Legh; Lady Cunard; Admiral of the Fleet Sir Ernle Chatfield and Lady Chatfield; Colonel Charles Lindbergh and Mrs. Lindbergh; and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Simpson."

It was news that caused much comment in London. There were further comments in August when King Edward set off with a group of friends for a cruise of the Adriatic on the "Nahlin," $1,350,000 yacht owned and leased to His Majesty by Lady Yule.

Lord and Lady Brownlow, Lady Diana Duff Cooper, and Mrs. Evelyn Fitzgerald were in the group. And so was Mrs. Simpson.

In the United States pictures of Edward and his friends, photographed on the cruise, began to appear in newspapers. Almost invariably these photographs showed Wallis Simpson beside the King. There was never the slightest attempt on his part to prevent such pictures being made. On the contrary, stories are told of local police seizing press cameras, only to have the King himself hand the cameras back to their owners.

At the end of the cruise not a newspaper reader in the United States was unaware of King Edward's friendship for Mrs. Simpson.

Back in England, the King spent some time at duties in London, then proceeded to Balmoral Castle in Scotland. The Court Circular a few days later announced that, at Balmoral, the King had guests — his brothers, the Duke of York and the Duke of Kent; the Duchess of York and the Duchess of Kent; the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough; the Duke and Duchess of Sutherland; the Duke and Duchess of Buccleuch and Queensberry; the Earl and Countess of Rosebery; Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rogers of New York; and Mrs. Simpson.

News wires added that when Mrs. Simpson and the Rogers arrived by train in Aberdeen the King was at the station to meet them, having driven 50 miles from Balmoral Castle, at the wheel of his own car.

When, a few days later, Mrs. Simpson returned to London she went to her new address on Cumberland Terrace. Ernest Simpson had moved, also, from the Bryanston Court apartment to the Guards' Club.

Still later—on Oct. 14—wire services, familiar now with the name of Wallis Simpson, flashed that name around the world. It blazed in headlines, in two-inch type. Wallis Simpson, the headlines said, had filed suit for divorce.

* * *

"I SWEAR by Almighty God the evidence I give to this Court shall be the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth."

Hand uplifted, Wallis Simpson took the oath in the ancient Assize Court at Ipswich, England. She stood behind the oaken panels of the witness box, addressing stern, bewigged Justice Sir John Anthony Hawke, in his robes of red, black and ermine. Beside him on the bench sat the High Sheriff, face immobile. Above them was the wine-colored canopy.

Outside, police guarded the big double gate in the courtyard. Five more, headed by a Sergeant, handled inspection passes at the outer door of the courtroom. And still seven more, four of them in plain clothes, faced the spectators near the press box, apparently on the outlook for cameras which had been barred. Smartly uniformed bailiffs were scattered throughout the courtroom.

It was the afternoon of Oct. 27, 1936. Guardsmen in scarlet tunics and black busbies had heralded the arrival of His Lordship Justice Hawke in court. The case of "Simpson W. vs. Simpson E. A." was the first on the schedule for the day.

The town of Ipswich was thronged with visitors. Newspaper reporters and correspondents for foreign services and photographers and news reel camera men were there by scores—the photographers, many of them, perched on roofs, the news reel men forbidden to bring their cameras. Reporters, allowed inside the courtroom, were kept within a restricted area of seats.

Lean, bespectacled Norman Birkett, Mrs. Simpson's attorney, entered the courtroom with her, sat beside her at a corner of the big table until Mrs. Simpson was called to the witness stand. On his right was his assistant, Walter Frampton.

The drama began:

"My Lord," said Mr. Birkett, addressing Justice Hawke, "I appear in this case with my learned friend, Mr. Frampton. I call the petitioner at once."

Mrs. Simpson arose and walked to the witness box. A clerk on the Judge's dais stood also and a police constable handed to Mrs. Simpson a New Testament, told her to raise her right hand and repeat, after him, the oath.

The words came clearly, distinctly. Then, as Counselor Birkett spoke again, Mrs. Simpson faced him.

"Your names are Wallis Simpson? You are now living at Beech House, Felixstowe?"

"Yes."

"Is your town address 16 Cumberland Terrace in Regent's Park?"

"Yes."

"You were married to Ernest Aldrich Simpson July 21, 1928, at the Registry Office in the District of Chelsea?"

"Yes."

"And I think that afterwards you lived with him at 12 Upper Berkeley street and Bryanston Court in London?"

"Yes."

"Has there been any issue of that marriage?"

"No."

"Did you live happily with the respondent until the autumn of 1934?"

"Yes."

"Was it at that time the respondent's manner changed toward you?"

"Yes."

"What was the change?"

"He was indifferent and often went away for week-ends alone."

"Did you complain about this?"

"Yes, I did."

"Did he continue to do what you complain of—going away alone and staying away week-ends?"

"Yes."

"On Christmas day, 1934, did you find a note lying on your dressing table?"

"Yes."

The note was produced and passed up to the Judge. Proceeding, Mrs. Simpson said that shortly after Easter of this year she received a letter in an envelope addressed to her although the contents appeared to be intended for her husband.

"Having read the contents of that letter," asked Mr. Birkett, "did you then consult your solicitor?"

"Yes."

"Upon your instructions, did they keep observations upon your husband?"

"Yes."

"Did they (the solicitors) report to you on the result of their observations?"

"Yes."

"Did you subsequently receive information upon which your petition in this present case is based?"

"Yes."

"On July 23 of this year did you write your husband this letter?" Mr. Birkett, as he spoke, picked up a letter and gave it to Mrs. Simpson. "Read the letter," he continued.

Mrs. Simpson read, rather slowly, "Dear Ernest I have just learned that while you have been away, instead of being on business as you led me to believe, you have been staying at the Hotel Bray with a lady. I am sure you realize this is conduct which I cannot possibly overlook and must insist you do not continue to live here with me. This only confirms the suspicions I have had for a long time. I am therefore instructing my solicitors to take proceedings for divorce."

It was, Mrs. Simpson confirmed, the letter she had written to her husband.

Mr. Birkett then handed her a form, asking, "Would you just look at this registration form? In whose handwriting is the signature on that form?"

"Mr. Simpson's."

"Your husband's?"

"Yes."

"Is that in the name of Ernest Arthur Simmons?"

"Yes."

Mr. Birkett then turned, and, with a bow, said "Thank you." Mrs. Simpson returned to her seat and sat there, listening, as other witnesses were called.

Continued Tomorrow.

1. —This is one of the most important questions for both teachers and parents to watch in children. Studies show that we do our best—especially children—when matched with equals. This is the great advantage of separating school classes and college students into about three grades—the fasts, averages and slows. Put a fast and a slow boy together and if the task fits the slow boy, the fast one loses interest—and usually with his active mind gets into mischief; if the task fits the fast boy, the slow boy just does not know what it is all about—and likewise usually gets into mischief. Same is true of older people.

2. —Certainly it would, because the older age at which women marry, the fewer children they will have, on the average. Not only does this decrease the population as a whole, but, of course, decreases the size of individual families and this affects the consumption of foods, clothing, the building of houses, the taxes for public schools and a thousand other things. You see from this that any change in marriage customs may in time change the whole tone and temper of a nation's life.

3. —In the novel, "Edna, His Wife"—a strong, penetrating study of the worthy, well-meaning, but slow-thinking wife married to a brilliant, overbearing, clever man, Edna, who realized her slowness, reasons. (Paraphrased) "Dullness is a human quality and at least not aggressive and overbearing like cleverness. Why should the clever impose upon the stupid a standard of weights and measures they cannot live up to and which only make them uncomfortable?" Brilliant people who want to get along happily must learn to be tolerant with slow people, because most of us are slow and are unhappy when clever people expect too much of us.

"Many Failures Result From Self-Defeat"

By The Rev. J. F. Newton

IT is amazing how many letters reach me from people who are reckoning themselves as failures. They have lost faith in life; nothing matters much to them because they themselves do not matter.

Young people are afraid of life. They feel unequal to it. The struggle terrifies them. The middle-aged are disgusted with it, bored by it. Older people are disappointed and saddened by it.

Leaving out of account crises, when some love affair has gone wrong, or some pampered egotist cannot eat his cake and have it, too, surely this is a strange and appalling state of mind and heart.

To be sure, one of the terrors of unemployment lies just here. A man feels that he is not wanted. His help is worth nothing. Society has no use for him, and the iron enters into his soul.

But many of those who write themselves down as failures have gained for themselves what others would be glad enough to have. Yet they have come to the conclusion that they do not count.

For some reason life has not given them what they wanted most. Their dreams have not come true. They have fallen into a pit of dismay, wondering what it is all about and if it is worth while.

Facts seem to have nothing to do with this mood. Many to whom life has been kind are as sulky and sour as those whom it has treated harshly—often more so. Life is simply deflated.

They see themselves too small, because the world has trampled on them, or, it may be, because not very long ago they saw themselves too big. No matter, they expect from life more than it has to give.

It is always so when religious faith grows dim. Life loses luster, its music falls to a lower octave; it becomes humdrum. Life is no longer outgrowing but ingrowing—and so it goes stale.

Self-defeated, they think life is a failure. Too self-centered, they have become self-cynical, and think of themselves too meanly. What all of us need is to get ourselves off our hands!

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

YOU used to be punished for making faces like this but now you are richly rewarded with a smooth contour and a young appearance. Put cold cream on your face and let it soak in before you start—then be sure no one is watching you, and begin.

Sit in front of a mirror. Twist the mouth to the right. Do this by simply pulling the right corner of the mouth upward toward the right ear as far as you can and then holding the position while you count 15. Relax and return to starting position slowly. Repeat pulling the left corner of the mouth toward the left ear. While contracting the facial muscles be certain to do it slowly. Count 15 while you contract as well as while you hold the contraction. Then another 15 while you relax.

You may have these facial exercises if you will send a 3-cent stamped self-addressed envelope to me with your request. Address Josephine Lowman in care of St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

HERE'S HOW TO HELP END A COLD QUICKER

The 3 Minute VapoRub Massage

Massage VapoRub briskly on the throat, chest and back (between and below the shoulder blades). Then spread it thick over the chest and cover with warmed cloth.

It takes so little time—it does so much—this 3-Minute VapoRub Massage!

Almost before you finish rubbing, VapoRub starts to bring relief two ways at once—two direct ways:

1. Through the Skin. VapoRub acts direct through the skin like a poultice or plaster.

2. Medicated Vapors. At the same time, its medicated vapors, released by body heat, are breathed in for hours—about 18 times a minute—direct to the irritated air-passages.

This combined poultice-and-vapor action loosens phlegm—relieves irritation—helps break congestion. While the little patient relaxes into comfortable sleep, VapoRub keeps right on working. Often, by morning the worst of the cold is over.

Avoids Risk of Stomach Upsets

This safe, external treatment cannot possibly upset the stomach, as constant internal "dosing" is so apt to do. It can be used freely, as often as needed, even on the youngest child.

OYSTER CANAPES

Cut rounds of bread one and a half inch thick. Remove centers, leaving just a shell. Brush inside and out with melted butter. For eight servings coarsely chop one quart of well drained oysters and season highly with worcestershire sauce, tobasco, celery salt, a little chopped celery, catsup and lemon juice. After blending fill the crutards. Dot with butter and place in a moderately hot oven long enough to toast the bread and thoroughly heat the oysters. Form a circle on top of chopped olives. Serve hot on individual plates, garnished with watercress and lemon curls.

STUFFED CELERY

Mash one-eighth pound of Roquefort cheese and one-fourth pound cream cheese with a silver fork. Blend with the juice of one lemon, one-half teaspoon of worcestershire sauce, salt, paprika and four tablespoons of mayonnaise. Force through a pastry tube into the tender celery stalks.

BRAISED SILVER SKINNED ONIONS

Peel and cook 12 onions until half done, then drain. Melt one-half cup of butter and one and a half cups of brown sugar in a frying pan, add the drained onions and bake slowly until well browned.

CHESTNUT PUREE

Boil a quart of peeled chestnuts and mash, then force through a ricer. Add a liberal amount of heated cream and butter, salt and pepper and beat until very light.

CROWN ROAST OF PORK

Have the butcher trim two loins of pork containing the ribs and shape each piece in a semi-circle, having ribs outside and when put together forming a crown. Tie or sew together and fill center with sausage meat. On tip of each rib place a square of salt pork to prevent ends of bones from burning.

Dust the roast with salt, pepper and flour and place in oven to brown. Add one cup of water to pan, cover tightly and cook from two to two and a half hours according to size of roast. Baste frequently. About 15 minutes before serving remove fat from pan and pour on the barbecue sauce.

BARBECUE SAUCE

One large bottle of catsup.
One-quarter cup of mild vinegar.
One teaspoon of tobasco.
One-quarter cup drippings from pan.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One cup water.
Beat well and heat.

PARISIENNE POTATOES

To three cups of freshly mashed potatoes add one-third cup of rich, heated cream, two teaspoons of chopped chives, one teaspoon of lemon juice, one teaspoon of powdered sugar, salt and white pepper to taste. Beat until fluffy and pile roughly into a heat-resisting dish, dot with butter and sprinkle with paprika. Run under flame to brown

MINCE MEAT CHIFFON PIE

One scant tablespoon of gelatin.
One-quarter cup of cold water.
One-quarter cup of brandy.
One-third cup lemon juice.
Two cups of mince meat.
Two eggs, separated.
One-half cup granulated sugar.
Baked pastry shell.

Soften the gelatin in the fourth cup of cold water. Add the mince meat and lemon juice to the beaten egg yolks and heat in the double boiler, stirring constantly, until the mixture thickens. Remove from fire, add the gelatin and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Cool, add the brandy and stir until beginning to set. Beat the egg whites with a pinch of salt, and gradually add the sugar, beating until stiff and smooth. Fold into the mince meat mixture and pour into the baked pie shell. Place in refrigerator. Before serving pipe with whipped cream.

Setting Up a Horoscope.

Anyone can learn to set up a horoscope. It requires no more mathematical ability than is required to add and subtract and tell the time. The actual setting up of the horoscope, when the data of birth are known, calls for only about half an hour on the part of the person familiar with the procedure. And then comes the interpretation! Horoscope interpretation is a mighty big study.

Courting Attack By Strange Dogs

By Albert Payson Terhune

DO you go up to strange dogs in the street or in a friend's home, and pat them and make silly sounds at them? Speaking for myself, I don't. In the first place, I want strangers to let me alone and to keep their hands off me; and it is only fair that I extend the same courtesy, not only to such humans but to dogs as well. In the second place, I don't crave to be bitten. Here is the idea:

If I should walk up to a human stranger in the street, and croon at him and rumple his ears, there is a strong probability that he swat me in the jaw or knock me down. And no police court Judge would penalize him for doing it. I would have brought the punishment on myself by my own rash idiocy. Yet if I do the same thing to a strange dog, and if he resents the gross familiarty and discomfort by biting me, I brand him as a vicious cur and I perhaps bring a damage suit against his owner.

There are more savage humans, in proportion than savage dogs. Yet we tempt attack by trying familiarties with strange dogs; and we dodge the same kind of disaster by letting strange humans alone. Not very logical, are we; nor very just?

Notes on New Motion Pictures For the Week

Story of River Life on Screen—Mystery, Romance and Dance Films.

PRE-CHRISTMAS picture bills got under way yesterday with "Banjo on My Knee" and "Career Woman" at the Fox Theater. "Banjo on My Knee," starring Barbara Stanwyck and Joel McCrea, is a romantic music drama of life among the shanty-boaters on the lower Mississippi River. McCrea plays a young boatman, Miss Stanwyck his bride who runs away and takes a job in a New Orleans waterfront cafe. Katherine DeMille plays the romantic opposition, Walter Brennan is a one-man band artists who straightens out the love affair. Others in the cast are Walter Catlett, Anthony Martin, Helen Westley and Buddy Ebsen. All scenes were filmed at the studio, where a huge tank was used for a river setting, and fire-hoses, hidden under the surface of the water, created the river currents. The story, from a novel by Harry Hamilton, was adapted to the screen by Nunnally Johnson. John Cromwell directed the picture. Song numbers are "St. Louis Blues," "'Sippy," "There's Something in the Air," "Where the Lazy River Goes By" and "With a Banjo on My Knee."

In "Career Woman" Claire Trevor, a young law school graduate, becomes interested in the case of a backwoods girl, Isabel Jewell, who has accidentally killed her father and is charged with murder. Seeking publicity for himself, Michael Whalen, big city lawyer, gets into the case to assist Miss Trevor with the defense, causes a near-riot in the backwoods community, and Miss Trevor handles the defense alone.

* * *

OPENING at the Ambassador tomorrow is "Hideaway Girl," mystery romance in which Shirley Ross, Robert Cummings and Martha Raye have leading roles. Cummings, wealthy young man, meets a fleeting bride, Miss Ross, and hides her from police, first at a yacht club and then on his yacht. Miss Raye is a member of the party of guests he takes on the yacht with him. The final solution has to do with the return of stolen jewelry and the revelation of Miss Ross' real identity. Several song numbers are introduced by Miss Ross and Miss Raye. The Ambassador "Hit Parade" show will feature Ted Claire, Broadway musical star, the Rhythm Redheads, Ruby Kane George Byron, Al Dee and his band.

* * *

"BENGAL TIGER," starring Barton MacLane, with June Travis and Warren Hull, and "The Man Who Lived Twice," featuring Ralph Bellamy, Marian Marsh and Isabel Jewell, will form the main portion of the program at the Missouri, beginning tomorrow. "Bengal Tiger" is the story of a wild animal trainer, MacLane, who marries Miss Travis, daughter of a best friend. Later, the young wife mets and falls in love with Warren Hull, aerial performer at the circus. MacLane eventually throws Hull into the cage with a savage tiger, but heeding his wife's pleas, rescues Hull, at the cost of his own life. In "The Man Who Lived Twice," Bellamy is a dangerous killer who is transformed by a brain operation and becomes a noted surgeon. His past is revealed by a former woman associate, Isabel Jewell, however, and he has to face trial for murder. Several short subjects go with the two feature pictures.

* * *

THE two Shubert features tomorrow will be "The President's Mystery," featuring Henry Wilcoxon and Betty Furness, and "Hearts in Bondage," starring James Dunn and Mae Clarke. "The President's Mystery," from a plot idea furnished by President Roosevelt and developed by six leading authors, is about a captain of industry who disposes of all his holdings and starts again in a new environment. "Hearts in Bondage," directed by Lew Ayres, young screen star, revolves around the building of the early ironclad vessel, the Monitor, and its history-making battle with the Merrimac, in the Civil War.

* * *

Loew's Theater is holding over "Born to Dance" until Christmas day, when "Camille," starring Greta Garbo and Robert Taylor, arrives. The Orpheum's present program, "Three Men on a Horse" and "Pennies From Heaven," remains an additional week also.

The second-run picture attraction at the St. Louis Theater, beginning today, is "The Big Broadcast of 1937," with Jack Benny, George Burns and Gracie Allen, Martha Raye, Shirley Ross and others. On the stage are the Randolph Avery Trio, comedy act, Jack Leonard, comedian, LeRoy and His Pals, the Roxyettes and Freddy Mack's band.

Fruit Balls, Coconut Coated

One cup chopped figs.
Two cups chopped dates.
One cup chopped raisins.
One-half cup chopped dried apricots.
One-half cup chopped candied pineapple.
Two tablespoons lemon juice.
One tablespoon orange juice.
Two cups coconut.

Mix all the ingredients except the coconut. Shape into balls two-thirds inch in diameter and roll in coconut. Place on waxed paper to stiffen.

Suggestions For The Use Of Cosmetics

By Helen Jameson

IS IT a wonder that the cosmetic shopper is bewildered when she looks upon counters and glass cases filled with beauty aids? They're all there, the fragrant calcimine for the complexion, the coloring to create the blush on the alabaster cheek, cherry tints for the lips, enchanting shadows for the eyes. But which ones are for her? Which ones will flatter? Which will make her "look like that?"

It's unfair to howl out the girls who aren't successful with the application of facial batik. One has to have the seeing eye to make the best selections of pigment, and a restraining hand when applying it. We do think we're justified in protesting when rouge is piled on heavily, because a thick coating of carmine makes a girl look like sin. As for choosing tints and coloring, well, one almost needs professional advice when picking them out. A cosmetic chemist will produce 15 different shades of rouge. And, judging by labels, hundreds of chemists are devoting their time to the cause of good looks.

Let's get down to brass tacks, figure things out. When the complexion is fair, hair dark, the powder should be deeper than the skin tone. A blend of ivory and rose will give more life to the complexion than one of ivory or ochre. With it, rouge should be a faint coral, geranium or orange, according to the color of the eyes.

* * *

THE blonde beauty is likely to fancy that her best powder choice is a faint rose tint. But it isn't. Nearly always the blonde has a golden cast to her skin. She should select that indefinite tone—called by various names by chemists—that is suggestive of the tea rose. Combined with rouge of cardinal red laid on lightly—oh, ever and ever, so stingily—it produces a natural effect, giving to the complexion a lovely delicate porcelain-like finish.

She of the florid skin believes that her problems are the toughest any woman ever had. Yet, would you believe it, a powder of rachelle mixed with a little green powder will tone down those ruddy hues. No rouge for that lady! And a little diet hint to her right now; no fried foods, no gravies, pastries, condiments or rich sauces. She need not have that altogether too flambouyant skin.

CHOOSE BUTTER WISELY

WE ALL have heard the blunt comment "There is no excuse for poor cooking." Well, there may not be an excuse, but there IS a reason. The use of second rate materials will always result in mediocre dishes, and women who produce appetizing meals know that good ingredients are largely responsible for their success.

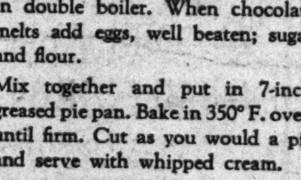
Take the matter of butter, for instance. Almost every recipe calls for generous amounts of this dairy product, and if the quantity is reduced, or substitutions made, disappointment in the finished product is almost inevitable. It is certainly false economy to save a few cents, and spoil a dish that could have been delicious had the directions been followed accurately.

The flavor and creamy richness of Pevely Butter is distinctive and something "just as good" won't give the same results. Remember this when you try the two excellent recipes below:

FUDGE PIE
2 squares bitter chocolate
¼ lb. Pevely Butter
2 eggs
1 cup sugar
¼ cup sifted flour
½ pint Pevely Double Cream

Shave chocolate and put with butter in double boiler. When chocolate melts add eggs, well beaten; sugar and flour.

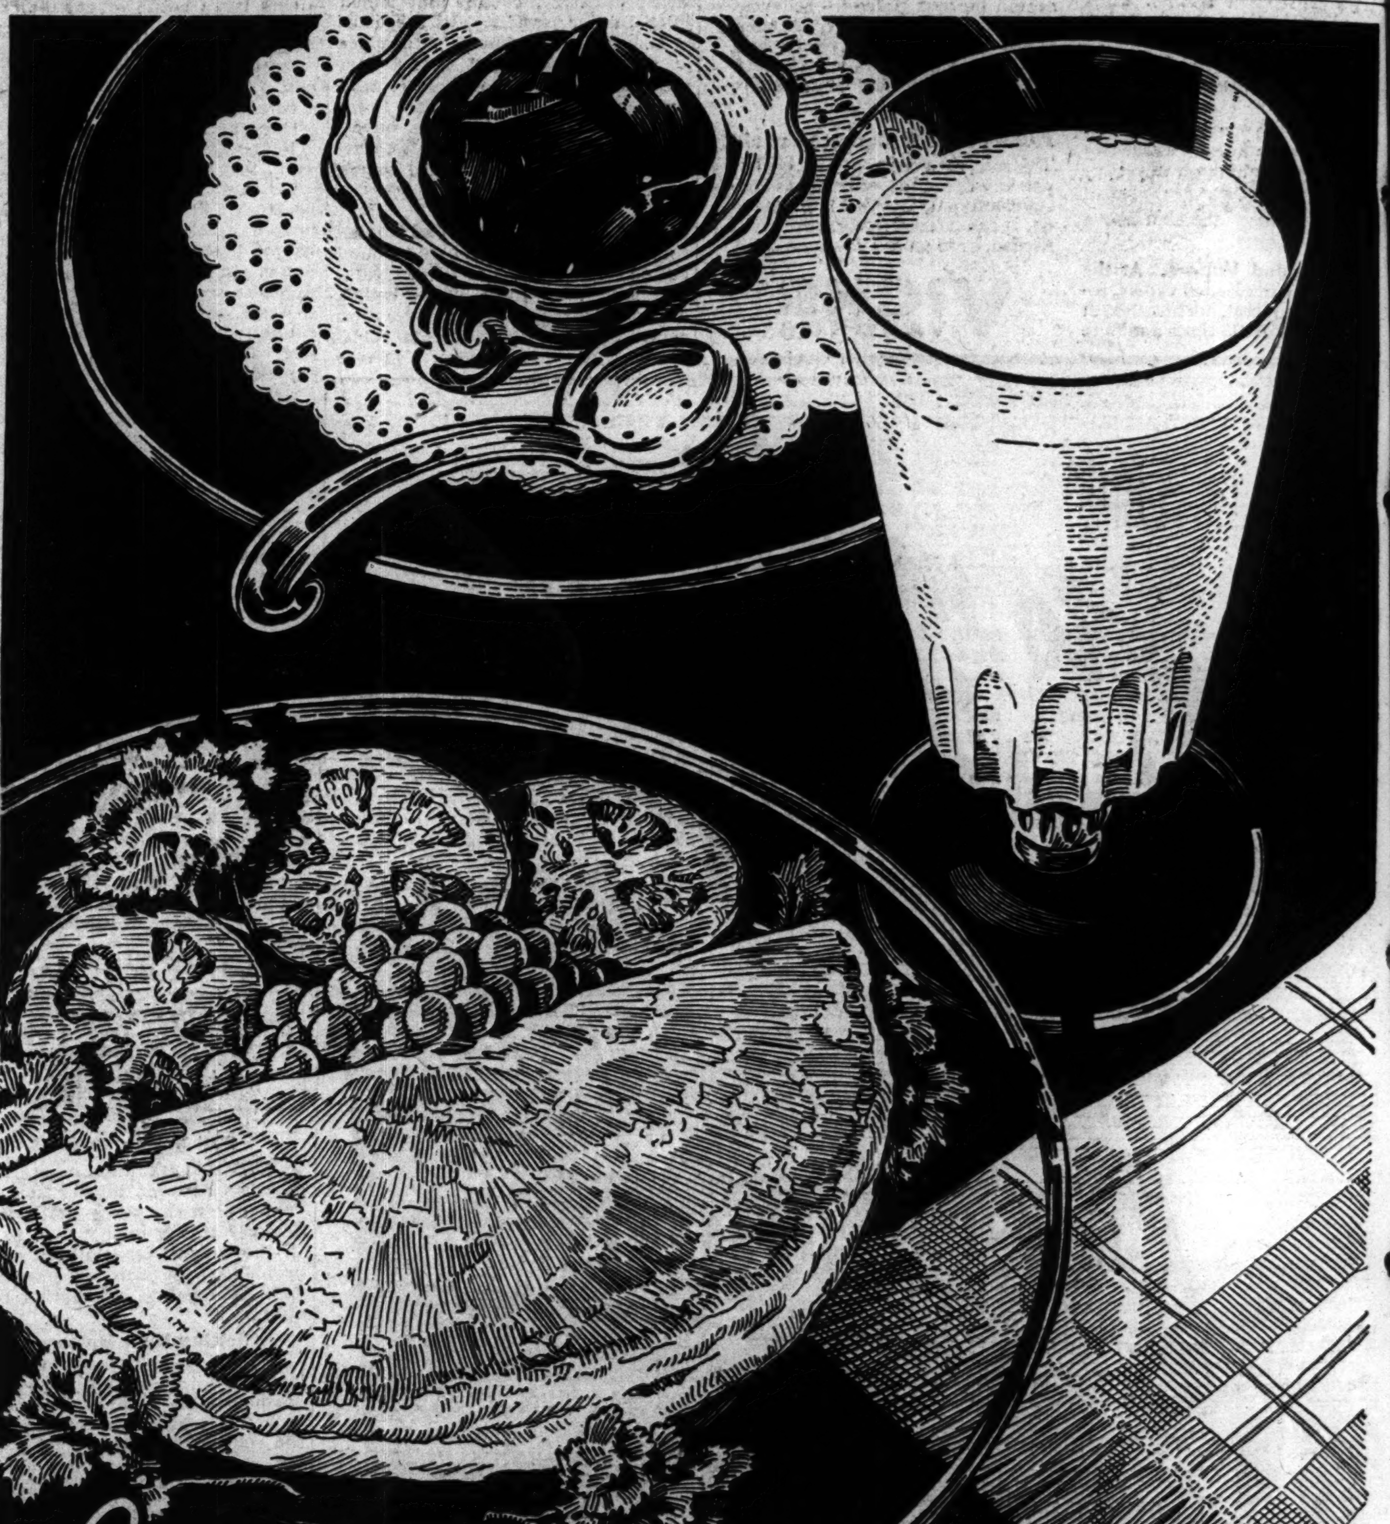
Mix together and put in 7-inch greased pie pan. Bake in 350° F. oven until firm. Cut as you would a pie and serve with whipped cream.



RUM BUTTER SAUCE
½ lb. Pevely Butter
1 cup powdered sugar, sifted
1 teaspoon mace
1 wine glass rum, brandy or sherry

Cream butter. Add powdered sugar slowly. Cream well together. Beat until very light. Add mace and rum. Delicious on puddings or in any instance where hard sauce would be used.

AND here is one more pointer on butter. Pevely is offering a new butter cover dish that is attractive on your table and convenient in your refrigerator. It is made of crystal glass and takes one stick of butter at a time and keeps it fresh and firm. This novel dish costs only 19c with two one-lb. empty Pevely Butter cartons. Order from your Pevelyman or grocer or phone me at GRand 4400.



Your omelet... but whose milk?

YOU may be sure of the goodness of Pevely Milk—for every safeguard to make it pure and safe is provided.

Pevely's rigid rules of sanitation extend to the farms where Pevely Milk is produced. Farms and cows are regularly inspected. Pevely's glass-walled, sunlit plant—the first in St. Louis—is a model of cleanliness.

We have invested millions in modern equipment—pasteurizing, bottling, refrigerating—to give you a superior milk of highest quality and purity.

Order Pevely Milk today and you will quickly find out why more St. Louis women purchase more milk from Pevely than from any other dairy. We will be glad to have you phone GRand 4400.

Say Merry Christmas this year with a Gift of foods.

PICK-UP -:- -:- By WADE WILEY
The Daily Short Story

AS THE elevated train rolled to a stop with a slight, abrupt jerk, Jimmy Travis eased his six feet-plus of hard young manhood out of the door and stepped out upon the station platform. Indecisively he looked up and down the long, wooden stretch.

The long, slanting rays of the late afternoon sun reached down, somehow finding their way through the maze of the city's deep canyons, and splotched bright pools of golden light among the perpetually dim reaches of the platform. Jimmy strolled over to a bench under the protecting canopy and sat down.

A slight scowl etched itself momentarily upon his countenance as he looked with disfavor at the scene spread before his eyes, at the drab plainness of it all. Trains arrived, disgorged passengers and took on fresh ones. Jimmy scrutinized the former hopefully and disregarded the latter after a brief inventory as they stood singly or in groups, just waiting.

Jimmy permitted himself a short laugh which held in it no hint of mirth. Imagine being detailed to such a job! One of the best detectives on the bureau assigned to nabbing a woman who had been reported to the department as making a practice of picking up men at this station!

The humor of the situation was entirely lost upon Jimmy. Could he help it if he was young and passably handsome? No doubt he showed up as a very Adonis against some of the older and more battered members of the bureau. So he was made the goat.

He glanced briefly at his watch. It was 4:30, just before the rush hour when the hordes of office and store employes would pour out of the tall buildings and jam themselves into the street cars and busses and elevated trains homeward bound. The chief had told him to watch especially carefully then.

Jimmy mustered a cheerful and expectant look he was far from feeling honest about. He had a job, disagreeable in the extreme, and he had to look pleasant about it on top of it all!

The girl must have been standing there for some minutes, Jimmy reasoned, as his eyes casually came to rest where she had stationed herself in front of the advertising placards on the railing. For the life of him he couldn't have told where she had come from. He had watched the ticket cage and the incoming trains.

His hand made an unconscious straightening gesture with his tie and no longer was the smile just another prop affair. The girl possessed a pulse-stirring quality, which, if it wasn't real beauty, bordered dangerously upon the genuine thing. Jimmy was acutely conscious of the effortless grace, the poise she exhibited in the mere gesture of standing still.

Between glances at the other passengers on the platform, Jimmy discerned that the girl had a rather remarkable profile, with long lashes which swept her cheeks, it seemed, when she closed her eyes momentarily against the sun. With an effort the young detective forced his attention away from her and back to his duty, but even when he looked elsewhere the girl's image was lined clearly upon the back of his consciousness.

Ten minutes passed. Then 20. Jimmy began to wonder at the girl's actions. He supposed she was waiting for someone for she flicked an expectant glance over the people who got off trains and watched anxiously those who came out upon the platform. The rush hour came and went. Finally she boarded a train and vanished.

Regretfully, Jimmy watched the last coach of the train disappearing round a curve. If he hadn't been on duty there was no telling what might have happened. And now he most probably would never have the opportunity of finding out, he thought. And he was still young enough to relish adventure!

* * *

THE following afternoon Jimmy found himself proceeding along the same general plan of action. Already he was weary of the ceaseless scanning of faces, the enforced inactivity. And then he almost fell off his seat as he realized that the mysterious girl of the previous afternoon was advancing toward him from the ticket stile.

He knew it was a trick of his imagination, but it seemed to him that, as her eyes fell upon him, they accorded him a very momentary flash of recognition. As if in rehearsal, events moved almost exactly as they had done the day before. The girl took up a position near to Jimmy and this time he detected that she was giving him a covert examination.

It was all so imbued with a touch of unreality that Jimmy was not at all surprised when the girl took the few steps that intervened between them and sat down upon the station bench in disturbing proximity. A heady, intangible fragrance detached itself and was wafted to Jimmy's nostrils. And then she spoke.

"Are you looking for someone?" she questioned. Jimmy felt his face becoming flushed at the sound of the dulcet voice. And then a horrible thought struggled for recognition. This was the woman he had been detailed to find! It must be!

"To be truthful, I was," he admitted. No matter how painful this might prove to be, he had to play the game! "I was looking for a girl, or a woman," he concluded lamely. The girl's eyes searched him. It was going to be damnably hard to go through with.

"I thought as much," she offered. "I've been watching you for two days, you know." Suddenly the smile faded from her eyes and was replaced by an impersonal look. "Will you please come with me?" Jimmy sighed. He had his proof . . . and his duty.

"On the contrary, perhaps you will be good enough to come with me!" He showed her his detective badge. "You're the woman I was detailed to bring in for picking up men at this station!"

The girl gasped, and then burst out into soft laughter. "Maybe some time when you're not on duty!" she chuckled, fumbling in her handbag. "I'm Patricia Lyons of the morals division, detailed to bring in a masher who's been annoying women lately on this station!" And in her hand she displayed the twin of Jimmy's badge!

Maple Circles

One and one-half cups flour.
Three teaspoons baking powder.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
Four tablespoons fat.
One-half cup milk.
One-third cup maple sugar.
Two tablespoons soft butter.
One-fourth teaspoon cinnamon.

Mix flour with baking powder and salt. Cut in fat with knife, slowly add milk until soft dough forms. Pat it out until one-fourth inch thick. Spread with rest of ingredients and roll up. Cut off slices one-half inch thick and place, flat sides up, on greased baking sheet. Bake 12 minutes in moderate oven.

Use House Plants for Window Decorations

WHAT a charming window decoration these little potted plants make!

Heart-shaped philodendron, trailing ivy, rosy-leaved coleus and shy begonia make this tiny window the center of interest in the room. Pottery jars in ivory and vivid blue-green rest on ten cent glass shelves. For a larger window have glass shelves cut to size.

A south window's best for this lovely picture—though you'll have to remove the begonia during hours of strong sunlight. East is excellent, west fair for decorative plant arrangements. Even a sunless north window is charming with shade-loving ferns and foliage plants.

Our 32-page booklet tells best exposures, temperatures and easy care for ferns, foliage, flowering plants and cacti. How to force bulbs, raise plants in water, make daily dish gardens. Beautify your house with plants!

Send 10c for your copy of MAKING PLANTS AND FLOWERS GROW INDOORS to St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Home Service, 635 Sixth ave., New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Italian Hamburg

Chop two onions and brown in one tablespoon olive oil, adding one teaspoon sugar. Turn in one pound ground hamburg steak and stir until well browned, sprinkling over the meat as it cooks one-half teaspoon pepper, one teaspoon salt and one-half teaspoon paprika. Add two cups tomato pulp and cook gently for 20 minutes. Meantime, cook one cup broken spaghetti in boiling salted water. When tender, drain, rinse with cold water and stir into the meat. Cook for 10 minutes, adding water if necessary. Serve on a warmed platter and sprinkle well with grated cheese as a garnish.
